Pneumonia Lays Firm Hold on Pope Leo and One of His Lungs Is Paralyzed.

ARTIFICIAL AGENCIES USED IN PROLONGING HIS LIFE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Sun correspondent at Rome at 5:25 a. m sends the following:

There is a persistent rumor that the pope is dead and that the announcement to that effect will be officially made at 6 o'clock. It is impossible to verify the report. Both physicians are now in the pope's room.

A special cable to the New York American says:

ROME, July 7.—6:55 a. m.—There is reason to believe the pope's death has just occurred, but is being concealed.

Rome, July 7, 12:15 a. m. (Tuesday)—At 9 o'clock one of the pope's lungs became completely paralyzed and the disease is extending rapidly to the other. At 10 o'clock he was given a strong injection of caffeine. The pope then almost lost consciousness. Mgr. Mazzoni has left the vatican, as nothing more can be done.

Repeated doses of chloral have enabled the pontiff to sleep, but contrary to previous nights, artificial respiration is continued and Dr. Lapponi goes every five minutes to the bedside to observe the patient and listen to his breathing.

3:55 a. m.—Another morning has broken on the pathetic scene within the simple chamber of the vatican, where Pope Leo lies dying. As the soft light of dawn penetrated into the room the pontiff whispered to his devoted physician that he desired the shutters of the windows to be opened, saying:

"I wish to see once more, perhaps for the last time, the rays of the sun."

It is just a short while that the pope came back to consciousness from a sleep which Dr. Lapponi had induced by a strong dose of chloral. His sleep was so deathlike that artificial respiration was continued and Dr. Lapponi every few minutes leaned anxiously over the couch to observe the illustrious patient and listen to his hardly perceptible breathing. Pope Leo awoke wet with perspiration, feeble to the extreme and his voice hardly audible. The fits of coughing had brought pains in his chest and shoulders, and thinking his end was now near he said to Dr. Lapponi:

"Tell me when the time really comes."

The doctor assured his holiness that he believed the danger of his immediate passing was averted for the night and for today.

These seemingly last moments of Pope Leo are full of solemnity. Perhaps his last hours would be less melancholy and sad if the august sufferer were less conscious of the circumstances and his mind less clear as to the duration of time remaining to him before he enters eternity.

Count Camillo Pecci, the pope's nephew whom the dying man kept by his bedside yesterday was so exhausted late last night by his contending emotions, that he had to be taken from his uncle's room, completely worn out. A few moments before, as he stood bowed beside the bed, Pope Leo laid his hand on his head with paternal affection saying: "Take courage."

Shortly after 10 o'clock at night the pontiff received the extreme unction. At 9 o'clock his condition seemed so hopeless that only a short time apparently remained before he would glide into his last sleep. At Dr. Lapponi's initiative a hasty consultation of the pope's relatives, Cardinal Rampolla and other ecclesiastics was held, and it was decided that extreme unction should be given. The pontiff received the announcement with his usual calmness, and though scarcely able to speak audibly, he said he knew his time had come and he was ready to appear before the sublime tribunal with full trust in the divine mercy.

Monsignor Pifferi, Pope Leo's confessor, administered the extreme unction, and when the ceremony was over his holiness sank back on the pillow with apparent great relief that all was done and that he was entering into rest after his long pilgrimage.

From the piazza of St. Peter's the groups of watchers can see figures flitting to and from past the lighted windows of the palace, an unusual number of which are illuminated.

Last evening the pope grew worse and the news spreading, together with the tone of the last bulletin, caused considerable alarm. Dr. Mazzoni repeated in substance what Dr. Lapponi said yesterday afternoon, adding that it is necessary to keep up the pontiff's strength through artificial respiration. The doctors do not believe, as some predict, that a catastrophe will occur during the night and Dr. Mazzoni expressed the opinion that Pope Leo might live perhaps two days, without

FOUR LOVERS FOUND DEATH IN THE FLOOD

Sad Fate of Two Young Couples Who Were Soon to Be Wedded.

LIE DEAD, SIDE BY SIDE

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Jeannette, Pa., July 6.—Pathetic amid the horror of the flood is the story of the fate of four persons—two girls and two men. Each couple was to have been married shortly, but all were drowned. Strange, too, is the fact that each man's name was Brown.

Miss Eva May Wigginton and Albert J. Brown of Pittsburgh were to have been married this fall. Miss Sissy Bird of this place and James Brown of West Jeannette were to have been married next Thursday.

Albert J. Brown is a son of the Rev. N. L. Brown, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Wylie avenue, Pittsburgh. He lived with his parents at No. 39 Junilla street, in that city and was employed as a ruler by Samuel A. Stewart, manufacturer of book blanks at No. 210 Third avenue. At one time he was a messenger in the Pittsburgh department of public safety, having been appointed by Maj. A. M. Brown. He was 25 years old.

Lovers from Childhood.

Albert's fiancee, Miss Wigginton, was 21 years old and lived with her widowed mother in Watt street, two blocks from the Brown home. Her father was Thomas Wigginton, who died three years ago. The two had been friends from youth up and had formed a great attachment for each other. The engagement was announced recently, and although no date had been fixed, it was generally understood they were to be married this fall.

Miss Wigginton has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Desley, at Chestnut street and Pennsylvania avenue, North Irwin. Brown came up to Irwin on Friday last to spend the Fourth with his fiancee and her sister. On Sunday they

SEVEN PEOPLE KILLED IN EVANSVILLE RIOT

Serious Clash Between the Rioters and Militia on Guard at the Jail—The Mob Rules the Town.

Evansville, Ind., July 6.—Seven persons were killed and 20 injured tonight in a battle between the militia and the rioters. The mob is in control of the city and it is reported that they intend to burn Baptist town, the negro settlement.

THE DEAD.

EDWARD SCHIFFMAN, painter, top of head blown off with rifle.
HAZEL ALLMAN, 15-year-old daughter of Joseph H. Allman, shot in breast with shotgun.
JOHN BARRETT, shot in right lung; died in St. Mary's hospital.
AUGUST JORDAN, 16, musician, bullet wound through heart.
EDWARD RULE, 23 years old, laborer, shot through body and head; killed instantly.
TWO UNIDENTIFIED MEN, lying in front of jail.

THE WOUNDED.

FRED SCHMIDT, driver for brewing company, seriously shot in leg and arm; taken to his home.
FRED KAPPLER, son of City Fireman Henry Keppler, buckshot charge in face and body wounds serious; will die.
LEE HAWLEY, lattorer, shot in leg.
ROBERT MILLER, shot in cheek; not serious.
CHARLES PEESLEY, aged 17, grocery boy, shot through left wrist and bullet wounds in both heels.
THEODORE BEEM, aged 20, shot in right side; painful flesh wound.
JOHN FARES, aged 48, shot in head and hip; may die.
ALBERT BAEUSS, soldier, shot while picking up wounded rioter; hit in right arm; not serious.

Six other rioters were seen to fall but got away before their names were learned. At least that number more are suspected of being hurt.

Four members of Company A, First regiment, suffered bullet and buck shot wounds on the body; one of them is shot through the shoulder, another through the ankle, and the two others have slight scratches.

Two deputy sheriffs were slightly wounded.

The first clash between the militia and citizens occurred this afternoon, when a man was stuck with a bayonet when he attempted to force his way past the guards at the jail. This evening another man was stabbed in trying to go past a sentry. Many incendiary speeches have been made against the militia.

The grand jury today indicted Lee Brown, the negro who killed Patrolman Massey, for murder in the first degree. Massey was buried under direction of the Knights Templar.

Gov. Durbin ordered the militia out, the companies at New Albany, Terre Haute and Vincennes to go into active service, and the Indianapolis companies to stand in reserve.

LONG LIST OF VICTIMS OF JEANNETTE FLOOD

Two of the Dead, Whose Bodies Have Been Recovered Were Residents of Pittsburgh. Many Are Missing.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Jeannette, Pa., July 6.—The following are the dead, missing and injured so far reported, but many others whose names have not been learned are thought to be buried beneath the piles of debris strewn everywhere, or carried with the rushing waters to the Monongahela river:

OAKFORD PARK WRECKED BY DAM-RELEASED FLOOD

Army of Men Searching in the Debris for Bodies. Hundreds Without Homes and Penniless. Appeal Comes for Aid.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Jeannette, Pa., July 6.—As a result of the breaking of the Oakford park dam yesterday 22 persons are known to be dead, 17 are missing and 7 injured. The property loss in the valley may reach $1,500,000, and the distress is so great that outside relief will have to be given.

The real extent of yesterday's disaster was not realized until today. The number of lives lost was not so great as estimated, but the list is long enough to be appalling. From a happy, prosperous, contented valley, this section in a single day has been transformed into a great household of mourning. Pretty homes have been wrecked and great workshops forced into idleness. Hundreds of men are out of employment for several weeks.

All day long hundreds of willing hands pulled away at the great piles of debris in the search for the missing residents of the valley. From time to time the search would be rewarded. Anxious friends would recognize the mutilated body of a relative.

Toiling Without Rest.

All during the night volunteers searched along the path of the torrent and when morning came their labors did not cease. Without rest, they toiled on.

While the army of men searched among the debris for the dead earnestic brothers were calling the citizens of Jeannette together to provide means of relief for the suffering residents of the valley. Dozens of families had been driven from their homes and practically thrown upon the charity of the town. In a few minutes $1,200 was raised.

It was found, however, that this sum would not be sufficient. Jeannette wanted to care for its own needs and could have done so had not the merchants and business men generally been heavy losers. It was found that $3,000 was needed from outside sources and the people of Jeannette trust that their friends throughout Western Pennsylvania will respond promptly.

Business at a Standstill.

In Jeannette today business was practically at a standstill. Many of the stores had been flooded and many of the workshops were in the path of the torrent. To the throng of the citizens were added great crowds of strangers, who came from all over Western Pennsylvania to see what had happened. The curious went to the morgue and fought for an opportunity to view the gruesome sights. Those who really had reason to go to the house of the dead could hardly fight their way through the throng. They, too, a number of thieves from Pittsburgh came out to make profit out of the excited crowd.

Although the street cars were not running and the only way to get to the park was to walk or drive through mud, hundreds of people journeyed to the city's favorite pleasure resort. In a twinkling the pretty breathing spot had been changed. It is no longer a place of beauty. Had its ruin been planned the work could not have been more carefully done.

Loams Strewn With Wreckage.

Where there was a pretty green sward yesterday today are huge masses of stones, timbers of torn and twisted trees and masses of wreckage of all kinds. So great is the ruin that it is doubtful if the spot will again be converted into a park.

A great crowd of people assembled all day at the pile of wreckage heaped against the railroad embankment east of town and scattered over the bottom land. It was here that the great number of unrecovered bodies were supposed to be buried. During the night men with lanterns picked their way over the wreckage looking for bodies. When morning came a large force of volunteers went to work and a systematic search began.

It was a wild sight presented at daybreak. The great bottom was still under water. It was the picture of devastation and desolation. All the buildings swept away at the park have been battered to pieces and the lumber rushed down to the embankment.

Strange Contrast.

Stretching up here and there could be seen the wooden horses used on the merry-go-round. Not far away was the carcass of a real horse, and standing with her head out of the haymow door of an old barn was the living mate of the dead animal.

The morning light also revealed several women trudging over the wreckage. One was a middle-aged Hungarian woman, who appeared to be crazed with grief. While she prodded about in the debris the poor creature moaned and sounded something about her girl. Several hundred yards away Clark Dougherty, just at this time found the body of Sissy Bird. The old woman heard the cry and started on a run through the mud and rubbish to the place. It was difficult to keep up with her. When she arrived where the body was lying her face brightened just a little—it was not her girl and a new spark of hope was ignited. All day the sorrowing old woman stayed close to the pile of wreckage. The child has not been found.

The workmen turned over every bit of wreckage and peered beneath it. By evening the men said that they had made a thorough search and no more bodies remained in the debris. Parties also worked up and down the creek. Occasionally, hidden in bushes or pushed down by rubbish, would be found a former resident of the valley. It is probable that from time to time other bodies will be found.

Pittsburgh had several residents in the flood and a couple of them lost their lives—Albert J. Brown and Eva May Wigginton, who were engaged to be married.

There was really little cause for any loss of life in the flood. Had the people at the car sheds been content to stand on the hillside in the rain they would no doubt all be living. Instead, many rushed into a waiting room which stood near the entrance to the park. It was about 50 feet long and much glass was used in its construction.

Killed in the Collapse.

When the wreckage from the park swept down upon it the structure collapsed and the majority of people killed were among those who had sought refuge in the place. The ruins of this building were swept down Brush creek through the culvert. A careful search failed to find any of the timber used in the construction of the building at the railroad embankment.

With W. C. Crebs of Jeannette, who yesterday stood in Oakford and watched the destruction of the pleasure resort, the writer today visited the park. The lake, which was a body of water 600 feet long, 20 feet wide and 25 feet deep at the deepest point, is today a mud puddle. The breast of the dam was about 60 feet through at the bottom and 20 at the top. It was built of "riddle" and walled with stone on either side. From all appearances it seemed strong enough to withstand any force, but at the eastern end the water completely carried away 50 feet of this mighty wall. So great was the force of the water that big stones from the dam were carried almost a mile down the stream.

How the Dam Broke.

"There were about 800 people here yesterday afternoon," said Mr. Crebs, "when the heavy rain started at 4 o'clock. The downpour was frightful. I suppose it was caused by a cloudburst. The chute at the dam was soon inadequate to pass off the over-supply of water. As the water began to run over the breast, the people became frightened and fled to the hillside.

"Soon a mighty stream was pouring over the dam. Brush Creek spread from a stream of 15 feet in width to a river of many yards. The whole bottom covered with water and rose with alarming rapidity. The shooting gallery was the first to go. It was swept down against the laughing gallery and lodged there. Then the two started, and they took the bridge away as they were whirled along. The great dam started to give, and there was at least 17 feet of water rushing down the valley. The action came fast and furious. Big trees were snapped off and thrown into the seething pool. Soon the big roller coaster snapped like a twig when the merry-go-round was picked up.

Summer Theater Wrecked.

"Another piece of the dam gave way and a greater volume of water was rushed down to help in the work of destruction. The combined wreckage was now driven into the end of the summer theater, the stage was torn off and tossed into the torrent.

"On swept the great heap of wreckage over the once pretty ball field and tennis courts. The waiting room was next wiped off the map. The debris was then started against six street cars standing on the siding. Three of them were overturned. It is said that some people were drowned in them. I do not believe this, as they are the old box style and had any one been drowned the bodies would have been found in the cars. After demolishing a part of the car barn and sweeping out the track for quite a distance, the wreckage and mighty volume of water swept down the valley. Some people who were in one of the cars were rescued by means of ropes."

It was while the flood was sweeping down the valley to the park that Louis Ortiga made himself a hero. Seeing two men being swept down the stream he swam out and rescued them. This was followed by the rescue of Mrs. Baker and her one day old babe.

Escape of Boy Orchestra.

The people in the park had to walk miles across the country to get to their homes. When the flood started a boys' orchestra of 28 pieces was playing. The children continued to play until the rushing water told them that their lives were in danger. The little band stand is still intact and the pavilion, while wrecked, is standing. So is the restaurant, and the residence used as a reading room for women. The greater part of the theater remains, but hardly a vestige of the $15,000 roller coaster can be seen. A little home-made stand on the hillside to the left of the theater escaped injury and a rushing business was done yesterday with the hundreds of thirsty sight-seers.

Oakford was a pretty place. The wide valley below the dam was a great, well-kept lawn, and a rustic bridge spanned the quiet waters of Brush creek. Amusement houses of various kinds were scattered about the place. It was the one resort for the whole valley and during the summer hundreds sought its cooling shades every day.

All its Beauty Gone.

Yesterday there was not a thing of beauty left. Great piles of stones were strewn all over the once pretty lawn and deep gullies have been torn by the water. Broken electric light poles and shattered trees assist in making the picture an unsightly one. Men connected with the traction company tell me that it is quite doubtful if the park will be reconstructed this summer.

The tracks of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg road are badly damaged in the vicinity of the park and are also out of service in Penn. This corporation is the heaviest loser. Its loss is placed at $75,000 and may go higher. All the manufactories in Jeannette are damaged. The big plant of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company will sustain a loss of $75,000. It was in the path of the flood which came down Bull creek. The brewery furnished the ice for the town. The plant was not running yesterday and will not be for some time. There was but one cake of ice in the town today and an enterprising druggist had it hauled over from Greensburg.

Maintains Good Order.

While there are many strangers coming into town the best of order is being maintained. Burgess William E. Carey early today issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens to aid in preserving order.

Sheriff John H. Thresher has sworn in a number of deputies to look after the flooded districts. Several reports were heard last night of attempts to steal from the afflicted.

Coroner Wynne of Westmoreland county was in Jeannette this morning and then went to Penn. He has not fixed a time for the inquests into the deaths of the flood victims. District Attorney Jesse Cunningham spent the day here, but he says this he is making no official investigation of the disaster.

Tomorrow will be a day of funerals in Jeannette and vicinity. Two of the victims of the flood were buried today, but the majority of the interments will occur in the morning.

The loss to the borough of Jeannette will probably reach $20,000, as some of the bridges over Brush creek were swept away. The sewerage system in the south end of the town is badly wrecked. In South Sixth street the water tore great holes in the pavement. The borough has an indebtedness of $125,000 and cannot issue any bonds. The treasury is empty. The only way to raise the money is to either put in an extra levy or increase property values.

BIG FIRE AT GREENVILLE.

Almost an Entire Business Block Destroyed by Flames.

GREENVILLE, PA., July 6.—(Special.)—Fire this morning wiped out almost the entire block at Canal and Clinton streets. The burned buildings were all owned by J. W. Vaughn, whose loss will be about $18,000, with $9,175 insurance.

The Packard Hardware Company's loss was $8,000, with $3,000 insurance. The other firms burned out were: Greenville Gas Company, Kaye & Whalen, restaurant; C. T. Aland, photograph gallery and household goods; Brodhead Contracting Company, Stuart Brothers, plumbers; J. M. Bell, the female shop. The total loss is about $25,000. The origin of the fire is not known.

Lawson Flies His Answer.

BOSTON, July 6.—Thomas D. Lawson filed in the supreme judicial court today his declaration in the suit brought against the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware for $1,750,000. He declares that at the request of the company he made investments under an agreement that he should be paid for his services and should receive one-half of the net profits resulting from the transactions. The plaintiff alleges that this agreement has been violated.

URGENT APPEAL FOR AID IS MADE BY JEANNETTE

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—(Special.)—An urgent appeal for help was sent out today by a committee appointed at a mass meeting of the citizens of Jeannette held in the school house. Many families caught in the flood of yesterday were left homeless and in destitute circumstances, and are in need of assistance. It was thought for a time that Jeannette citizens could care for the needy, but after a careful canvass of the situation it was found that the undertaking was too large and an appeal was made for outside assistance.

Many families in Jeannette and other storm-swept towns lost all their possessions as well as members of their family. One family of 12 escaped from their home with only the clothing they wore, and are being cared for by neighbors. Many other sad cases were brought to light today by citizens who visited the flooded districts, and all found to be suffering or in want were provided for by local people.

Relief committees have been organized and the funds secured will be used in all the towns visited by the flood. At the meeting today $1,200 was donated to the relief fund and 12 cans for subscriptions have been placed in all business houses and at street corners. It is expected that by tomorrow an additional $1,000 will be donated by citizens here. The committee asks for $5,000 from outside sources, which, with local donations, is expected to be sufficient to help all needy cases.

D. E. Carle is chairman of the general committee, and the following will assist him:

Relief committee—Prof. J. W. Anthony, chairman; S. R. Hall, John W. Keltz, R. T. Huus, William Koerbel.

Subscriptions—George W. Kappenberger, chairman; John P. Jones, Ed. Gauhan, J. W. Ambler, W. A. Scott, Sanders Levy, William Elkins, S. D. Dorsey, John F. Ely, Dr. Leo Bell, Dr. Ringer, Morris A. Kelley, Edward Meussner, George W. Shively, Benjamin Bennett.

DEATH'S HAND HOVERS O'ER AGED PONTIFF'S BODY

Could Give No Hope.

During his brief absence from the vatican yesterday Dr. Lapponi showed signs of anxious days and nights spent watching his august patient, while his words proved unmistakably how deep an affection he bears for Pope Leo.

"Unfortunately," said Dr. Lapponi, "I cannot give any really consoling news. I cannot share the optimism which is spreading today, which is not owing to a definite change for the better, but to the spirit of the pope who is giving further proof that his indefatigable energy continues.

"The truth is, the pontiff's condition is stationary, which means that it is very grave. I will go so far as to say that although he may live for several days it would be cherishing an illusion to think he may recover unless some unforeseen crisis occurs.

"His pulse has become, to use a medical term, evanescent, which means almost imperceptible. The pope, except during short periods of uneasiness when his cough is troublesome, is generally bright and in good spirit and displays great force of character. This morning, again, at his own wish, he left his bed and seated himself in his arm chair, as he finds a sitting posture more comfortable than being recumbent.

Intellect Not Affected.

"What surprises all who approach him is that there has been no change in the lucidity of his intellect which disease has not affected. For instance, not a single detail of the ceremony of the last communion escaped the pope's observation. He spoke of it with great interest, recalling each personage who participated.

"The worst symptom, apart from the feebleness of the pontiff's pulse, is his low temperature, which is stationary at 92 centrigrade. He continues to take nourishment at short intervals, but in such quantities as his weakness requires or his doctors wish. Nothing medical science can suggest and his organism can stand has been left untried; for instance, oxygen, cutaneous revulsives, digitalis and caffeine, which have also been injected, to produce more rapid effect.

"The disease, as announced in the first bulletin, is senile pneumonia in a torpid form, which is now at its maximum intensity, but which may have begun unobserved before the pope complained of any feeling of illness."

Room Filled With Oxygen.

As the pope objected to having the oxygen inhaling apparatus continually under his nostrils Dr. Lapponi arranged to impregnate the whole atmosphere of the room with oxygen.

"That is much better," said the pontiff; "before I felt as though I had lost my liberty."

Although Dr. Lapponi continually recommends the patient not to speak and to pay no attention to what was passing outside, the pope gently refused to abandon participation in what is going on. He said, smiling, to Dr. Lapponi:

"I know you say this because of your affection for me, but either my last day is rapidly approaching, in which case, I must employ all the time which is left to me so far as I can, or else I shall recover, again postponing the end. If this is the will of the Almighty nothing can change it."

The pope wished his armchair to be carried near his writing table and then to the window, overlooking the piazza of St. Peter. Noticing many people in carriages the pope said:

"The piazza looks as it does when I am about to perform some public function."

Some improvement was indicated yesterday afternoon by the fact that the patient was more willing to take nourishment, which was administered at short intervals and consisted chiefly of bordeaux, cuntrapasta, raw eggs and broth, but the doctors would permit the pope to partake of anything in reason for which he expressed a desire, as there was special danger in the possibility of increased weakness.

The only persons allowed in the pope's bedroom yesterday besides the doctors and attendants were Cardinal Rampolla, Mgr. Bisleti, the master of the pontifical chambers, and Count Camillo Pecci, of the noble guard, a nephew of the pope. The pope conversed for a long time with Count Pecci, even rising and walking about the room for a few minutes, leaning on his arm. The pontiff on this occasion remarked:

Ready to Die.

"Now I am ready to depart, having settled all my affairs. I have done all in my power for the good of the church and of humanity."

The pope was always a man of extremely simple tastes, which he brought from his childhood's home at Carpineto and possibly his cautious temperament, curiously combined with power and unhesitating decision, was inherited from his mountaineer ancestors. For his personal use he selected, instead of one of the numerous magnificent suites of the vatican, a few simple rooms containing little beyond absolutely necessary articles.

His bed stands in an alcove, separated from a larger room by a curtain hanging gracefully over marble columns. Above the bed is a picture of the madonna and child. Beside it is a prayer-table surmounted by a crucifix.

A wardrobe against the wall faces the bed, and between the latter and the wall is a couch. The rest of the room is used as a study and contains a writing table with a crucifix, a chair on a carpeted platform, chairs and tables for the pope's secretaries, writing materials and a few books, among which are the works of Dante, Virgil and Horace, besides a Bible.

The pope had given a striking proof of his well known taste for the classics. He has partly composed and partly corrected a new Latin poem, which he has entrusted to Mgr. Angel, one of his private secretaries, directing him to have it printed for publication, and adding:

"I shall die happier in thinking that something will remain of me that I have done at the very last moment."

PREPARING TO ELECT POPE LEO'S SUCCESSOR

Cardinals Believe Conclave Is Not Far Off—Gibbons to Go to Rome.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, July 6.—Cardinal Rampolla yesterday cabled Cardinal Gibbons of the pope's illness. Cardinal Gibbons replied that he was starting for Rome at once, and that he will arrive 10 days hence. As the conclave cannot assemble before the funeral, which is nine days after death, Cardinal Gibbons will be on time to take part. On account of the pope's condition, the king of Italy's visit to Paris is definitely postponed.

Great activity reigns among the cardinals now that it is sure a conclave cannot be far off. It is even said that there has been an exchange of telegrams in cipher between the members of the sacred college in Rome and those in the provinces or abroad. Innumerable rumors are circulating and scarcely any cardinal is deprived of the flattery of being considered a candidate.

However, besides those mentioned yesterday, the only other candidates who are regarded as having a fair chance are Cardinal Svampa, archbishop of Bologna, and Cardinal Richelmy, archbishop of Turin. Cardinal Rampolla is thought by many to have the best chances of being elected. According to the most accredited vatican gossip, however, Cardinal Rampolla has entered into an agreement with Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the congregation of the propaganda, to support the election of the latter on condition that he himself be appointed Gotti's successor as prefect of the propaganda, the holder of which post is called the "red pope."

STRANGLER AT DENVER.

Series of Murders in Same Block Are Attributed to the Same Person.

DENVER, July 6.—(Special.)—This morning the body of Mabel Brown, daughter of "Big" Brown, saloonkeeper, was found strangled to death. In the same block in 1894 three women came to their death at the hands of a strangler.

Miss Brown was lying on her bed. Her hands were tied with a strip of a suspender. The condition of the room showed that the woman had struggled desperately to escape.

A week ago last night Mrs. Antoine Kenhan was killed by a strangler in her home at 2121 Sixteenth street. The same murderer may have put a period to the life of the unfortunate woman of Market street.

POLICEMEN TO PLAY.

Pittsburgh "Coppers" to Oppose Allegheny at Exposition Park.

The Pittsburgh and Allegheny policemen will play a game of baseball soon at Exposition park, the proceeds to be turned over to the benefit funds. The winning team will get 60 per cent of the receipts. The Pittsburgh team will be picked from the following: Capt. Heiser, captain; J. C. Tagney, Ed Munday, John Kinney, Jack Kennedy, William Pigeon, William McCredy, Charles Treeborn, John Hardy, Harry Hinchelift, William Bishop, Ed Hughes, John Hamilton, Thomas McCarrol.

PONTIFF'S DEATH SEVERE SETBACK

Many Plans of Pope Leo to Benefit American Hierarchy May Come to Naught.

ARE HOSTILE INFLUENCES

French and Austrian Hierarchies Are Not Friendly to Liberal Policy Recently Adopted Toward the United States. Catholic University Likely to Suffer.

THE PITTSBURG GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.

Roman Catholic ecclesiastics in this city consider the dangerous illness and imminent death of Pope Leo XIII. one of the greatest misfortunes which could befall the United States at the present time. Pope Leo loved the American people. His Philippine policy has smoothed away many difficulties.

With the addition of the Filipino hierarchy to the American, and the contemplated possibility that the two ecclesiastic provinces of Cuba may be added in the near future, the American hierarchy would be second only to that of Italy, and far more powerful in influence and numbers than any nationality except Italy.

At no time have so many plans of far reaching importance been in process of maturity between the American church and the holy see. The successor of Leo may frown on many of them. They are yet so young that an unfavorable pontiff could easily destroy the work accomplished. For instance the next pope may not favor the Americanization of the Filipino church, and it would be an easy matter to transfer Archbishop Harty and Bishops Rooker and Dougherty from the Philippine sees to other work and encourage the Filipinos toward national aspiration by consecrating either natives or foreigners associated with them to the vacant Filipino bishoprics.

Hostile Influences.

The next pope will not escape pressure from interests hostile to the United States, as the French and Austrian hierarchies are not friendly to a policy which inevitably would curtail their influence in ecclesiastic affairs. The Americanization of the Philippines has been a personal policy of the dying pontiff and was opposed by the most powerful influences in the church.

The fate of the Catholic university of America also hangs in the balance. Mgr. O'Connell, the new rector, is now on the ocean, recalled to Rome by Pope Leo for the purpose of giving eclat to a pronunciamento in favor of this institution. The next pope may not consider it necessary to support this delicate institution by the full power of his authority. It is only within the past few months that dangerous contests and rivalries within the faculty of the university have been composed. Should the next pope expect the Catholic university to drop its swaddling clothes and walk alone it may require decades to accomplish what the policy of Pope Leo expected in the immediate future.

As an instance of the pope's estimation and love of the United States the following authentic incident may be related. The general of the Dominicans was laying before the pope his difficulties incident to the operation of the recent French laws. The great distributing house of the Dominicans has been located in Paris since 1800.

Transferred to Washington.

Their great plant was wrecked and the general thought of bringing what could be saved to Rome. Pope Leo astonished the Dominicans by suggesting that he transfer his Parisian establishment bodily to Washington, and stated emphatically that the United States was the one government in the world which offered the church free and untrammeled opportunity to carry forward its work.

The Dominicans are now engaged in building, at a cost of $250,000, a gigantic building near the Catholic university, whence its army of missioners will be sent throughout the world. It was also through Pope Leo's advice that that great order of the Franciscans transferred their commissariat to a location near the Catholic university at Washington. Acting upon similar suggestions, other orders and congregations were considering plans to make their working headquarters at Washington. All this has been so quietly accomplished during the past half dozen years that little attention has been attracted, even in Roman Catholic circles.

To ascertain the papacy is a matter of vital interest not only to clericals, but to the diplomatic corps. Ameaa diplomats and well informed clergy it is suggested that the conclave will probably assemble with the idea of electing a representative of one of the religious orders as pope. This will be for the purpose of marking approbation of the work of these communities that are now so much persecuted throughout the world.

No Chance for Gibbons.

Pope Leo has often facetiously said: "I am burying all my successors." During his reign 146 bishops and 46 cardinals have died. Cardinal Orgelia, the dean, is the only member of the sacred college who sat in the conclave which elected Leo. It is generally understood that the pontiff would select Cardinal Satolli for the papacy. The latter is not greatly liked because of his phenomenal promotions. At the last consistory Pope Leo named Satolli for the cardinal bishopric of Frascati, making him the fourth dignitary of the church now living. Cardinal Gibbons is one of those losers in service, but has only reached the 12th place in the line of precedence. He is immediately succeeded by Cardinal Secretary of State Rampolla. Were it not for such unusual promotions as in the case of Satolli, Cardinal Gibbons, by reason of seniority, would be eligible for one of the six cardinal bishoprics. Should he survive a few years longer he will inevitably be dean of the cardinal priests. It is not thought, however, that Cardinal Gibbons is even a remote possibility of the successor of Pope Leo.

WITNESSES CAN BE HAD IF THEY ARE WANTED

Supt. McTighe Announces Investigation as to Alleged Negligence of Oakland Officers.

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe can find plenty of witnesses to testify against the officers of the Oakland district when he makes his proposed investigation into the alleged negligence of the officers in that district. He announced yesterday that to either vindicate the force or bring derelict officers to punishment he would tomorrow morning hold an inquiry as to the killing of four people in Forbes street, in front of No. 4 police station during the storm Saturday afternoon, by a live electric wire.

Witnesses of the affair say they can testify to the neglect of duty on the part of officers, and to facts which they say would put the officers in a bad light, if they are called upon; but they all say they do not intend volunteering information and in that way incurring the animosity of the police force.

Undertaker Woods said the deaths were due to gross carelessness and that the policemen acted as though they were afraid of spoiling their uniforms. He said when the first man was killed he knew his wife would be charged and ran across the street in the rain to the police station and requested that a policeman be stationed at each end of the wire to protect pedestrians.

David Ferguson, a brother-in-law of Woods, said he made a similar request, but the officers did not make a move. Ferguson said he saw a brother of Director Harry Meore of the department of public safety, push Inspector Robert S. Gray into the rain and tell him in forcible language to go out and protect the people.

DEATH OF DEMENTED MAN.

Had Part of His Foot Amputated, But Got No Medical Attention.

John Schmidt, 45 years old, whose home is unknown, died yesterday at the Allegheny city poor farm at Claremont. The man was demented and while wandering about acting strangely on July 1, was picked up by Detective John King. All the toes on his left foot and four on his right foot had been amputated recently, but the wounded feet had been given no attention.

Schmidt had five children in the St. Joseph's Orphan asylum and had a brother living on the South Side. His children had been taken from the asylum by an elder sister some time ago.

Car Jumped Track Near Cliff.

A trolley car loaded with passengers who had attended the theater in Olympia park near McKeesport, jumped the track at the top of the hill, near Christy park, at 10:30 last night. Just on the other side of the tracks is a cliff 40 feet high and in the crush of passengers to get off the car women and children were trampled. No one was seriously injured and the car was finally stopped.

SIX MORE DEATHS CAUSED BY HEAT

CHILDREN SUFFER THE MOST

Polish Miner Becomes Victim of Sun's Rays on Eve of Realizing Long Cherished Dream of Happiness—Allegheny Dog Catcher Prostrated.

Continued high temperature yesterday caused more suffering among the residents of Pittsburgh and this vicinity. The children, according to the mortality report, seem to suffer most from the present torrid spell, and during the day the number of deaths and prostrations reported adds considerably to the long list of fatalities resulting from the hot weather of the last few days. Deaths and prostrations reported yesterday were:

THE DEAD:

WILLIS J. SINGLETON, aged 6 months, died of heat at his home, No. 1745 Sherman street.

STEFANA PASTUCHER, aged 1 year, of No. 107 Mini alley, died of heat exhaustion.

CARRIE HOUK, aged 11 months, died of heat exhaustion at her home, No. 1433 Marlboro street.

RUTH WOOD, aged 4 months, died of heat exhaustion at her home, No. 1814 Jane street, South Side.

JANE GORMAN, aged 37, died of heat prostration at her house, No. 3231 Natrona street.

GEORGE SPESAN, 29 years old, died of heat exhaustion at Carson and South Thirty-fourth streets. His home was at No. 2826 Edwards alley.

THE PROSTRATED:

JACOB MARTIN, driver of the Allegheny city dog wagon, was overcome by heat while at work during the morning. He was removed to his home, No. 29 Howard street.

THOMAS K. SCOTT is seriously ill of heat prostration at the home of his brother-in-law, at No. 1017 Walnut street, Northside.

Specek's death was especially sad, as he was on his way to the home of his cousin in South Thirty-fourth street when stricken. Specek had been in this country for some time and saved his earnings in order to bring his wife and family to Pittsburgh. Yesterday he arranged to go to his home in Europe and started for his cousin's house to get the latter to identify him at the bank where his savings were deposited. Specek intended to bring his family over with him when he returned to Pittsburgh in the fall. He was employed as a coal miner.

No relief from the torrid spell is in sight yet, according to the forecast of the Washington weather observer in Pittsburgh. Yesterday the maximum temperature was 83 degrees. The minimum was 68 and occurred at 5 o'clock in the morning. The temperature yesterday was only one degree in excess of the normal for the day. Since July 1 there has been an excess of 25 degrees in the temperature. At 8 o'clock in the morning the humidity was 75 per cent and at 8 o'clock last night it was only 49, making the night the driest experienced in Pittsburgh for some days. The weather forecast is for fair and warm today and tomorrow.

JEALOUSY LED TO ARRESTS.

Wedding is Unavoidably Postponed Because Bride and Groom Are Locked Up.

Jealousy of a rival led to the arrest of two men and a woman yesterday who are charged with robbing a downtown department store out of thousands of dollars' worth of silks and satins. They were J. H. Thomas, No. 305 Beeler street; John Bullett, No. 5714 Brant street, and Matilda Fox of No. 55 Fulton street. After they were taken to the Central police station by Inspector Bernard McStay, $2,000 worth of goods were found in their respective homes. All are negroes.

Thomas and Bullett are porters in a downtown department store. Thomas and Matilda Fox were to have been married this week. The Fox woman has been keeping company with another negro and Thomas became jealous. Knowing that Thomas and Bullett had been selling large quantities of silk goods among the colored people at greatly reduced prices, he went to the Central police station yesterday morning and reported the matter to Supt. McTighe. Inspector McStay immediately placed the three people under arrest and went to their homes and searched their rooms.

About $2,000 worth of silk coats and clothing of all descriptions was found in their rooms.

POWDER EXPLOSION KILLS TWO MINERS

An explosion of powder in mine No. 4 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Sandy Creek early yesterday fatally hurt two men. Francesco Clemenza, 30 years old, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and Hirch Brideski, 23 years old, died in the afternoon in Mercy hospital. The men had entered the mine at 4 o'clock and set off a blast which ignited a keg of powder sitting close by.

Six Excursionists Shot.

MT. VERNON, IND., July 6.—A fight on an excursion steamer between here and Uniontown, Ky., early this morning ended in six persons being shot. A man named White from Henderson, Ky., was shot and fell into the river. His body has not been recovered. Two of the number shot were women. The boat returned to Uniontown and six men and two women were arrested and put in jail there.

boarded a trolley car and went to Blafield Oakford park. How they were drowned is not known, but their two bodies were found in Brush creek far apart.

His Portrait on Her Breast.

A short time ago Brown had his picture taken especially for a locket which Miss Wigginton wore about her neck, and this locket, with the face opened, was found on her breast with Brown's picture exposed to the flood.

The story of the other couple is similarly tragic. James Brown and Sissy Bird had pledged themselves to journey through life together, but, like the former couple, the waters of Brush creek sent them to death on the eve of their marriage. Brown was a glass worker, 22 years of age, of West Jeannette, and Miss Bird, his bride-to-be was a pretty, brown-haired girl of 19, whose home was in this city. She was a waitress at Hotel Marion. They were to have been married on Thursday night. Yesterday the lovers decided to spend the last Sunday before their marriage in Oakford park. They went early in the day. Late that night the proprietor of the Marion told the writer that he was afraid Sissy had been lost in the flood. The fact that she was missing was chronicled in The Gazette of this morning.

Sissy Bird's Body Found.

When day broke I was with the party that started a systematic search of the vast pile of debris lying north of the railroad culvert, through which Brush creek flows. Midway between the Carbon works and the plant of the Greensburg Machine Company's plant the body of Sissy Bird was found. A golden locket hanging from a chain about her neck revealed her identity. An engagement ring told another story. Her slender white arms were held as a shield to her face. Jagged wounds on the pretty features told of the buffeting the girl had suffered.

Later today the body of James Brown was found. Then came the story of their intended wedding on July 9. Tonight the couple lie side by side at Miller's morgue. Adjoining them, side by side, lay the bodies of Miss Wigginton and Albert Brown. The arrangements for the funerals of these victims have not yet been completed, but it is quite probable that each couple will be interred in graves together.

HAMILTON'S

WHY BUY A PIANO NOW

Why should you buy a piano now instead of waiting a month or two?

Because Hamilton's have made it worth your while to buy now. Isn't it worth while to save $75 to $150 on the price of the piano you are going to buy?

Probably you are more interested in quality than price. Quite right, too. But you'll be glad to be able to save such a large sum on a new, high-class piano and have your choice of such makes as the Schumann, Smith & Barnes, Willard, New England, Cable & Sons, Hardie, Hamilton and others.

Hamilton's are selling fine, new pianos at $145 and upward.

When this establishment accepted the offer of a retiring manufacturer of his entire stock of high-grade pianos at 60 per cent of their actual value, we knew we would have to sacrifice our regular stock to make room for them. And that's exactly what we are doing.

You will also find here a number used, A. B. Chase and Fischer pianos at very attractive prices.

Other interesting features are some square pianos in good condition at $25 and good organs as low as $10.

J. R. P. BROWN GOES AWAY AFTER MORE EVIDENCE

Is Supposed to Be in Philadelphia on Matters Connected With His Brother's Death.

James R. P. Brown disappeared yesterday. It was rumored that he had gone to Philadelphia and intended to try to trace the movements of his brother, the late City Recorder Joseph O. Brown, but his relatives at the coroner's office were chary about giving information concerning his movements.

It is understood that Mr. Brown would like to learn where his brother got the sulfonal and trional, the drugs which have figured in the inquest into his death, still pending. Dr. W. H. McKelvy, the physician in attendance on Brown when he died, testified that he did not prescribe those drugs.

Mr. Brown repeated yesterday his statement that he thought the late recorder's estate would not amount to much. He said a number of women in the city's service had said they had loaned his brother their savings for investment. They had not yet come forward to prove their claims, he said, as they feared they would be discharged by the present administration. As told in The Gazette some time ago, Mr. Brown said that Miss Laura Law, a city employe, was discharged apparently only because she said publicly that she had loaned her savings to his brother, the late recorder.

DAUGHERTY REFUNDS HIS ATTORNEY'S FEES

HARRISBURG, July 6.—(Special)—Dairy and Food Commissioner Warren today received a check for $151, the money paid as salary to Representative Daugherty of Mercer for service as attorney for the state dairy and food bureau before it was learned that a member of the legislature could not at the same time occupy a position under the state government. Dr. Warren himself refunded the money to the state and Mr. Daugherty has repaid him, so that neither the commonwealth nor the commissioner suffered any financial loss.

Declines the Presidency.

The presidency of the Pennsylvania College for Women, in this city, has been declined by the Rev. Dr. Samuel B. McCormick, president of Coe college, Iowa. The position was offered Dr. McCormick some time ago. It is reported that the Rev. Dr. Isaac C. Ketler, president of Grove City college; the Rev. Dr. Frank J. Walker, president of Hollidaysburg seminary, and the Rev. Samuel B. Linhart, president of Blairsville college, have been suggested for the position.

HOMEWOOD CARNIVAL DRAWING BIG CROWDS

Headline from Sunday's Gazette Will Be Used as Admission Ticket Today.

Large crowds attended the Homewood carnival yesterday afternoon and evening, the especial attractions being the wild animal shows and midway novelties interspersed by La Belle Salina's sensational dance among the big lions and Madame Pauline's wonderful act with trained leopards and reptiles. The baby lions were also on exhibition, much to the delight of the children.

The barnyard circus of Prof. Blake is a great drawing card, the marvelously trained dogs and ponies forming the principal amusement. The feature of the wild west show is the little girls who are "dead shots" with rifles and revolvers. The midway is one of the greatest laugh producers of the modern carnival.

All the little folks will be admitted to the shows this afternoon by the payment of five cents and the presentation of the head and date line cut from the first page of last Sunday's Gazette. Plenty of entertainment is promised the children. The sights will be equivalent to a trip around the world with all the curious people, animals and wares of every quarter of the globe to amuse the little ones.

MAYOR HAYS IN COURT.

Executive Appears Today to Answer to Indictment for Discharge of Union Soldiers.

Mayor Hays will appear today in criminal court, to answer the indictment of the grand jury charging him with misdemeanor in office, for the discharge of Samuel Moore, a veteran of the civil war and former ordinance officer, who was dismissed on April 1.

The Moore case is the first test in this state of the law which was enacted to prevent union soldiers from being discharged for political reasons or without just cause. The local Grand Army organizations and Union Veteran Legion are backing Moore. City Solicitor Rodgers will appear for the mayor.

STOREKEEPERS CAUGHT IN BLUE LAW CRUSADE

Sixteen storekeepers in Homestead yesterday paid fines of $5 and costs each, on a charge of selling on last Sunday. Acting Chief of Police Layman started out Sunday to locate violators of the Sunday blue laws in the borough and during the day turned in the names of 30 keepers of small stores. In each case a forfeit of $25 was put up. At the hearings before Burgess W. F. Ross, yesterday, 14 of the 30 failed to appear and their money was forfeited. In nearly every case it was alleged that tobies and fruit had been sold.

MORE SCALES SIGNED.

Executive Officials Gratified by the Number Already Received.

Executive officials of the Amalgamated association are much gratified by the number of scales signed so far this year. By the end of this week all the scales at mills where the workmen are members of the association are expected to be signed.

Four signed scales were received yesterday. They were for Westman & Co., Lockwood, N. Y.; Weller Rolling Mill and Forge Company, Anderson, Ala.; Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, Ala., and the Ohio Rolling Mill Company.

News of the Labor World.

The Bakers' Benecial association is to be incorporated. There are about 200 members in Allegheny county. It is the intention to erect a home for aged and infirm members. Attorney A. C. Stein will apply for the charter July 25.

The American Flint Glass Workers' union opened its 25th annual convention in Cincinnati yesterday. It promises to be one of the most important and interesting ever held. For the first time in the history of the organization the manufacturers will be given the privileges of the floor and will explain the ways propositions for the coming fire.

James O'Connell, national president of the machinists, arrived in Pittsburgh Saturday and conferred with Stuart Simpson, business agent, regarding the issuing of a strike order. The machinists balloted to strike, but are not entitled to strike benefits unless it is sanctioned by the national executive committee. The order will probably be issued today.

When a

that heads of departments have no time to be interviewed by the advertiser, it can be surmised that immense business is being done. Such were the conditions here yesterday.

We daresay many will consider the foregoing as not germane to the clearance news of this day, Tuesday. But we want you to understand that the abridgement of the following departmental news is owing exclusively to the tremendous business done in each of the departments of this store yesterday, such a business clear up to the closing hour as prevented the several heads of the several departments from giving anything like a concise list of store news for today. It was simply "give an item or two and let the others take care of themselves." And thus you have brief hints.

For Women's Eyes.

Just as straws show which way the wind blows do these single items show the trend of underprices in the Departments of Suits, Dresses, Waists, Coats, Shirtwaist Suits, Skirts.

Women never read more agreeable news.

$12 Silk Waists, $5—one group of fine silk taffeta louisine and crepe de chine dress Waists, various colors—mostly one of a kind; such trimmings as laces, tucks, folds and stitching, were $8, $10 and $12.

$20 Walking Suits for $8—about 15 in the lot. Pretty shade of gray mixture—newest model of blouse coat, 9-gore skirt, no alteration.

$3.50 Shirtwaist Suit, $2—at $3.50 they were better value than any in town, but at $2 they are unapproachable. Fine pique, white with black patterns, 7-gore skirt, pleated waist.

$25 Silk Lined Suits, $16.75—about 20 fine navy cheviot, silk-lined jackets, and all silk drop skirts. Elegantly tailored and handsomely trimmed.

$8 for new linen Tub Coats—the correct coat for July and August. Adaptable for seashore, veranda or trolley. Full length, triple capes, lace collar, belted and gathered back. Coats no better are on sale around us for $15.

$15 Silk Coats, $6.50—fine all-silk Taffeta Coats, made after the elegant five-story pleated model, trimmed with braid.

$3 Shirtwaists, $1.50—the ones that created such a furore, when shown in our windows, full line of sizes and designs—embroidery and lace trimmings.

Walking and Dress Skirts, $7.50—fine skirts these that sold for $10 and up to $12.50. Black and mixtures, new fresh styles unapproachable in every way.

Black Voiles.

35c a yard for a 65c grade.
75c a yard for a $1.25 grade.

And Voiles, you know, are just the dressiest women's stuff that can be made up into Summer suits.

Summer Weight Woolens.

Choice from the following at 50c a yard—odds and ends making up about 600 yards:

$1.25 Fancy Voile, 50c a yard.

$1.25 plaid Etamine, 50c a yard.

$1.25 revered Crepe, 50c a yard.

$1.25 Brocade Novelty, 50c a yard.

The above come in widths from 44 to 48 inches.

For Eyes of Young Ladies.

Linen Coat Suits, $5.50, were $8.

For young ladies, 14-16 years of age—natural linen. Coat and skirt pleated. The very thing for outing and seashore.

Ribbed Underwear.

This news for women—and you will please go to the second floor department for the goods.

$2 instead of $3.75 for lace trimmed Union Suits.

$2.50 instead of $3.50 for fine ribbed lisle Union Suits, crochet edge.

Women's Stocks, 50c.

These sold for $1 and $1.25.

They are washable, and you can choose either white or colors, according to your fancy.

Hosiery.

Some for women, some for children—both at greatly reduced prices.

8c a pair for 18c and 20c grades of women's and children's Stockings, reinforced feet.

60c a pair for women's black and fancy embroidered Stockings—sold for 75c, $1, $1.50.

$1 a pair for $1.50 and $1.75 grades of German Lisle Stockings with colored clocks; real Irish balbriggan Stockings, black embroidered in assorted colors.

Women's Gloves, 18c a pair.

These are two-clasp Suede lisle gloves in mode, tan, gray and black. When you bought them at 35c a pair you considered them fine goods—and so they were.

Clothing—Men's, Boys'.

Reducing our big stock of Summer clothing by quoting such reduced prices as the following:

Men's Outing Suits at $9 instead of $12.
Men's Black Suits at $14 instead of $18 and $20.
Young Men's Suits at $11.75 instead of $15 and $16.
Boys' Norfolk Suits at $5 instead of $7.50.
Boys' Wash Suits at $2 instead of $3.

Taffeta Ribbon, 12c and 15c yd.

This is a plain taffeta ribbon, 4 and 4½-inch widths, and will be on sale on the center table, main aisle.

You'll recognize the value of it the moment you take it in your hands—we're not going to tell you here.

Such colors as white, pink, light blue, turquoise, old rose, black, maize and cardinal.

While there are 2,500 yards of it, we advise getting around the table early this morning.

Imported Cottons.

25c a yard Irish Dimities reduced to 10c a yard.
75c, $1 and $1.25 Embroidered Swisses reduced to 35c a yard.

A feature of the day will be the odd lengths of 30c and 40c Summer cottons and colored Linens thrown out at 12½c a yard.

American Wash Goods.

A single item to show the trend of low prices in this Basement American Store:

12½c a yard for an 18c grade of mercerized Cheviot, 28 inches wide. Such colors as French blue, navy, light blue, black and white grounds, overspread with bow-knots, fleur-de-lis, polka dots and stripes.

Pillow Cases, 12½c each.

The Bedding Department, Basement, has 5,000 extra quality Pillow Cases, plain hems, and you are to have them at 12½c each instead of 20c.

Lining Silk, 25c a yard.

Back Combs, Half Price.

At the Silver Counter, sold there because some have silver tops, others have tops studded with pearl.

75c Combs for 38c each.

Girls' Handkerchiefs, 3c.

Sold for 10c—they were worth it. They are colored, they are hemstitched, they have an initial.

For the Lawn.

The Basement Housefurnishing Department has this hint of today:

10c a foot for garden hose that sells for 15c regularly. Sold only in 50-foot lengths.

Velvet Ribbon, 10c bolt.

Regular price 25c. It is sold in 10-yard pieces, and is on sale at the Dress Trimming Counter instead of the Ribbon Counter.

Women's Hats, 50c.

Most any woman would be willing to pay 50c for a scuff hat, and yet these hats are just as pretty as can be—they sold for $1.50. Some are trimmed with flowers, some with quills, some with wings.

Talc. Powder, 15c a jar.

Odor of the violet and a talcum powder that retails in a regular way for 25c. A good warm weather companion.

To Excursionists.

This hot weather means a tremendous crowd will go over to the seashore on the B. & O. excursion next Thursday. Now there is nothing like taking along your own bathing suit. We have only the best suits, and they are sold for reasonable prices. And we have suits for all. And all traveling necessities, besides.

Women's Bathing Suits, at $2.50, $3.75, $5 and up to $28.
Men's Bathing Suits, $3, $4, $4.50, $5 and up to $12.
Girls' and Children's Bathing Suits, $2.25, $3, $3.50 and up to $6.

Boys' Bathing Suits, $1, $1.50, $2 and $4.50.

Women's Caps, all rubber, and rubber and silk combined, 50c, 65c and 75c.

Women's Bathing Stockings, cork soles, $1 a pair.

Women's Bathing Slippers, white and black canvas, cork soles, 50c a pair.

The Trunk Department has everything necessary to carry your belongings—Trunks from $5 to $75; Traveling Bags from $3 to $20; Suit Cases from $1 to $15; Telescopes from $2 to $3.25.

Pillow Squares, 25c each.

The Upholstery Department of the Furniture Store, fifth floor, has a lot of squares of velour, tapestry and damask, which sold by the yard for $1, $1.50 and $2.

They will make the nicest kind of pillow covers, and it won't take you long to fashion a pillow. We want rid of them, help yourself at 25c each.

At Silk Counter.

Brisk business there yesterday—too much to get much news. Many other values like the following:

At 88c a yard, reduced from $1.25—black Taffeta, 36 inches wide, fully guaranteed as to wear.

At 25c a yard, reduced from 45c—colored and black Wash Cords, quite a variety of styles.

Brass and Iron Beds.

You know we wouldn't ask you to see anything but what is of the best—the best here is sold for very low prices, and now these reductions:

Full size Brass Beds—at $42 from $50, at $50 from $60, at $45 from $63, at $57 from $68, at $60 from $100.

Full size, white Enameled Iron Beds, nicely trimmed in brass, at $14 from $18, at $17 from $20, at $21 from $27.

In the China Store.

We have a collection of about 3,000 inexpensive Dinner Plates and Cups and Saucers.

They are in the popular flow blue porcelain, and originally sold for 12½c.

Come today and buy the plates for 12½c each, and the cup and saucer for 12½c.

Why put up with a chipped plate, or a chipped saucer and cup, when tableware is selling so cheap here?

Scarfs and Squares.

At the Art Needlework counter today these stamped goods for your pastime. All white, reduced prices.

Scarfs and squares of linen, stamped and floral designs, hemstitched, 50c instead of $1.

Stamped Scarfs and Squares at 25c each instead of 50c.

Tennis, Reduced Prices.

This is the regular outdoor tennis, not ping-pong.

Cork handle Tennis Racket, $1.50 each, were $4.

95c each for Tennis Rackets that sold for $2.50.

45c each for Tennis and Outing Shoes, black only, sold for 75c.

Scissors, 25c a pair.

All the different sizes of scissors—same as sell, according to their grade, for 35c, 50c and 85c.

Tuesday, July 7, 1903.

An exhibit of the value of campaign pledges that is instructive was given by the Allegheny councilmanic committee considering the ordinance abolishing the office of delinquent tax collector in that city. The abolition of that office was one of the campaign cries of the Citizens party on both sides of the river. At the committee meeting last evening every Citizens party member voted against the proposed ordinance, making the vote a tie. Under the ruling of the chairman the measure will now be returned to select council with a negative recommendation.

It may be said, however, the matter is not dead yet. A majority of members of select council favor the ordinance, and when the negative recommendation is reported they will change its character, put the ordinance before the whole body and pass it. At least that is the program at present. Thus members of both branches will be given an opportunity to go on record. The Citizens members of the committee have already recorded themselves as being opposed to carrying out their campaign pledges. It remains to be seen whether these and others will be willing, in open session, to repudiate their solemn pledges. There are others, however, who will stand for the sensible proposition to abolish a useless office, and it is to be hoped they will get enough support to put through the ordinance.

Harry Moore, director of the department of public safety, has the right idea about filtration. He has evidently given the subject intelligent consideration and is informed upon it. Controller Larkin makes it plain that he has no intention to obstruct the construction of the sand filter plant designed for the city. He declares himself willing to sign bonds for that purpose if they are voted by councils. Thus the responsibility for delay is narrowing down. It will be plain soon just what persons are responsible for continuing the typhoid fever plague in this city, and when that responsibility is fixed there will be action or the people will be heard from emphatically.

It is not easy to see what official authority Controller Larkin has to prescribe lines of investigation to be followed by councils. But that question may be waived. Mr. Larkin has rights as a citizen equal to any other, and there is nothing improper in suggestions, such as he makes, coming from any citizen. A thorough, open investigation of the bureau of health can do no harm. If there is nothing wrong in that bureau it is entitled to vindication from charges that have been made, and if anything is wrong it will be well to bring out the facts. In regard to the treatment of smallpox that is a wide subject, but inquiry into it will do no harm at this time. Publicity is not merely a cure, but a preventive of abuses.

Latest reports from the flood disaster at Jeannette and Penn indicate a death roll of about 40. It may go a little above or below that figure. It is large enough to cast a gloom of horror over the whole Brush Creek valley. The property loss is very large. Only a part of that can be charged to the burst reservoirs, though the loss of life is almost wholly to be charged against them. It must be obvious to every thinking citizen that what we said yesterday on this subject is right. The state should supervise the erection of all dams within its limits and see that they are constructed on safe plans. A deep foundation, with cement protection, is essential, and the protection of life and property demands that petty economy shall not be allowed to rule in such works.

Select council has applied the hold-up to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances as common council has to the Pennsylvania. Outside of councils not an objection has been heard to the ordinance vacating portions of certain unused streets between Second avenue and the Monongahela river, desired by the Baltimore & Ohio to make available lands owned by the company intended as a site for new shops and additional track facilities. Those street ends are absolutely of no use to the public, and there is no shadow of justice or reason in holding up an ordinance which, if passed, would enable the railroad company to proceed with work that means a permanent increase in its disbursements in this city of about $2,000,000 a year in wages. The councilmanic hold-up has become a serious disease in this city, at least as much in need of investigation as the bureau of health and probably much more so. Apparently, councils are bent on demonstrating their complete unfitness for handling business questions.

The Dispatch explains that the power reserved to the city in the grant of the Liberty avenue franchise will be sufficient to extinguish its real value to the company, because while "the regulations cannot stop the moving of trains they can confine the moving of trains in Liberty avenue to hours when they will not interfere with the security of persons or value of property along the street." But the reserved power says nothing at all about the "value" of property. "Security" is the term employed, and trains may run without impairment of the security of persons or property, while extremely detrimental to personal convenience and property value. The explanation of the Dispatch is no explanation at all, but mere quibbling. It is the running of the trains that constitutes the nuisance, and it is silly to pretend that privilege can be indirectly withdrawn through safety regulations. Whatever regulations are imposed must be reasonable, and if they indicate a motive to harass the company in the enjoyment of its franchise and reduce the value of the franchise to "slight" proportions, as the Dispatch puts it, that of itself would be sufficient to overthrow them. The Dispatch's smart discovery of a cute little way of indirectly destroying the franchise is too absurd for serious consideration. It is folly to shut one's eyes to the facts of the case, and no sensible man can doubt that the Liberty avenue franchise will be just as extensive in the future as it has been in the past. The only way to get rid of it is to make the best bargain possible with the company for the relinquishment of the franchise.

Leo XIII.

The pontificate of Leo XIII. is the only one besides that of his predecessor which exceeded the years of Peter. According to tradition, St. Peter became head of the church in '42 and was martyred in '66. The only pontificates that approached in length this term of years were those of Clement XI., from 1700 to 1721, and Pius VII., from 1800 to 1823, until in 1846 Pius IX. was raised to the papal chair, which he held for the extraordinary period of 32 years. Leo XIII. completed the 25th year of his pontificate February 20 of the present year. He was much older when elected than was Pius IX., who died at the age of 86. Pope Leo was 93 on March 2 of the present year, having been born in 1810.

His long pontificate will rank as illustrious, both in the annals of the church and in general history. The name which he adopted is one which is associated with great epochs. It was a Leo who first definitely established papal supremacy; it was a Leo who crowned Charlemagne as head of the holy Roman empire; it was a Leo whose pontificate saw the outbreak of the reformation. The age of Leo XIII. may appear as important as any in historical perspective. When he assumed the papal tiara he confronted a situation altogether unprecedented in the history of the church. The conflict between ecclesiastical and secular authority, which had lasted over a thousand years, had ended in the definite triumph of the latter, and the temporal power of the church was gone. The wounds of the conflict were still fresh, and its effects upon the power and influence of the church were undetermined. The situation called for the highest wisdom, tact and fortitude, and Leo XIII. has been equal to every emergency. It has been his lot to guide the fortunes of the church through a dangerous transition period, in which he has been successful. Too cautious for innovation or radical changes of policy, he has upheld the claims of the church, but his methods have been such as to allay passion and to promote the growth of a sentiment that efflux of time will settle practical differences and bring about an accommodation of interests between church and state.

In contests that have taken place between the church and European powers, events have shown that the influence of the papacy is tremendously powerful, despite the fact that its weapons are solely those derived from moral forces. Even the masterful Bismarck had to acknowledge defeat in attempting to coerce the church, and was compelled to negotiate terms. The moral prestige of the papal chair has been greatly advanced during Leo's pontificate, and there is a general disposition on the part of prudent statesmen to value the conservative influence of the church and to secure support from it. The case of France is a marked exception, and the politics of that country are now tending decidedly toward another period of violent religious conflict, the prospect of which has troubled the last days of the pope.

During his long pontificate the old bitterness has largely disappeared from Protestant antagonism to papal pretensions, and they are now rejected without rancor or disrespect. Creeds and confessions have even been altered so as to remove harsh expressions concerning the papacy. The wisdom, learning and piety of Leo XIII. commands universal veneration, and the vast power for good which lies in the organization and influence of the Roman Catholic church is freely admitted and appreciated by all Protestants denominations. The spirit of the age is irenic; it seeks points of agreement and not of difference, and abhors waste of energy in strife between bodies of Christian believers. The growth of this spirit has been greatly promoted by Leo XIII., whose course has dissipated the stock reproach of obscurantim brought against the church. Such has been his openness to the progress of thought that he extended fresh facilities to the Biblical criticism which is exciting so much alarm and dismay in Protestant denominations. He threw the vatican archives open to historical scholars, and he appointed a commission on the Bible, with an invitation to Catholic scholars all over the world to set forth their views. Such intellectual leadership on the part of the Roman pontiff is an event of marked importance.

The achievements of his pontificate, being triumphs of tact and patience, rather than signal strokes of policy, will not reveal themselves in their full significance until the time comes to write the history of the age, but there can be no doubt that Leo XIII. will be classed among the great popes.

An Expensive Hold-Up.

Ordinances providing for the letting of contracts for the building of the sand filtration plant were introduced in councils September 5 and referred to the joint filtration committee. September 15 they were referred to a sub-committee composed of the following members of councils: Thomas M. Brown, 423 Fifth avenue; M. E. O'Brien, 2808 Sarah street, South Side; Gebhart Sahner, 35 Mt. Oliver street, South Side; Thomas E. Perry, 2023 Penn avenue, and William J. Zahniser, 184 Home street. It is stated that this committee has never held a meeting, and when a meeting was recently called none of the members, except Chairman Brown, responded.

Since the committee has maintained this policy of inactivity the deaths from typhoid fever up to July 1 have numbered 257, indicating the occurrence of 2,570 cases, according to the mortality ratio of the disease. In an investigation made some years ago by a Cincinnati commission into the economic cost to a community of a typhoid fever epidemic, the average burial expense was computed at $60, the average cost of medical attendance $40, and the average loss of time from work or school of those who recover, six weeks, worth $1 50 a day, even at city laborer's wages. Applying these figures to the typhoid fever cost to Pittsburgh since the committee got hold of the ordinances and we have the following result:

Burial expenses, 257@$60	$ 15,420 00
Medical expenses, 2,570@$40	102,800 00
Wage loss, 2,313x36@$1 50	124,902 00
Total	$243,122 60

The computation takes no account of the wage loss by those who died. The Cincinnati estimate computed the economic value of each life as $10,000, which would make an addition of $2,570,000 to the above estimate of the cost to the community of a polluted water supply during the time the committee has had the ordinances.

At present, deaths from typhoid fever are averaging 10 a week, so that on the same basis of calculation the weekly expense to the community amounts to $600 for burial expenses, $700 for medical expenses, estimated at $7 a week and $900 for wage loss—a total of $2,200 a week, to say nothing of the value of human life.

It is the most expensive councilmanic hold-up ever worked in Pittsburgh, and it is still going on with no more signs of ending than months ago.

Our Trade With Canada.

An interesting feature of the statistical bulletin just issued at Washington is its showing that exports from this country to Canada are increasing much faster than our imports from that country. There has been a steady increase of the trade with Canada for the past decade, our exports growing from $48,628,508 in value in 1893 to about $125,000,000 in the fiscal year ending with June, 1903, while our imports have only increased from $38,186,342 in value to about $55,000,000. Thus while in 1893 our exports to Canada only exceeded our imports from Canada by something like $10,000,000, they are now more than double our imports, and the actual difference in favor of the United States is about $70,000,000. It is significant, too, that this condition of the British North American trade has been brought about in the face of the fact that Canada discriminates in her tariffs against the United States in favor of Great Britain. It will be interesting when statistics are available to compare the relative growth of the trade of Great Britain and of the United States with the dominion. It is also worthy of comment that not only did our exports to Canada increase during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, about $18,000,000, but that the rate of increase was greater than that to any other country, except Germany. To Germany we sent $21,000,000 more goods than in the preceding year, but to Mexico the increase was but $2,000,000, to Argentina but $1,500,000, and to all the remainder of South America only $2,000,000, and to all Africa only $4,000,000. Neither Germany nor Canada are especially friendly in their treatment of American trade, though Canada's action is due merely to a greater love for the mother country. Nevertheless, the people of Canada and of Germany insist on increasing their purchases from American markets. This is a tribute to our goods and prices that is indeed gratifying and encouraging.

Talking Tariff.

It was said in a recent publication from Washington, with reference to the president's intention to assemble congress in extraordinary session on November 9, that there is a tentative program to give the Democrats all the time they want during the session to discuss questions of the tariff and reciprocity. A more recent Washington letter has it that "the Democratic leaders will endeavor to force a tariff fight on congress, for they believe that should such a thing be precipitated the feeling would become so bitter among Republicans that it might end disastrously for the leaders of the majority." Of course, it is a long time until November, and much may happen in the meantime to disappoint expectations. If, however, the Democrats want to discuss the tariff when congress meets there is the practical objection to it that unlimited discussion will interfere with public business, and it is at least questionable whether the Republican majority, which is responsible for legislative results, ought to permit such interference. The temptation to permit it is manifestly great, for a vigorous attack on protection by the Democrats on the eve of a presidential campaign would be additional assurance of Republican victory all along the line in November, 1904. It may seem strange in view of this that the Democrats should want to precipitate a tariff discussion at this time, and the apparent desire to force the issue probably has its roots in the wish to transfer Democratic attention from the money question to something else. If the Democratic leaders can make Democrats forget the attempted crime of 1900 and 1896 they will consider that they have accomplished something for the future if not for 1904. The people so well understand that the prosperity of the United States is based on protection to American industries that the Republican party really does not need the additional assistance of a Democratic tariff onslaught in congress. It will not surprise us, therefore, if the Republican leaders in the interest of the expedition of public business apply the brakes to the Democratic spellbinders, who, if they want to talk tariff, will find time and opportunity to do so outside the halls of congress during the campaign.

Official announcement that there are many millions in the national treasury in excess of all liabilities is accompanied with a demand from the Democrats that the rascals be turned out.

Some people seem surprised that when the mayor and the director of public works took that Fourth of July carriage ride they did not fall out.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

Ira D. Sankey, the evangelist, has sold his country home at Eastport, L. I.

Edwin Markham of Brooklyn spends most of his time in literary work at his home in Westerleigh.

Prof. John K. Paine of Harvard will represent that institution at the unveiling of the Wagner monument in Berlin. Mr. Payne is professor of music at Harvard.

Paderewski is at his castle in Morges, Switzerland, suffering from severe inflammation of the muscles of the right arm. He has been ordered not to touch the piano for at least three months.

William Le Queux, the novelist, has received from the republic of San Marino the title and cross of chevalier, in recognition of diplomatic services rendered to the republic and to Italy.

Dr. Luther Gulick, director of physical training in the public schools of New York, and the father of basketball, has been elected president of the American Physical Education association.

American Pacific Cable.

There was much propriety in so timing the completion of the last link in the Philippines submarine cable that the first formal message might be sent over it on the Fourth of July, says the New York Tribune. Although it is not the first submarine telegraph line to span the Pacific—its completion having been anticipated eight months by the Vancouver-Brisbane cable—it has a special significance for the United States. Two important acquisitions to American territory, recently made, are now brought into direct communication with the country to which they belong. With Hawaii there was no connection at all before, and the Philippines could only be reached by a route more than twice as long, exceedingly circuitous, and in the control of other governments. In the new cable the people and the government of the United States have rare privileges. The rates for messages will be materially reduced, the Washington authorities have the right of way over all commercial business, an option on the whole property has been secured, and temporary control is permissible in any great national emergency. Thus in an entirely new sense America now achieves independence.

Our Right to Protest.

It must be remembered that the United States holds a peculiar position in its relation to the citizens of many foreign nations, says the Week's Progress. In our population are included several million foreigners, including Russian Jews, who, while they are no longer amenable to the Russian laws, are united by bonds of kinship and tradition with their fellows in Russia. Since the Jews compose so large a body among our citizens, their views are entitled to some official expression through our government, and especially in a form so hopefully respectful as the B'nai B'rith petition. If there were a large negro element in Russia, there would be greater diplomatic reason for a Russian protest against our lynchings. Suppose that the mass of our people suddenly began flagrantly to persecute their German fellow citizens: Would not Germany feel entitled to offer a protest? And could we well resent such an action? After all, however, it is a question of practice rather than of theory, and whatever the result of the president's action we have excellent reason to infer that Secretary Hay is not blundering around in the dark.

National Convention Delegates.

Some of the newspapers of the State appear to be of the opinion that Pennsylvania will have eight delegates at large in the national convention next year, the same as in 1900. This is wrong. The delegates at large will number only four. The fact that the state has been reapportioned and no longer elects congressmen-at-large reduces the representation at large in national conventions to four. The state, however, will have eight district delegates more than in the last conventions. The district delegates will number 64 and the delegates at large 4, making a total for the state of 68.—Philadelphia Press.

BY THE SEA.

Last year we paced the yellow sands
Beside the restless sea;
I held in mine your tiny hands
And drew you close to me:
I marked your blushes come and go,
The sight, the smile, the fear;
The words you whispered soft and low
Were music in mine ear.

We, too, were dreaming Love's young dream
Beside the murmuring sea;
Your presence made the whole earth seem
A paradise to me;
We said our love would never change,
Would no abatement know
While life should last—it seems so strange
'Twas just one year ago.

Once more we pace the yellow sands
Beside the summer sea;
I do not hold your tiny hands,
You do not cling to me;
I do not press you to my heart
And kiss your snowy brow—
We're strolling twenty yards apart,
For we are married now.

Disasters come, but come in the natural order of things, and not by chance, nor by appointment.

Some pretend to be able to foretell disaster, and their predictions hit, sometimes. You can do as well, provided you keep in mind the seasons, for storms have their seasons the same as grain and fruit, winter and summer, night and day.

This is the season for rainstorms, but the day and date for their appearance has not been set. If you have been a careful observer you can figure on the weather about as well as the best of them.

And as for cyclones, cloudbursts and disasters, you can make a guess, and if it hits you will be a true prophet, and if it doesn't, nothing will be said about it.

The misses of those who predict unusually occurrences far outnumber their hits, but they only count the hits.

* * * * *

Up to date Fourth of July disasters are ahead of last year, with other districts to hear from.

The Chicago Tribune makes a feature of holiday casualties. Last year the figures showed 21 deaths, 2,177 injuries and fire losses amounting to $80,153.

This year 32 deaths are reported, 3,665 injuries, with fire losses aggregating $400,625. These figures are correct, as far as they go, but it is hardly probable that they cover more than half of the injuries, because many of these would be overlooked, particularly in smaller towns. In fact, there are only about 200 cities and towns in the list.

It would be quite safe to say that 5,000 persons were injured by firearms and fireworks of all kinds. Of the injuries noted in the report 550 are credited to the toy pistol, 562 to firearms, and 768 to gun powder, while fireworks take the banner with 1,170.

So it was a record-breaking Fourth, as far as celebrating was concerned. But this is a record-breaking year, and the glorious Fourth kept up with the procession, as it always does.

* * * * *

The Tribune makes the following editorial comments on its returns:

"Of course the estimate is as yet incomplete. Only the principal cities and towns have been heard from. It is not unlikely that almost every town and village, however small, will add to the list of wounded, if not to that of the dead. As it is, the number exceeds that of any previous year, and will be largely increased when full reports are had.

"It, perhaps, is useless to inveigh against the prevalent style of celebrating the Fourth, and yet it seems the height of inconsistency to make what should be a joyful, patriotic celebration so destructive to life and limb that the list of casualties resembles a bulletin of losses in battle. There are laws against the use of deadly weapons, but, of course, they were not meant to be enforced, or, if they were, they are not enforced, which amounts to the same thing. Probably Fourth of July will continue to be celebrated in the present senseless and exasperating fashion until some destructive conflagration or appalling catastrophe calls attention to the necessity of limiting the enthusiastic industry of small boys and grown idiots in handling weapons of destruction and the greed of dealers in disposing of them without any restrictions. If noise is the essential way of expressing the sense of patriotic delight, ways might be found to produce noise without making it so destructive to those producing it."

No doubt there are those who believe they had premonition of the Jeannette disaster. However, when they come to think it over there was nothing definite in the feelings which they now hold to have been warnings; at least the feeling was not strong enough to lead them to warn their friends against going to the park. And if the disaster had not occurred they would never have recalled these peculiar feelings.

Scarcely a day passes in which one does not experience some peculiar mental or physical sensation which might, in case of serious mishap, be construed into a premonition.

This disaster was one that might have been prevented. With Johnstown only a few miles away, the people of Jeannette cannot say they had no warning of danger. The bursting of the Johnstown dam was a warning to all who build mud dams, and to all who live below them.

And surely the people were aware of the fact that cloud-bursts are not uncommon in mountain regions, for not a season passes that there are not more or less of these destructive downpours.

The dam may have been reasonably strong, and provided with weirs or sluiceways sufficient to carry off ordinary flood waters, but this flood happened to be something extraordinary.

Now, the question arises: Should dams be built to resist extraordinary floods, such as this? Is the exercise of reasonable care and precaution all that can be required of those constructing pleasure resorts?

Then who is to blame?

The people felt perfectly safe in going there, taking it for granted that the dam was all right.

They are hardly entitled to the blame.

The builders, had they known this thing was coming, would have provided for it.

Does that let them out?

If neither the people nor the builders of the dam are to blame, then upon whom, or what shall it be thrown?

Or, is there any blame in the case?

These are the questions that are being discussed by the people who are deeply interested in the matter.

But who shall decide?

* * * * *

It used to be the fashion to blame all such things on providence, and then, in order to avoid charging the Almighty with cruelty and injustice, they were said to have been sent as punishment for sins—the particular sins not being specified—and they should be accepted as blessings rather than as scourges.

This doctrine is held yet to some extent, but not nearly as general as it was a generation or two past.

In this day and age, however, the people will contend that if the dam had been properly built the disaster would not have happened, and for the reason that it could not. There may have been no defective workmanship in its construction, and it may have been well planned to resist ordinary freshets, but it evidently was neither planned nor built to stand cloudbursts.

There are others that have been built on similar plans, and some, no doubt, built without plans. These should be looked after, for they may be visited by cloudbursts, or unusual floods.

A mud dam isn't safe, nohow, for clay mixed with sand and loam will become water-soaked and mushy sooner or later, and then it is not dependable.

* * * * *

Down in Mississippi a legal fence must be "mule high, bull strong and pig tight." Unless a field is thus protected the owner cannot collect damages if a neighbor's stock breaks in and destroys the growing crop.

Why not have some such law enacted for the regulations of dams across waterways, one of the specifications being that they shall be cloudburst strong. And another might be that they shall be "crawfish" tight, for these little backsliders like nothing better than boring holes in mud dams. And then minks, muskrats, otters and other amphibious animals, dig them out of their holes, for they are good eating. In this way dams are bored—as one might say, bored to death, or until they become death-traps.

There should be a law, if there is none, requiring individuals to take out permits before being allowed to build dams. The application for a permit should set forth all the particulars, so that a competent engineer could determine whether it would be safe. And the factor of safety should be great enough to meet the demands of the average cloudburst, at least.

Not a Nutmeg State.

The Hartford Courant takes it hard that Connecticut should still be called the Nutmeg state, and hardest of all that her own people should participate in keeping up this characterization. It grew, as this impatient and indignant journal says, out of the delusion that Connecticut, in earlier days, made wooden nutmegs and sent smart peddlers down into the southern section to palm them off upon a confiding people as the genuine article. Connecticut was never so dishonest as this, and it may also be added that the southern people were not so foolish as to be deceived by so palpable a fraud, if she had been. The legend, therefore, had never any basis in either direction. How it originated is not disclosed, but probably the humor that was inherent in the invented deception is what has kept it alive all this time and sent it to plague our Connecticut contemporary in the present century.—Boston Herald.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 6.—One of the collateral advantages of the Fourth of July is that it brings to popular attention many of the excursions possible to New Yorkers at a nominal cost. The trolley is all powerful. You may get on a trolley car at the battery, ride to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, transfer to another car and run down to the Fort Lee ferry, at the foot of the street, on the Hudson river. This costs 5 cents. For another nickel you cross the Hudson on the old-fashioned ferry, and then pay one more 5 cents for a most beautiful trolley ride to Hackensack. Hackensack in itself is a charming little town, so charming indeed that I know more than one ex-Pittsburgher who has made it his permanent home, but the ride to it through scenes which are absolutely unapproachable for sylvan beauty. There is the Hudson river, sparkling far below the Palisades, suggesting that an accident to the car would give you a roll of a few hundred feet down the cliffs, while for a long distance the trees arch overhead and the way lies through an actual bower of maples, elms, chestnuts and sycamores. The car travels fast. It is beyond the city limits and the village authorities, as one sweeps through little settlements one after the other, do not object to a trolley car going as fast as it lists. They only drew the line at autos. It is a ride of about 15 miles to Hackensack, and when one arrives there we will find restaurants and other conveniences. Then come again, finally getting off the car at the battery, or any point near home, after spending 30 cents for a trip which would have cost perhaps $1 a year ago and have taken twice as long. This excursion to Hackensack was one of the favorites on the Fourth, as it is on any holiday or Sunday.

Everybody Afflicted With Ennui.

People moved listlessly today. They had not got over the holiday altogether and the days' rest they were supposed to have had yesterday only aggravated their complaint. They were lazy—undoubtedly, incontrovertibly lazy. Business was conducted somehow, but it seemed as if the object of everyone was to "get through." As the evening approached there were some signs of activity and by the time the quitting bell rang, so to speak, young men and boys who had appeared to be at their last gasp for four or five hours showed they were strong enough to rush for their cars or their homes as gaily as if their day had been one long play time. Happily the working day in New York in many lines of endeavor lasts only eight hours. If it had been 10 or 12 hours long it is to be feared there would have been many collapses from sheer ennui. New York always requires an extra day to get over a holiday.

Cheaper Hotels Needed.

Some wideawake man some day will see that there is a demand for cheap but respectable hotels in the Broadway district of New York. If he has money enough to build them he will make a lot of money. The stranger in this city who wants to stay a few days but cannot afford the higher prices at the leading hotels, and yet does not care to go into the rookeries where the accommodations are impossible to decently-reared people, is forced into a boarding house or else pays more than he intended for his bed and roof. We have all the expensive hotels we need. The demand is for a few middle-class hostelries where the rates are within the reach of the clerk or small business man.

Correct Way to Clean a Rug.

That doughty fighter for the public weal, Dr. Lederle, president of the board of health, finds fault because women in flats beat rugs out of the windows. The doctor remarks that there is no reason why all the dirt and filth of the rugs should be sifted into the flat below. The remedy would be to run the carpet sweeper over the rug several times; then take the rug into the yard, and with a broom, over which has been tied a cloth dipped into water and ammonia, brush it thoroughly. This sounds well, but a woman on the fifth floor of a Harlem flat is much more inclined to beat her rug out of the window in the old-fashioned way than to take the trouble to go down into the yard, particularly when there is no elevator.

Money in Old Rookeries.

In the densely populated tenement districts of the East Side investments pay as high as in Fifth avenue, where the multi-millionaires live. It is almost incomprehensible to the stranger that men can make fortunes out of dirty old tenements that look as if they might be carried off bodily as refuse and thrown into the sea. But the owners of these tenements know their value. Many families pay as much for three miserable dark rooms in the lower East Side as it would cost them for a goodly sized flat in Harlem. And the dramatic feature of it all is that the tenements are owned by some of the wealthiest and most exclusive families in New York fashionable society.

An Oasis in Noisome Desert.

In many quarters tenement houses are disappearing to make room for parks, public schools, playgrounds and other comforts for youthful New York. The largest and most expensive school in Manhattan is about to be erected on the block bounded by Hester, Essex and Norfolk streets. This is in the heart of the Ghetto, where men, women and children are literally packed in. The value of the ground is very high, to begin with. The building, which will be six stories in height, of the French renaissance school of architecture, having accommodation for 4,500 pupils and an auditorium on the main floor which will seat 1,800 persons. Besides the many classrooms, more than 100, there will be a gymnasium, cooking rooms, workshop, two baths and two locker rooms.

Merchants Are Still Hopeful.

Retail merchants in New York have suffered severely by the continued cool and wet weather of June and the beginning of July. Summer goods have had a dreadful black eye. Thin garments for both men and women have not sold in anything like their usual volume and bargain counters are full of such things at cut prices which would have been cleared off long ago if the summer had been dry and hot. It is passing strange that with so many cool and wet summers as New York has had business men go on hoping and believing. One might think they would become disheartened sooner or later.

Hot Weather Advice.

Eat less and drink plenty of water without ice and the heat stroke will not get you, according to the best authorities.—Chicago News.

A Remarkable Event.

Boston is used to conventions and big gatherings. Possibly for that reason the fear of the Christian Scientists in filling Mechanics' hall three times on one Sunday for a strictly religious service has not attracted undue attention.

But even Boston is not accustomed to seeing 7,000 or 8,000 people arrange within eight hours for an all-day excursion, have tickets printed and issued and special trains engaged inside that time, and actually be on their way before the invitation to go was 24 hours old, says the Boston Evening News.

That is something that usually follows weeks, even months, of careful planning, and yet the Christian Scientists did it in hours. Moreover, everything went as smoothly as if the details had been worked out by rule and rote. Not even a railroad official lost his temper, and there was not the semblance of an accident reported.

The vast gathering was handled, both in Boston and in Concord, by the volunteer ushers of the church. They did the policing and the directing. The people themselves did the rest.

Whatever one may think of Christian Science, whatever he may think of this visit to Concord, which outsiders persist in terming a "pilgrimage" and which insiders say was nothing of the sort, its success as a mere exhibition of how a crowd can be handled and can handle itself is sufficient to classify it among the extraordinary events of the moment.

* * * * * * * *

What did this visit really signify to the Christian Scientist, since, as already has been stated, he did not regard it in any sense as a pilgrimage?

While recognizing the full force and the full importance of unity, Christian Science is, nevertheless, an intensely individual matter.

The Christian Scientist does not believe in going about promiscuously reforming the world. He tries to reform himself, for he is logician enough to perceive that when every individual is reformed there will come a reformed world without any further difficulty.

It is a fact that comparatively few persons have identified themselves with the Christian Science movement except as they have become interested in it through great suffering.

With some this suffering has been from disease; with others it has been mental, and with others moral.

Whatever it has been, the Christian Scientist is thoroughly convinced that he has been able to escape it through the application of the rules of Christian Science for right thinking and right living.

He recognizes Mrs. Eddy as the formulator of these rules, by means of which he has been helped, and consequently his gratitude to her is natural and his desire to give expression to this gratitude keen.

It is the feeling of sincere gratitude which sends the Christian Scientist to Concord after he has been invited.

In the first place he considers it the part of courtesy to accept the invitation. In the second place it is a matter of great personal gratification to see Mrs. Eddy and to hear her speak.

This is not worship, but it is unusual evidence of strong affection and loyalty.

* * * * * * * *

Aside from the satisfaction of seeing Mrs. Eddy and hearing her speak, the characteristic of the Concord visit which most seemed to please and impress the Christian Scientists was the hospitality with which they were received by Concord itself.

The city did not turn out to receive them—that they would have found disconcerting and unpleasant; but it did throw open to them its doors—even the doors of its clubs and private residences.

A conspicuous leader in this particular was the Wonolancet club, whose spacious house in the heart of the city was placed absolutely at the disposal of the Scientists.

The club's officials were on hand to receive all comers, and there the visitors ate their luncheon and drank copiously of lemonade and ice water provided by their hosts.

It was a most graceful compliment to Mrs. Eddy, as well as a tribute to the trust that Concord knows from experience that she can place in Mrs. Eddy's guests.

To how many promiscuous gatherings of excursionists from all over the world would the Wonolancet club care to throw open its home without restraint?

These evidences in Concord are little in themselves, but in the aggregate they are a great deal. Mrs. Eddy has made Concord her home for a number of years, and her followers have visited Concord constantly in that time.

Christian Science is a way is more to evidence in Concord than it is in Boston, for Concord is a smaller place, and if it is in Concord that the utmost confidence is placed in Christian Scientists.

We all have our little weaknesses, and Christian Scientists may have theirs. But it would appear from a candid examination of their case that they also have some qualities which are worth almost anyone's emulation.

At least they know how to conduct themselves like ladies and gentlemen when they go on excursions, and that of itself is a bit of a virtue.

Skyscraper Apartments.

Mr. R. T. Bolton's defense of the skyscraper at the Aldine club disclosed the fact that there are 1,175,000 New Yorkers living in flats or apartments. It was further shown, says the New York World, that 90 tall office buildings in lower New York have added 16 acres to the actual business area of that section. One of the speakers took part in the discussion regretted the passing of the private house of comparatively low elevation. But has the resulting change of fancy been disadvantageous to the tenant?

Apart from consideration of land value which make a private dwelling an expensive luxury, the skyscraper apartment gives its occupants purer air, sanitary plumbing, from which there is no danger of enteric or similar disease, housekeeping facilities not obtainable in private homes without great additional expense and not least, is replaced the isolation of the single dwelling with a community life, which, if sometimes scorned, is a natural and normal requirement of humankind. Man is by nature gregarious; he was meant to live with and not apart from his fellow-men. And in the apartment house this provision of nature attains its fullest development.

Southern Progress.

In 1880 the south had 40 cottonseed oil mills with a capital of $3,500,000. During the last six months alone the south has organized 94 cottonseed oil mills with a capital of $2,700,000. There are now 700 oil mills with an annual output of $125,000,000 in place of the 40 mills of 1880, says the Manufacturing Record. In 1880 the south made 397,000 tons of iron; this year its production will be largely

THEY FORGOT THEIR PLEDGES

Allegheny's Finance Committee Favored Keeping Delinquent Tax Collector's Office.

MEETING WAS A LIVELY ONE

Crowd Wanted Representative Francies to Speak, But He Was Refused Permission—Another Ordinance to Be Introduced.

Pledges given the public prior to the February election to the people of Allegheny counted for naught when the Citizens members of the finance committee of Allegheny councils were called upon last night to vote on the ordinance abolishing the delinquent tax office. The ordinance was considered and the Citizens majority in the committee sent it back to select council with a negative recommendation. Although the vote was tie—9 to 9—the measure, according to the ruling of Chairman Charles F. Kirschler, dies in committee, and the negative report will be made at the next meeting of the select branch.

Of those who voted against the ordinance William A. Ford, J. S. Duff, J. H. Henricks, Henry Herchenroether, William E. Kimberlin, Henry Meyer and Samuel McElroy were elected on the ticket with Wyman last February, and according to their pledges, were bound to "abolish all unnecessary offices" and "to support all legislation that would inure to the best interests of the taxpayer." Dr. F. H. Fredericks and John Omslaer, elected on the Republican ticket, voted against the ordinance. Those who voted in favor of the measure were Charles F. Kirschler, Charles O. Deverts, J. C. Oliver, C. P. Bernhard, T. W. Harvey, Robert L. Henderson, Thomas McBride, Thomas McHenry and Francis J. Torrance. Messrs. Bernhard, Harvey, Henderson, McBride and McHenry are Citizens members.

Fight Began Early.

The fight on the ordinance started just as soon as Chairman Kirschler had read the title of it. Mr. McHenry moved that it be favorably reported to councils and the motion was seconded by Mr. Deverts. William E. Kimberlin of the Second ward offered a lot of arguments against the passage of the bill. He was followed by Messrs. Ford and Kimberlin, Wyman men, who offered more arguments. Mr. Ford thought the legislature should act in the matter, although it provides in the city charter that "councils may by ordinance consolidate the offices of delinquent tax collector and city treasurer."

Mr. McHenry in a speech in favor of the passage of the bill said the delinquent tax office had been a thorn in the side of the people of Allegheny for the last 15 years and that nearly every taxpayer in the city was in favor of its abolition. "The people of this city have been putting up money long enough for a political favorite that he may get a 5 per cent rakeoff," he concluded.

An Argument That Was Weak.

Councilman Deverts, from the Fifteenth ward, said: "The only argument I have heard against the passage of this ordinance is that the city treasurer will not collect the taxes as well as the man who gets a percentage of what is collected. That is very weak."

Mr. Bernard, from the Third ward, asked that the ordinance be allowed to go into councils that both branches might get a chance to consider and vote on it. "Then, if it is passed, let the mayor veto it if he wants to," he said.

A speech made by President Francis J. Torrance of select council caused a lot of amusement at the expense of John R. Henricks, who spoke against the ordinance. Mr. Henricks, who is in the music business, said that when he could not collect his debts he gave them to a collecting agency, which was virtually a delinquent tax collector.

"If you owe money on a piano you might move away and take the piano with you, but if you owe taxes they will be collected, no matter who makes the collection," said Mr. Torrance.

President Samuel McElroy of common council made a strong appeal to the members of the committee to vote for a negative recommendation.

Francies Could Not Speak

Representative John Francies of the Second legislative district was in the room and the crowd called for a speech from him. Mr. Henricks moved that no one holding any position in the city or state except the members of the committee be allowed to speak. This was carried and Francies was refused the privilege of speaking.

Ex-Councilman John H. Trimble, a strong Citizens man, said: "There is not a citizen of Allegheny that will go into court and ask that the abolition of this office be stopped, and that is very good evidence that the people do not like it."

A number of speeches in favor of the ordinance were made by taxpayers, who urged that the committee send the measure to councils and let the councilmen act on it and answer to their constituents for the result. Only one speech in opposition was made by an outsider, and he came into the room with Delinquent Tax Collector Harry M. Davidson, who was busy during the whole meeting.

After the meeting it was said that another ordinance will be put into the select branch at the next meeting.

26 MORE CARRIERS FOR PITTSBURGH OFFICE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The letter carrying force of the Pittsburgh postoffice will likely be increased by 26 men. This is the recommendation of C. T. McCoy, assistant superintendent of city delivery, who was in Pittsburgh June 24 to 26 to investigate the needs of that office.

Mr. McCoy compliments the administration of Postmaster Holliday. He recommends that Mr. Holliday be allowed $11,000 for extra carriers during the current year, this sum to cover the salaries of the three extra men that were put on July 1. It is probable that this sum will be allowed, as it is about what Postmaster Holliday has asked for. This force will not be put on all at the time, but the force will be increased gradually. A civil service examination is scheduled for July 15.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, (the last seven days being estimated) the receipts were $1,415,501; for 1902 they were $1,211,018. The cost of city delivery for 1903 was $231,040, or 16.30 per cent of the total receipts, while for 1902 it was $208,604, or 17.1 per cent of the total receipts. The large increase in the territory of the Pittsburgh office is mentioned in Mr. McCoy's report, and he says that the requirements of the office will be proportionately increased in order that the high standard of the service may be maintained. Another recommendation of Mr. McCoy is an auxiliary allowance of $600 for the current year to relieve the heavy routes during temporary increases in business, an additional mounted carrier to be put on July 15, two additional collectors, and that the office street car fund be raised to $9,050. Flint Glass Workers Meet.

CINCINNATI, July 6.—The annual convention of the American Flint Glass Workers union convened here today, with President T. W. Rowe presiding, and 200 delegates present. The Green Bottle Blowers association meets here next week, when the proposition for consolidation will be considered. Members of the Glass Manufacturers association also met here this week for a conference on the requests for increases in wages from 4 to 15 per cent.

UNCLE AND NEPHEWS STRUCK BY AN ENGINE

Man and One Boy Instantly Killed—The Other Child Lying in a Serious Condition in the Hospital.

Uncle and one nephew were instantly killed, and another nephew fatally hurt at the Brushton avenue crossing of the the Pennsylvania railroad at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Dead.

WILLIAM WALLACE, 25 years old and single, of No. 4606 Fifth avenue.
HAROLD STERLING, 4 years old, son of Charles W. Sterling, a clerk of No. 7639 Hamilton avenue.

The Injured.

WALLACE STERLING, 10 years old, a brother of Harold, at the West Penn hospital with a compressed skull.

Wallace with his two nephews started from the boys' home to go to the ice houses of the Consolidated Ice Company, which are on the other side of the railroad tracks. They purchased some ice and loaded it in two wagons drawn by the boys and started back. Wallace was ahead of the boys and thought they could get across the track in time to avoid an engine which was running fast, east bound.

The boys became bewildered when they saw the locomotive and stood still. Wallace, who is an invalid, ran back, grabbed both boys and attempted to drag them from the tracks. He was not equal to the emergency, and the engine struck the three, killing the uncle and little Harold and seriously injuring Wallace.

Dr. Frank M. Cain of Brushton avenue arrived quickly, but only the younger boy was alive. He was removed to the West Penn hospital and the bodies of the killed were brought to the morgue.

The children are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sterling. Wallace is a brother of Mrs. Sterling and went out to visit her yesterday. It was the first time he has left the house in two months, having just passed through a severe attack of rheumatism.

STATESMEN FROM NEW MEXICO HERE

Former State Senator Andrews Brings a Congressman to Town.

RODEY IS VERY ENTHUSIASTIC

He Tells of the Greatness of the Territory and Is Certain of It Soon Becoming a State.

Former State Senator William H. Andrews, who is now a resident of New Mexico, arrived in the city last night and had as his guest B. S. Rody, the delegate to congress from New Mexico territory. Delegate Rody stopped in Pittsburgh to meet Mr. Andrews while on his way home from Washington and both said their meeting was of no political significance. Mr. Andrews is developing mines and timber lands in the territory.

Delegate Rodey is enthusiastic over the growth of the territory he represents, and in a breezy western fashion that had been toned down somewhat by contact with the conservatives at the capital, he predicted a great future for New Mexico. He said the land was developing and increasing in population much more rapidly than any other part of the country under one jurisdiction. The railroads and general prosperity, he said, were the direct cause of the growth and development, and he predicted that the rich country would make startling strides if all the railroads are built in the near future that has been planned for the region. He spoke further as follows:

The newly invented machinery for working low-grade ore is probably the greatest factor in the growth of the embryo state, next to the railroads, which, of course, are responsible for all the growth and generally increased business of the community. We never had much opportunity to grow down there until recently, when the railroads began to seek courses through the territory and now with three trunk lines we are on the way to become one of the greatest states in the union, for it is in New Mexico to become a factor in the country.

There is no reason why we should not be a state and have a vote in the affairs of the nation and we shall secure the right at the next session of the senate. This house was with us the last time, but for some reason the senate committee reported that there was not enough growth to warrant the statehood bill, even while the population was increasing and after 1,500,000 acres of land had been claimed as homesteads since the last census in 1890. That was more land than was ever before entered for homesteads and it all represented growth and improvement for a certain amount of the land had to be worked in order to be retained or the owner.

Mr. Rodey spoke of the territory becoming a state as though it was a settled fact, and that the mere formality of passing the law was all that remained to be done, indicating that some diplomatic canvassing must have been done among the senators.

Mr. Rodey said there are now 1,200 miles of railroad in operation in the state, and, although there are many millions of acres of land that can never be used for agricultural purposes, he thinks it can all be utilized ultimately for grazing. As the territory is now the principal seat of the sheep-raising industry he expects to prove that $20,000,000 will be invested in the territory within a few years.

According to Mr. Rodey statistics show that at least $10,000,000 is now invested in the mining and other industries of the territory, and he estimates that the population is about 400,000. In comparing the territory with the north he spoke so warmly of Pennsylvania that it brought forth the question if he was a native of the Keystone state.

"No, not by birth," was his reply, "but I am a Pennsylvanian for what the people of this state have done for our territory."

Ex-Senator Andrews explained that Mr. Rodey meant that many Pittsburghers had capital invested in the state, and that the people of New Mexico almost idolized Senator Quay for his efforts in behalf of the statehood bill. Ex-Senator Andrews is entertaining Delegate Rodey at the Schenley hotel.

ELEVEN INJURED.

Fence Collapsed With Them While They Were Watching a Merry-Go-Round.

The collapse of an iron fence surrounding a merry-go-round in a vacant lot in Fulton street, near Franklin street, shortly before 11 o'clock last night, resulted in the injury of a number of people. Those most seriously hurt are:

J. E. BOOKER, colored, of No. 44 Townsend street; ankle broken and injured internally; taken home.

MARY WALDRON, aged 11 years, of Clark street; scalp wound; taken home.

Others who were injured by the fall of the fence were taken away by their friends before their names could be learned.

The merry-go-round is in a vacant lot formerly occupied by the Curtis home. All evening a crowd of men and boys had been sitting on the fence, which was about eight feet above the pavement, looking at the riders. When the supports gave way the crowd fell to the street below.

Woman Defended Herself With Shovel.

After furnishing a stranger with a meal at her home in Heisel street, Homestead, yesterday, Mrs. Frank McConnell was attacked by the man. The struggled desperately and when almost overpowered grasped a shovel and struck her assailant down. He was arrested and later was sentenced 90 days to the workhouse.

TATEM—Entered into rest on Sunday, July 5, 1903, at 12:15 p. m., THOMAS M. TATEM, in his 65th year.

Haven comes after tempest,
The crown comes after cross,
A father's smile after suffering
And riches untold for loss.
Right is God's way of guiding to the land of cloudless day,
Right, though it be through darkness, for He knows all the way.
Yonder bright land of sunshine no aching feet ever trod,
Blessed home where a quiver of anguish through no breast ever throbbed.
After the gloom and heartaches comes rest of unbroken calm.
Unchanging in verdant beauty, their life is a song and psalm.
Sweet is the Father's home, rest that Christ has gone to prepare.
For all who love Him will surely enter there.
In His own good time He'll call us and greet us one by one;
No night, no death, no suffering, and the Saviour calls "Well done."

Funeral from his late residence, 1764 Perrysville avenue, Allegheny City, on Wednesday, July 8, at 2 p. m. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend. [Philadelphia, Pa.) papers, St. Louis (Mo.), and Detroit (Mich.) papers please copy.]

HOT WEATHER—NERVOUS WOMEN.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nervous system. Peruna furnishes the lasting invigoration for the nerves that such people so much need.

Peruna is a Catarrhal Tonic Especially Adapted to the Nervous Depression Incident to Warm Weather.

Miss Blanche Grey, a prominent young society woman of Memphis, Tenn., in a recent letter from 174 Alabama street, writes:

"To a society woman whose nervous force is often taxed to the utmost from lack of rest and irregular meals, I know of nothing which is of so much benefit as Peruna. I took it a few months ago when I felt my strength giving way, and it soon made itself manifest in giving me new strength and health."

A Letter From Julia Marlowe.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe of New York City, has the following to say of Peruna:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition. This is especially true in the warm season. Every summer a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This could be easily obviated by the use of Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion. Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality, which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

The unsolicited praise that Peruna receives surely proves that Peruna is without an equal as a nerve tonic and vital invigorator.

Thousands of testimonials from women in all parts of the United States are being received by Dr. Hartman every year.

Buy a bottle of Peruna. If you do not receive all the benefits from Peruna that you expected, write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

TO PROVIDE FOR HOMELESS ONES

People of Penn Make Heroic Effort to Shelter Their Flood Victims.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR AID

Aggregate Loss Will Exceed $50,000. Town Council Adopts Measures to Secure Immediate Relief for Sufferers. List of the Losers.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PENN STATION, PA., July 6.—Desolate and half-deserted, this little hamlet tonight is making sturdy efforts to repair the terrible effects of yesterday's disaster. Two hundred people in Penn station are homeless, half the houses in the town were either washed away or damaged to such an extent as to seriously affect the financial condition of its citizens; the streets are strewn with wreckage, all the leading stores and hotels were flooded, and there is grave danger of pestilence arising from the unbearable stench that fills the whole valley.

Today an appeal was made for aid. Thirty families must be cared for, and the borough exchequer is unequal to the demands. Burgess Ralph Donaldson opened two funds for the immediate relief of the distressed families and in two hours this afternoon had raised over $40 among the coal miners and farmers. At a meeting of the borough council tonight a formal appeal was made to the public asking for money, clothing and other necessities. A. F. Landis, a newspaper publisher of Jeannette, was appointed treasurer to receive the contributions. A committee of the citizens will attend to the distribution and the borough school house will be opened for the establishment of a depot of supplies.

Small Mining Settlement.

Penn is a mining settlement of less than 1,000 population. Her people are peaceable and industrious, but many are but meagerly supplied with the world's goods. Calamity and ruin rode on the torrent that swept away its humble dwellings and to care for all its sufferers would bankrupt the more fortunate people who live on the highlands.

Notwithstanding this a special meeting of the town council and the board of health was called and tonight the officers waded through the mud and water that covered the floors of the little brick town hall and lost no time in taking decisive action. J. F. Kennedy, president of the council, presided, and with the burgess and several leading citizens addressed the people on the most advisable means of affording prompt relief for the sufferers.

The victims are now being cared for in the houses of their neighbors and a score of families last night renewed their offers of hospitality until more permanent measures are taken.

A widow who has two children and lives in a tiny cabin on the hillside above the town said that her house should be open to any flood victims desiring shelter.

"The Lord has spared my garden," she said, "and there is more than I need for my small family. Some of these poor people have lost more than their homes—they have seen their loved ones snatched away to a cruel death. I shall consider it a privilege to give them some comfort."

While Burgess Ralph Donaldson hastened through the town this afternoon securing contributions for the emergency relief fund he said:

"I desire The Gazette to announce that Penn borough is in dire need of funds in order to prevent hunger from adding to the woes of our shelterless people. A committee will be appointed which will attend to the proper distribution of money and supplies. I feel sure that the people of Pittsburgh and the surrounding country will respond liberally to our appeals when they understand the extent of the catastrophe which has visited the town."

Bearing Their Dead.

The earnestness of Burgess Donaldson was given added emphasis by the scene of desolation and grief which was visible on every hand. While he spoke a party of men walked solemnly up the street, clambering over wreckage and through great fields of mud, as they made their way to Witz's hall, opposite the railroad station. Between the men the bruised and naked body of a woman, but half concealed under an old tattered blanket, swayed in an improvised stretcher. It was the corpse of Mrs. Cyrus Schrader of West Jeannette, which had been found by a party of Penn rescuers in a mass of wreckage in the center of the town. The body was placed in the hall beside those of James Westwood and Mrs. Philemena Negar, which had been recovered earlier in the day. Three children of Mrs. Negar, whose bodies have not yet been found, and Charles Wightman, a 10-year-old son of John Wightman, who was struck by lightning, complete the list of Penn's dead.

Westwood was a bartender in Simmon's hotel in Jeannette and lived in a little cottage in Railroad street, Penn borough. In describing the manner of his death a neighbor said:

Gave Life for Chickens.

"Jim was too tender-hearted. When the flood came and the water swept around his house he rescued his wife and two little children and then turned in and helped out some of the neighbors. Suddenly Jim remembered some chickens that were kept in a small house on the rear of his lot. Despite the protests of his friends, he ran back to save the fowls. He waded in water to his waist and had made his way to the chicken house, when the water rushed in from all sides. Jim was swallowed up. This morning at daylight we found him lying there in the yard with his hand on the door of the house."

Victor Wilfer, a molder, whose house is on the banks of Brush creek, had a thrilling experience. Like Westwood, he, too, ran back to his house to look for a trinket he wished to save from the wreck. Twenty feet of water suddenly swept into the building. Wilfer ran to the second floor and climbed out of a window and sought refuge in the branches of a tree. He remained there until 1 o'clock this morning, when the water subsided sufficiently to permit a boat to be rowed to his strange harbor.

Strictly Prohibition Town.

There are four hotels in Penn, but today the town was strictly prohibition. In each of the barrooms the muddy water had invaded the shelves and cellars where the "wet goods" were kept and caused general havoc. Barrels of beer and whisky floated off, cases of bottles were broken and the bar fixtures were ruined by mud.

The board of health will take immediate steps to clean up decayed animal and vegetable matter that fills the streets and every effort will be made to protect the people from the threatened scourge of disease. Wells and cisterns are filled with mud and drinking water in some cases is carried half a mile.

The following is a complete list of the damage wrought to the various householders of Penn:

J. E. Meyers Lumber Company	$ 1,000

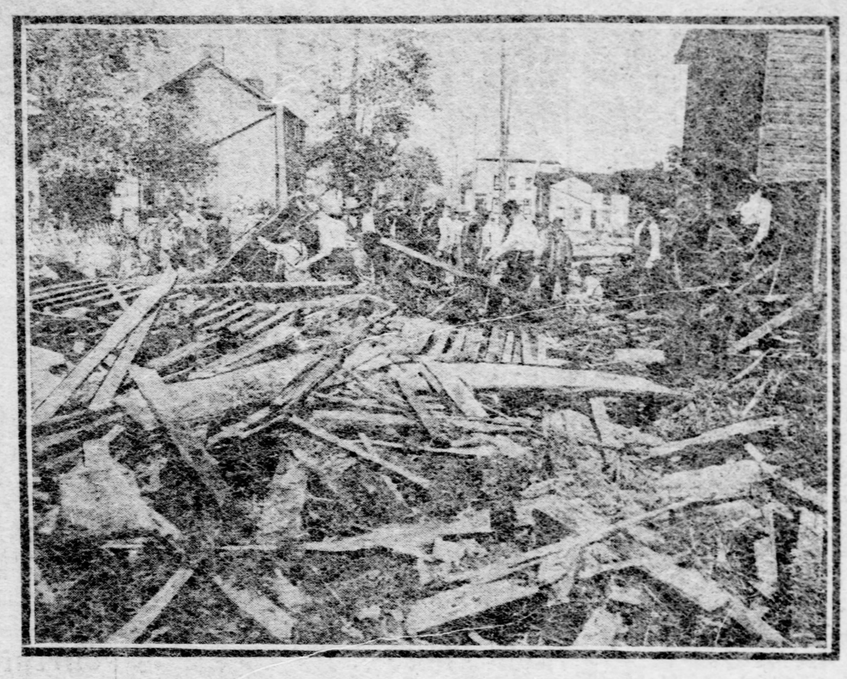
SHRIEKED FOR HELP, BUT NONE CAME



Digging For the Body of Mrs. Cyrus Schroeder.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—"Help! Will no one come!" These words from the lips of a dying woman led to the prompt recovery of the body of Mrs. Cyrus Schroeder, whose house was swept away from its foundations in West Jeannette, drowning Mrs. Schroeder after she had floated half a mile down the raging torrent.

Shortly after 5 o'clock last night, when the flood had reached its fury, the family of John Knoll in Penn borough saw a frame house tumbling down the creek, half submerged in the leaping billows of yellow water. Knoll and his wife and children fled to the second story, and peering from a small window, saw the floating house roll over the public road and crash to pieces in a whirlpool formed by the on-rushing water. It was quite dark and Knoll believed the wrecked building to be untenanted until with a thrill of horror, he heard the cry above the roar of the flood.

As soon as the water subsided a rescuing party was formed, and after four hours' work the body was found under tons of debris near the spot where the house had collapsed.

JEANNETTE REFUGEES.

New Castle Man and Wife Relate Their Experience in the Flood.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 6.—(Special.)—John Brisbine and wife of No. 130 Boyles avenue, refugees from the Jeannette cloudburst and flood, arrived home at midnight from that place, where they were visiting Mrs. Brisbine's sister, Mrs. Kearns.

The families were sitting in the Kearns home when they saw the rushing waters descending upon them. All broke for the hills and barely escaped with their lives, after encountering many difficulties in their flight. As they ran, they gave the alarm to many other families, who also escaped, but had not time to carry away any of their household goods.

DAMAGE NEAR HOMESTEAD.

Flood Made Families Homeless in West Run and Munhall Valleys.

The rains of Sunday night caused heavy damage in West run and Munhall valleys, near Homestead, destroying about $15,000 worth of property. The house of George Griff was completely demolished and the fragments carried down the stream a distance of a half-mile. John Bellamy's house was lifted bodily and carried 20 feet, being turned completely around so that the back faces the street.

Five families are homeless on account of the ruining of house and furniture and narrow escapes are reported from the flood, which came on with the rapidity of a cloudburst.

At West Run the plant of the Homestead Brick Company was partially carried away and the damage to this company alone will reach $5,000.

IRWIN SUFFERED GREAT DAMAGE

Property Loss Is Estimated at $283,500, and Manufacturing Plants Are Crippled.

TWO BRIDGES SWEPT AWAY

Town Was Divided by an Impassable Torrent—Many Men Thrown Out of Work—Two Lives Sacrificed—North Irwin's Water Supply Cut Off.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

IRWIN, PA., July 6.—Those of Irwin's residents who slept last night awoke this morning to find the entire lower portions of the town in ruins. The freight station, the county road bridge, mills, factories and houses ripped from their foundations and tossed into the angry flood of Brush creek. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done this town, and Irwin adds two victims to the list of dead.

People of Irwin were warned of the impending flood in the afternoon, yet no preparation was made. The fury of the flood reached here toward eventide, but it was much later when railroad sidings caved in and with it the freight station, which helped tear down the iron bridge and carry it along with the flood.

By 9 o'clock the entire town was aroused. Those who lived on the hill across the railroad tracks hurried to their homes on the heights far above the bed of the creek. Those living in Irwin proper on the hill, also made themselves secure in their homes. But those living along the water front had but to await and do their best to save their lives and their property from the flood.

Wreck of the Big Bridge.

At 9:30 o'clock, with a mighty crash, the railroad embankment fell, and with it went the massive freight station, filled with valuable goods and all the records. The station is but a few feet east of the county road bridge, and when the wind and tide carried the building down the stream it hit the bridge squarely and the two went whirling down the stream.

That the bridge should go excites the wonder of the entire town today. It had heavy stone abutments with a superstructure of solid steel. The floor system was a network of steel castings. On each side the bridge was anchored to the stone abutments with heavy iron clamps, supposedly strong enough to withstand any amount of pressure.

As the station and the bridge swept down the torrent streams they were joined by eight steel coal cars loaded with 50 tons of coal each, the property of the Penn Gas Coal Company taken from their Penn mine. They fell into the stream when the embankment on which they had been resting gave away. Cars, tracks and ties were cast into the waters.

Swept Down the Stream.

These heavy structures were carried great distances down the stream and nothing remains of them save three huge iron cross beams. None of the station is left, and nothing to show who owned freight in it.

Another big iron bridge used by the Pennsylvania railroad on the Sewickley branch, which runs across the creek, was carried away. It was built but a year ago and considered very strong. The tracks from this bridge run past the Hockensmith Wheel and Mine Car Company's plant. This plant was almost entirely demolished, with a loss of at least $20,000. Eleven new mine cars were carried away in the flood, and nothing remains of the office but the safe. Valuable machinery and patterns of this plant were utterly destroyed.

A building occupied by the Fulton Planing Mill Company and owned by the Hockensmith people, was also badly damaged. This firm is composed of Frank C. and W. D. Hockensmith, D. M. Wagner and F. S. Schellenger. The latter stated that about 100 men would be thrown out of work.

Property owned by the Westmoreland Coal Company adjacent to their mines and further down the stream to the west, were badly damaged. This property consisted mainly of barns and company houses. The water in these rose to a height of six feet. Many mules were carried down the stream. The estimated loss to this firm is about $2,000.

Carried Pictures Off the Walls.

Besides these damages the lower portions of many houses along Water street fronting on Brush creek were completely ruined. Water wrecked furniture, carpets, and even pictures were washed from the walls and floated down the stream. Other losses were sustained by the Irwin Lumber Company, the Penn Electric Company and the Irwin hotel.

The wrecking of the bridge at the foot of Main street was perhaps the severest blow Irwin received during this disaster. All communication was thereby cut off from the railroad, and many persons were on either side, desiring to get across the stream but could not. The trains, which were run irregularly, were missed, and those who stepped off them were unable to reach Irwin proper.

When communication was finally established, many disappearances were cleared up. People had been unable to reach their homes and were thought dead. Early this morning a wooden bridge was constructed.

The floods damaged the Irwin power plant at Manor and the street railway cars were unable to run. This damage was replaced about 4 o'clock this afternoon, and cars were run between here and Manor. They were unable to go further up, as the tracks were washed out. The water supply in North Irwin was also completely shut off.

Repairing the Damage.

Workmen early appeared on the scene to repair the damage to the railroad and manufacturing plants. All today hundreds of laborers made the lower end of this place look like a beehive. The work is being carried on throughout the entire night, and freight communication is expected to be established by tomorrow morning.

A list of the losses sustained in Irwin by the flood and an estimate of damages made by those in charge follows:

Pennsylvania railroad tracks and station	$100,000
County road bridge	15,000
Sewickley branch bridge	10,000
Loss on freight in station, estimated	8,000
Hockensmith Wheel & Mine Car Co.	20,000
Fulton Planing Mill Co.	2,000
Westmoreland Coal Co.	2,000
Irwin Hotel	1,000
Penn Gas Coal Co.	70,000
The Rev. Jacob Owen's residence in Water street	2,000
Edward S. Davis' residence in Water street	1,500

STEWART IS RECOVERING.

Damage Done Little Town Was Slight and No Lives Lost.

STEWART, PA., July 6.—(Special.)—This place is recovering today from the effects of the heavy rains in this vicinity last night and the equally severe storm of the afternoon. The iron bridge crossing the creek a half-mile above was swept away shortly after midnight and in its whirl down the stream was clogged with logs and the framework disintegrated. The bridge was built only last year.

The worst that happened to Ardara beyond the usual flooding of cellars and the submerging of railroad tracks was the tangling of the telegraph and telephone lines. Tonight it is impossible to communicate with Ardara by telephone, but George Morse, a liveryman, who made his way from Ardara to Stewart on horseback early this morning, says the damage is not great and no loss of life is reported.

PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH HALF A MILLION

Eight Miles of Ruined Mills, Factories, Workshops, Business Houses, Residences and Farm Lands—The Heaviest Losses.

[From a Staff Correspondent.]
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—The monetary loss caused by the storm and flood will be at least $1,500,000. The damage extends for nearly eight miles—from Oakford park to Irwin—and left in ruin mills, factories, workshops, business houses, homes and farm land. The principal loss will be in Jeannette, where the flood caused the greatest damage. The following are some of the heaviest property losses:

Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg Street Railway Co.	$75,000
Greensburg Machine Co.	50,000
Pennsylvania Rubber Co.	10,000
National Glass Co.	2,000
American Window Glass Co.	2,000
Jeannette Glass Co.	15,000
Westmoreland Specialty Co.	5,000
Cappell Pin Works	5,000
Pittsburgh Lamp Glass & Brass Co.	15,000
Jeannette Planing Mill Co.	10,000
Union Planing Mill Co.	15,000
Peerless Carbon Co.	5,000
Pittsburgh Brewing Co.	7,500
Jeannette borough	10,000

The above losses, with that caused by the loss of wages to workmen, damages to several hundred homes and business houses, will, it is thought by leading business men of Jeannette and vicinity, run the grand total up to the $1,500,000 mark.

The street railway company, which owned and operated Oakford park, sustained the heaviest loss. Both power plants were flooded and a considerable portion of the equipment ruined. The park, on which had been expended thousands of dollars during the past year, was ruined and the buildings destroyed. Several miles of track and wires were torn out and rendered useless, and it will be at least two weeks before the road can resume operations. The large plant of the Greensburg Machine Company, a short distance east of Jeannette, was to commence operations for the first time today and it is practically ruined.

The average monthly payroll in Jeannette is $600,000 and nearly every plant in town will be suspended for 30 or 60 days. The business district in lower Clay avenue, Fourth and Fifth streets and many homes were flooded and merchandise and household goods ruined.

LESS MEAT— More Wheat.

Adding Wheat Meat to the daily bill of fare and eliminating most or all of the meat is wise, as those who have tried it attest. Wheat Meat and cow's milk contain every element that the human system requires for sustenance, nourishment and upbuilding. A meat diet is far more taxing to the digestion, and is less lasting in its benefits than is a diet of Wheat Meat. In the summer time meat is heating to the blood and a clog to the digestion, while Wheat Meat is stimulating, cooling and refreshing, keeps the system in working order without overtaxing it in any way. The nerves are greatly benefited by the Wheat Meat diet and the brain clear and active. Wheat Meat tastes just right—strengthens just right—crisp—hearty—nutlike food. Fifteen cents a package at grocers.

WATCHED FLOOD FROM HOUSETOP

Rev. E. Mona Jones of Pittsburgh Tells Graphic Story of Disaster at Irwin.

SAW FREIGHT STATION FALL

Witnessed the Demolition of the Two Iron Bridges and the Flood at Its Height--H. C. Frick's Cousins Rescue Much Property.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

IRWIN, PA., July 6.—From the roof of a house, the lower portion of which was filled with six feet of water, the destruction in Irwin was viewed by the Rev. E. Mona Jones, pastor of the Chatham Street Baptist church, Pittsburgh. Mr. Jones came here on Sunday to occupy the pulpit of the Rev. John Skym, pastor of the Irwin Baptist church.

Mr. Jones was the guest of the Rev. Jacob Owens, a Welsh Baptist minister, whose home is in Water street, about 200 feet from where the freight station stood. Mr. Jones sat on the roof of Mr. Owens' home with the members of the family and in the moon light watched the raging flood. The following story was told me at Irwin today by Mr. Jones:

"The first intimation I had that something was wrong was when Mr. Owens' little girl came to the Baptist church where I was preaching and took him away with her. This was about 8:30 o'clock. I was in the midst of my sermon and kept on, and church was dismissed at a little after 9 o'clock. Then I started for Mr. Owens' house. The water was already up to the gate of the building.

"I got quite wet while entering the house and went inside. Shortly the entire downstairs portion was flooded and the family and I went up to the roof to escape the water and to watch the freight station fall into the stream. Another big crash, and the bridge at Main street was in the waves.

"The two formed a parapet about 25 feet high, and the sturdy iron and wood mass made short work of the bridge opposite where we were. Then, suddenly, eight big steel coal cars filled with fuel fell into the creek by the caving in of the embankment on which they were resting.

"The cars, the two bridges, and what remained of the freight station whirled about in a circle in front of our house and the water dashed high in the air. The mass delayed but a short time here, and finally started down the creek at great speed as if driven by some mighty mysterious force. They were tossed about in the angry waters like so many feathers."

George and Daniel Frick, residents of Irwin and cousins of Henry C. Frick, the steel magnate, also told vivid stories of the flood. These two young men did heroic work of rescuing property in the stream. They were on a trolley car on their way to Oakdale park in the afternoon. The car proved to be the one following that which was flooded and upset.

They were told by the conductor to leave the car at Bunel station, as the water was high there and further down the tracks were washed out. The water was rising where they were and they went back to Irwin on foot to help save life and property.

FIRST TWO FUNERALS OF THE STORM VICTIMS

Caskets for Two Little Girls Have to Be Carried Over Torrent-Torn Roads.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—The first funeral of a victim of Sunday's storm took place at an early hour this morning when the body of little Joseph Wrightman, the 10-year-old boy killed by lightning at West Jeannette, was buried in the Hebrew cemetery at Greensburg.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Donnelly of Grapeville took place late this afternoon from Bethune's undertaking establishment. The interment was made at Greensburg.

Miss Gertrude Keefer will be buried from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Keefer, in Gaskill avenue, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Bauerman, in the Reform church and the interment will be made in the St. Clair cemetery.

Miss Lucy Crum will be buried at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Jeannette cemetery. Services will be conducted in the Reform church by the Rev. Mr. Bauerman.

The two little Gillespie sisters, Mary and Annie, will be laid side by side in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery at Jeannette at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Gillespies are Italians and live at Grapeville. Owing to the roads leading from Jeannette to the Gillespie home being impassable the caskets bearing the two small sisters were carried the entire distance of two miles from the undertakers at Jeannette to the home of their parents, and will be carried back again to Jeannette tomorrow.

John McCann will be buried in the Catholic cemetery here tomorrow morning.

The remains of Albert J. Brown were sent to the home of his father in Pittsburgh tonight. Miss Eva Mary Wigginton Brown's stricken bride, will be sent to the home of her brother in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning.

The remains of James Brown and Miss Sissy Bird, who were to be married within a short time, will be taken tomorrow to the home of Miss Bird's sister, Mrs. Frank Smith, in Collier avenue, where they will lay side by side until the funeral arrangements are completed.

MORBID CROWD FOUGHT TO GET INTO MORGUE

Searchers for Relatives Kept Out by the Jostling, Fighting Throng.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—At least 2,000 people today visited the morgue at Miller's, where most of the bodies of the persons killed in yesterday's flood were taken. The majority of the visitors were there simply to satisfy curiosity, and some even combined sightseeing with relic-hunting.

Before noon the town was filled with strangers. They came from Pittsburgh, Braddock, Irwin and points east of Jeannette. Hundreds of farmers and coal miners flocked into the town. They all went to the morgue, where they jostled and fought for an opportunity to gaze upon the mutilated faces of the victims of yesterday's disaster. Even the thieves from Pittsburgh came out, hopeful that in the hour of distress that they could prey upon the throngs about the morgue.

A small minority went to the morgue in the hope of finding a missing father, husband, wife or child. The mourners were forced to fight for admittance to the place.

Many wanted to see the Gillespie sisters of Grapeville. Annie was 8 years of age and Mary 12. They had gone to the park and were washed down Brush Creek valley to death. The face of the younger one was so badly mutilated that it is impossible to recognize the features.

WALTER J. CHRISTY.

FIRE BELLS WERE RUNG TO WARN TURTLE CREEK

The Residents Fled from Their Homes in the Early Morning. Damage to Property.

Turtle Creek valley was panic-stricken early yesterday morning when the waters from the Jeannette district came down. The fire bells in Turtle Creek and Wilmerding were sounded to warn the people of their danger.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Chief of Police John Forgie and Officer R. W. Langham saw the creek was rising rapidly. At once they aroused the business men whose property was in danger. Soon the entire district from Wilmerding to Turtle Creek was under water, and then the officers rang the fire bell to arouse the sleeping residents.

The fire company turned out and with the aid of citizens carried the goods from the basements of stores along Penn avenue to higher ground. In an hour the water was running a foot deep in many of the store rooms in Penn avenue, flooding the thoroughfare as far as Church street.

The streets approaching the flooded district were thronged the rest of the night with those driven from their homes through fear and curious spectators.

The loss to property will be very small, as everything movable that could be damaged by the flood was cared for in time.

The greatest individual loss was to the Turtle Creek Valley railroad, a large section of its tracks through the town being washed out and traffic suspended. Several days will be required to repair the tracks.

At Wilmerding the Westinghouse works was compelled to shut down, the water flooding the engine pit and disabling the entire plant. It will resume work again today.

By 3 a. m. the flood had reached its greatest height and the waters receded as rapidly as they rose.

Squire Haymaker, father of District Attorney John C. Haymaker, and Hugh Maxwell, both old residents of Turtle Creek, said they had never known the water to rise so rapidly or cover so much territory as at this time. A reason for this is that the Westinghouse company has built a flood wall along the creek to protect its property from inundation, and this threw the water back to the upper end of the town instead of allowing it to cover the flat territory toward East Pittsburgh.

LOUIS GRIGGS, HERO, SAVED THREE LIVES

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—The names of many men are being enrolled on the list of those who performed brave deeds yesterday, but at the top of this roll of heroes shold be written the name of Louis Griggs, 30 years of age, born at Brownsville, but for the past 10 years a glassworker at Jeannette.

Those who have looked over the sea of debris lying between the Carbon works and the north tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad can form an idea of what that valley must have been when the flood was at its highest. The water stretched half a mile across the valley, and every form of debris was rushing toward the railroad embankment. Great logs and parts of houses were bumping and crashing together. Few men would have thought it possible to have lived in that torrent.

Louis Griggs stood on the hillside 200 yards north of the railroad track. He saw a car from the dismantled roller coaster at the park being whirled down the stream. In it sat two terror-stricken men. Behind them came an empty skiff. Griggs threw off his coat and swam toward the skiff, dodging floating debris as best he could. No one thought that he would live to reach the boat. He did, and soon had the men back to a place of safety.

Griggs' work was not completed. Two hundred yards away he saw that the house of Mrs. Baker was rapidly filling with water. He remembered that a child had been born to Mrs. Baker on July 4. Again the boat shot out into the stream. Wreckage buffetted the skiff, but after a long and hard pull Griggs landed at the second-story window of the Baker home. Lying in a bed was the mother and her babe. Quickly wrapping them in blankets, Griggs carried them to his boat. It was another battle to reach land, but Griggs won. Today Mrs. Baker and child are being cared for by friends.

WILL REQUIRE $100,000 TO REPLACE STRUCTURES

Westmoreland County Commissioners Make an Estimate. Greensburg's Damage.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 6.—The Westmoreland county commissioners estimate tonight that it will require an expenditure of at least $100,000 to repair the wrecked structures in various sections of the county. Chief Burgess Edward J. Perry tonight stated that Greensburg would not be behind in providing relief for the suffering people and it is expected that a call for subscriptions will formally be made tomorrow.

The storm was general about Greensburg and all of the coal companies have been handicapped in their operations. The Keystone Coal and Coke Company's mines about Greensburg and at Arona and Carbon are partially filled with water. The works of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company in Hempfield township are running scarcely half of their regular number of miners. At Herminie the plant of the Berwind-White Company is flooded. All trains on the Southwest Pennsylvania branch were annulled today and it was not until tonight that the first trains came through from Fairchance.

The tracks are badly washed and thousands of dollars damage has been done at the immense coke yards at Youngwood. While superintending the repair of a washout at the county home junction this afternoon Robert T. Morrow, assistant superintendent of the Pittsburgh division, was painfully injured by being struck by a heavy timber. His face was badly cut and his jaw contused. He was brought to his home in North Maple avenue by a special train. All of the manufacturing plants in the valley south of Greensburg were flooded and operations have been suspended.

Every bridge from East Greensburg to Youngwood has been washed away and the plant of the Westmoreland Electric Company was damaged to the extent of $20,000. The barn on the farm of W. L.

SAGACIOUS EQUINE FLOOD VICTIM PLANS ESCAPE

At least one horse had the sagacity to escape from the Bush creek flood. In the lower floor of a stable in Jeannette he was surrounded by water at the first outburst of the torrent, and when his surroundings became uncomfortably damp he broke his halter strap and proceeded to climb up the stairway into the second floor of the barn. There he remained high and dry and was found in the morning enjoying a hearty breakfast of hay from the barn floor.

The horse refused to descend the stairs and in order to get him out of the barn it was necessary to tear out part of the weatherboarding and erect an incline plane of rough boards which permitted him to leave his place of shelter in a graceful and dignified manner.

YOUNG COUPLE LOST IN FLOOD DISTRICT

Left Homestead for Grapeville Sunday Afternoon and Both Disappear in Cloudburst.

Fear is entertained by relatives and friends of a well-known young man of Homestead and a young woman of Grapeville, that the couple were caught and drowned in the big flood which devastated Jeannette and that section on Sunday. The couple left the Murdock home in Homestead at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon to go to Grapeville, and up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of them. It is believed that both were killed in the cloudburst.

Miss Myrtle Plegg, 20 years old, of Grapeville, had been visiting at the home of Mr. nd Mrs. David Murdock, who reside at No. 138 Fourth avenue, Homestead. Miss Plegg had arranged to return to her home in Grapeville on Sunday afternoon, and William Murdock, aged 21, offered to accompany her. The last seen of the people was when they started from the Murdock home to go to Grapeville. Despite the endeavors of the almost prostrated parents of the young man to learn of their son's and Miss Plegg's whereabouts, their efforts have been unavailing.

When the news of the disaster reached the Murdock home, the young man's father immediately set about to get into communication with the flood district, but as the wires were down he was unable to get a connection with either Jeannette or Grapeville. Yesterday Mr. Murdock communicated with Grapeville several times, but the answers to his messages were always the same. Nothing had been seen or heard of the couple.

WILL NEVER RETURN.

Indianapolis Woman, Estranged from Husband, Widowed by Jeannette Flood.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 6.—(Special)—The flood at Jeannette claimed among its victims an Indianapolis man, Joseph Oberle. Today Mrs. Oberle was informed of her husband's death. This was the first word that she had heard directly or indirectly from her husband since last November.

At that time, after the first little difficulty that had come into their married life, Oberle hastily left his home in this city. When the word of his death was brought Mrs. Oberle fainted and tonight she is prostrated with grief. She had lived hopefully from day to day expecting her husband's return.

SIGHTSEERS RETURN FROM JEANNETTE

Many Visited the Flood District to Learn About Their Friends.

Several hundred people returned last night from Jeannette, where they went to view the devastation wrought by Sunday's cloudburst. Most of the passengers went to satisfy their curiosity, while a large number visited the place to learn the condition of their relatives and friends.

The railroad has not recovered from the effects of the flood. All the trains were late arriving at Union station that passed through that district. The limited, which generally arrives on time, was 45 minutes late. All other trains were from half an hour to two hours late.

A large force of men has been working since the flood putting the roadbed and tracks into their proper condition. It was given out last night that all the damaged tracks had been repaired temporarily, but it would take several weeks to put them in the same condition they were before the bursting of the dam.

None of the passengers who arrived at the Union station had relatives numbered among the dead or missing.

SCENES OF DISORDER LACKING IN JEANNETTE

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—Notwithstanding that Jeannette is thronged with hundreds of people from throughout western Pennsylvania, the town is very orderly.

Burgess William R. Carey today issued the following proclamation, which was printed and posted throughout the town:

"Whereas, We have met with a great disaster, and in order that peace and good order be maintained, I, W. R. Carey, do hereby notify all persons that drunkenness will not be tolerated.

"I will ask the good citizens to give the authorities their hearty co-operation.

Sixteen extra police officers have been sworn in to assist the regular force, and Sheriff John H. Treecher has sworn in 50 officers to guard property and prevent disorder outside the borough.

The entire volunteer fire department has been at work almost constantly since the flood, and many lives and considerable property were saved by them and several of the dead recovered through their efforts.

Bodies of Husband and Wife Give Evidence of a Struggle With the Flood.

JEANNETTE, PA., July 6.—(Special)—With a portion of his wife's garments tightly clutched in his hands, the body of Henry Fink was taken from beneath a pile of debris near the arch culvert shortly after 6 o'clock this evening, and at 8 o'clock the body of his wife was found a few yards distant from where her husband had been discovered. Both bodies bore evidence of a fierce struggle in the waters. The clothing of both was badly torn and the husband had evidently made a heroic effort to save his wife before both went down. The bodies were taken to the temporary morgue in the basement of the Methodist Episcopal church and later taken to Bethune's undertaking rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Fink were among the best known residents of Jeannette. Mr. Fink was about 30 years old and a cutter in the glass works.

Mrs. Fink, prior to her marriage, two years ago, was Miss Nellie Doulin. She was 24 years old and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doulin of First street. She is survived by her parents, two sisters and a brother.

ICEMAN HAD HIS NOSE CUT OFF WITH A PICK

Pat Higgins and J. Ruckterchel, drivers for the Anti-Trust Ice Company, got into a fight yesterday afternoon at the corner of Ohio street and Madison avenue, Allegheny, with the result that Ruckterchel had his nose chopped off with an ice pick in the hands of Higgins. Both men were arrested. After Ruckterchel had his wounds dressed he was released and was taken to his home in Millvale.

Local People Likely to Respond to Flood Sufferers' Appeal for Aid

The appeal for aid made by the sufferers at Jeannette and vicinity will probably meet with response by citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, but it is not likely to result in concerted effort on the part of any of the bodies in Pittsburgh on which generally devolves such movements. Pittsburgh is always ready to respond to the cry of the suffering, as was witnessed during the Johnstown flood, the Charleston earthquake, the Mississippi valley floods and many other disasters in this and foreign countries. Both the Pittsburgh and Allegheny chambers of commerce have entered on their summer vacations, and to secure meetings at which official action could be taken would be hard, but it is likely the question of giving aid to the hundreds that have been rendered homeless and providing money so as to clean up the debris and thus avert disease, will be considered by the members.

President Albert J. Logan of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce is in Chicago at present. The executive committee of the body will, however, bring up the matter today and decide whether any action will be taken. Dr. William W. Cole, secretary of the Allegheny chamber, stated last night that the subject had not come up officially as yet, but that today some of the members will likely get together and discuss the matter. No action has been taken so far by any of the officials of either Pittsburgh or Allegheny, although they probably will decide today whether a public appeal will be made to aid the sufferers. At a meeting last night of the Homewood board of trade it was decided to put boxes at different points on the carnival grounds in Hamilton avenue, where money can be deposited for the benefit of those who need aid as a result of the flood.

At New Castle a fund for the relief of the sufferers will be started by several of the charitable organizations. The movement will take definite shape when the various lodges meet this week.

REPUBLICANS TO ALTER RULES

Committee Entrusted With the Work Will Report to County Committee on July 12.

RULE NO. 28 WAS ABROGATED

By Striking It Out Time and Money Will Be Saved—Democrats and Citizens Not Talking Fusion—Citizens Party's Condition.

The Republican county committee met yesterday in the common council chamber, City hall, and held a brief session. The only business transacted consisted of the adoption of resolutions concerning the new party rules, which are being prepared. Chairman Thomas J. Ford presided.

A motion to strike out Rule No. 28 was adopted without debate, after an explanation had been made. The rule requires that all new rules proposed must be advertised in the newspapers for two days, and as the committee on rules contemplates a rearrangement of the rules, that while making no material changes, yet would take up much costly space in the newspapers, it was desired to avoid the expense of advertising.

Besides, it was said, if the rule remained in force at the next meeting of the committee, when the committee on rules expected to report, any amendments offered to the new rules must, if adopted by the county committee, be advertised, thus causing much delay. The rule which has been stricken out will be reinserted by the rules committee.

The county committee will meet again on Saturday, July 18, to consider the report of the rules committee. Printed copies of the new rules will be furnished to all members of the county committee, a motion by William E. Kirker to that effect having carried.

County Commissioner James A. Clark, one of the Democratic leaders, was in Thomas S. Bigelow's office yesterday, but denied that he was there to talk fusion. He was only looking out for a friend, he said, which it is presumed means that he was hunting a political job for some constituent. Neither the Citizens party nor the Democratic is doing much just now toward effecting fusion for the autumn campaign. The ostensible reason given for the delay is the statement that there is no need of haste, as it is desired to make the campaign short, but the Republicans generally believe that the Democrats are not enthusiastically for fusion on account of the condition in which the Citizens party finds itself. The party is entirely disorganized in Allegheny. Mayor Wyman's distribution of political places has caused much dissatisfaction and even if there were no heartburnings over the allotments it is believed by the Republicans that many of the votes earned by Wyman on account of his popularity last February, will go back to the Republican party in the county campaign.

The Citizens party's factions in the Sixth district are fighting each other and in the Eleventh, Fourteenth and Seventeenth wards in Pittsburgh; the dissatisfaction over the distribution of the appointments by Mayor Hays has caused such defections that the chances of the Citizens party to carry Pittsburgh this fall are considered hopeless.

The Three Rivers

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, July 6.—River 16 feet and rising. The Iron Age passed down for Louisville with a large tow of coal; the Enterprise arrived, left her tow at the upper landing and headed back with empties; the Ranger passed up with empties. The Jim Wood was gone to the bank for some slight repairs before going back. The big towboats are not having easy sailing with their tows below here. The Alice Brown sank two loaded barges in the harbor at Louisville; the Gleaner sank several boats, the John A. Wood stuck her entire tow at Highland Rock, and two boats sank while others are in such position that they could not be pulled off, the Harry Brown hit the bank at Reno, Ind., sinking two boats and the Joseph B. Williams is at Stephensport with a badly smashed wheel.

LOCAL RIVERS RISE AGAIN.

Plenty of Coal in Southern Markets and More Going Down.

July has started in well to make up for the long drought in this section during the latter part of May and the early part of June. Another coal stage was reached in the local rivers last night and 250,000 bushels of coal were sent out. Preparations were made during the night to send out 2,000,000 bushels today.

The heavy rains of Sunday made a quick, unexpected rise. Towboats were returning, however, and they will be got out immediately. It is expected that between 12 and 15 feet will be reached in the local harbor. This is welcomed along the rivers, as water is needed to insure the continuance of navigation. No particular pressing need is felt for such a rise, but the water was falling very fast and had begun to approach a stage where the packet lines should have trouble in some of the shallow places in the Upper Ohio river.

The towboats to leave last night were the Robert Jenkins, Tom Lyste and Braddock. They took 17 barges, which they will turn over to the Coal City in the Upper Ohio river. She is coming up with a tow of empties. The S. D. Wood, Tornado, Ed Roberts and Hornet arrived in the harbor during the night and they will leave early this morning with the following tows: S. D. Wood and Tornado, 6 coal boats and 8 barges each; Ed Roberts, 12 coal boats and 8 barges and the Hornet with 7 coal boats and 10 barges. The steamer G. W. Thomas, which did not leave on the last rise, will also leave this morning with 12 coal boats and 6 barges. The Sam Brown and the P. M. Pfeil are hurrying in and will probably be able to get away with tows on this rise. The Mariner, Jim Wood, Ranger and Jim Brown are returning from Cincinnati.

ARRIVALS.

Ben Hur, Sims, Parkersburg.
Kanawha, Roe, Charleston.
Columbia, Abrams, Morgantown.
Edgar Cherry, Hoag, Brownsville.

DEPARTURES.

Keystone State, Knox, Cincinnati.
Ben Hur, Sims, Parkersburg.
T. C. Woodward, Williams, Morgantown.
Edgar Cherry, Hoag, Brownsville.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 10.2 feet and the river was stationary.

News of the Rivers.

The Queen City is expected to arrive tonight earlier than usual.

The Kanawha returns this afternoon to Kanawha river points and Charleston.

All the packets had big trips yesterday, many of the passengers taking round trips.

The Columbia is the Morgantown packet today and the Edgar Cherry leaves daily for Brownsville.

The Kanawha and Ben Hur encountered a terrific rainstorm at Rochester on their way up. It was necessary to run the nose of the Mayflower into the bank at Elizabeth, as the storm was so heavy that Capt. Sayre could not see to navigate safely.

PARADE OF MEN AFTER MONEY

Crowd of 102 Negroes and 6 Italians Followed Alderman Walsh Around Streets.

WAGES WERE DUE WORKMEN

Had Been Engaged on Mercy Hospital Addition by Contractor J. E. Walsh, Who Was Murdered—Brother Has Continued the Work.

Alderman William F. Walsh attracted a lot of attention on the streets yesterday on account of 102 negroes and six Italians who were following him about the downtown district. The procession, led by Walsh, was first perceived coming from the neighborhood of the new addition to the Mercy hospital. It came down Forbes street, turned north in Grant street, struck into Sixth avenue and brought up at the Stevenson building, just below Smithfield street. Walsh and about 50 of the huskiest of the men, who appeared to be laborers, went up in the elevator to the fifth floor, where are the offices of S. F. Heckert, the hospital's architect, while the rest guarded the doorway of the building.

Presently Leader Walsh emerged again and the parade went up Sixth avenue, turned east in Cherry alley and stopped at the Frick building, where Mr. Walsh consulted his attorneys. Presently he came out again, followed by the 102 negroes and the six Italians, retraced the route over Cherry alley and Sixth avenue and again landed at Heckert's office. On the way back and forth voices arose from the ranks of the paraders demanding their two weeks' wages.

Alderman Walsh is the executor of the estate of his brother, the late Contractor John E. Walsh, who was killed by Dr. Kountz on May 9. Walsh has been continuing the work begun by his brother, and among the jobs is the Mercy hospital excavation. In an effort to learn why the workmen had not been paid a Gazette reporter was told two entirely different stories by the architect and by Walsh, and it is probable that the courts will decide between them.

Heckert says that on account of incompletion Walsh forfeited the contract on July 1, and that a little more than $2,400 is owed; Walsh says the job still owes him $21,000 and that the architect refuses to give him an estimate. Both men declared, however, that the workmen should be paid today, and both told the men they would get their money about 9 o'clock this morning.

Two weeks' pay is due the workmen, and as they average $1.75 a day, the total amount, including that due some Italians who remained at work, is about $2,100. The men expected their pay on July 3, but were put off and told they could get it yesterday. As Walsh and Heckert had not yet arrived at an agreement yesterday the procession resulted. They money will come, of course, from the Sisters of Mercy, who own the Mercy hospital, but they cannot possibly pay it until the architect informs them what they owe.

J. E. Gillinor Coming Here.

J. E. Gillinor, a former Pittsburgher, who for the past 6 years has been in the continuous service of the Pennsylvania railroad, has resigned his position as signal engineer for the Long Island railroad, New York, and is coming to Pittsburgh to open an office of his own as a consulting engineer.

THE HEART

The human heart, that most wonderful of engines, is scarcely larger than a man's fist. Yet in each twenty-four hours the dual heart moves approximately six tons of blood, equivalent to about two barrels of blood per hour. And this continues without ceasing from the first breath of infancy to the last sigh of age. Is it any wonder that when continued extra strain is put upon so delicate and busy an organ, it should break down? Is it any wonder that in this age of overwork there should be an increasing number of deaths attributed to heart failure?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition and purifies and enriches the blood. One of the ingredients entering into the "Discovery" is one of the best heart tonics known to medicine. Thus while through the action of "Golden Medical Discovery" the body is nourished into strength, the heart is also strengthened and an adequate blood supply is pumped to the stomach and kidneys thus improving the action of these organs.

Sick people, especially those suffering from chronic diseases, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free, and so obtain without charge, the opinion of a specialist on their ailments. All correspondence strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been troubled with catarrh of the stomach and heart trouble," writes Mr. W. D. Merchant, of Tylersburg, Clarion Co., Penna. "Had doctored for some time without relief, then I began to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took seven bottles. Before I began to take it I weighed 119 pounds, and now I weigh 176. I am working steadily and feel like a new man. I send you many thanks."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Sale of laces for half price

WE told you the story of this sale yesterday—how we happened to purchase these laces so much underprice. This fortunate (for you) lowering of prices is directly attributable to the tireless vigilance with which our lace buyer watches the market.

As laces and fashion are such close friends this summer, it's not to be wondered at that the lace counters are so surrounded today by eager, enthusiastic women.

About two thousand pieces were included in the deal—laces of every kind, for every purpose—laces for trimming all kinds of light weight fabrics, laces for underwear, laces for children's dresses, etc.—particularly attractive are the Platt Val. lace insertions and edgings, Point de Paris edgings and insertions—new Teneriffe bands—fine linen Torchons—pretty Cluny bands—Point Venise bands—Chantilly bands—straight and medallion bands—oriental laces. Several large tables in main aisle have been given up exclusively to the display of these laces. While half price is the average rule, there are a few exceptions at even less than half price. Sale prices are, yard, 5c, 10c, 15c, 19c

Clothing sales booming

LAST WEEK, notwithstanding the fact that we were closed on "The 4th," now holds the distinction of having a greater volume of sales accredited to its record than any previous week in our history. We're not boasting, but only mention this fact because of the bearing it has on this sale—because of the convincing manner in which it demonstrates the eagerness with which the men are availing themselves of our offer of 20 to 50% discount on our entire stock

all suits marked $8 $9 $10 & $12 now $6.00

all suits marked $13.50 $15 $16.50 & $18 now $10.00

any suit no matter what its marked now $16.00

You make the deductions yourself

The old price tags have been left intact on the suits. Just pick out from our immense stock the suit that pleases you most, look at the price marked on the tag, take off the 20 to 50 per cent discount, using the above scale of prices as a basis of calculation, and pay the salesman the balance. That's all there is to it. Ever hear of a more sweeping or deeper price cutting?

Why put your spare cash in a savings bank, when by investing in one of these suits your saving will be many times greater? Indeed, it wouldn't be a bad investment for one to borrow money to buy a suit now.

All pants also divided into 3 lots:

Lot 1—which contains all the pants marked $2.48 and $2.98, from which you can now take your choice for 1.75

Lot 2—which contains all the pants marked $4, $4.50 and $5, from which you can now take your choice for only 3.00

Lot 3—which contains all the pants marked $5.50, $6.50 and $7.00, from which you can now take your choice for only 4.50

Equally liberal discounts on suits to order

At 20.00 we'll now make to order suits for which we formerly charged $28, $30 and $33, giving you choice from all our fancy worsteds and cheviots (exclusive of black).

At 30.00 we'll now make to order suits for which we formerly charged $35, $38 and $40, giving you choice from our entire stock of imported and domestic fancy cheviots and worsteds.

Of course, it goes without saying that this reduction is in price only—the workmanship will not be skimped in the least, the most careful attention will be given even the smallest details—everything will be up to the high standard so rigidly maintained by this department.

Big purchase of skirts

In the first place we bought these skirts very low—so low, indeed, that the maker lost heavily. In the second place we originally intended to place them in stock and price them but slightly above the cost to us. In the third place we determined to place them on special sale without turning a cent of profit to our account. It's a fact, you usually couldn't buy the materials alone at the price we ask for the skirts—the making is virtually thrown in for nothing.

Special offer No. 1.
Women's walking skirts, this lot comprises some 350 skirts, made from excellent quality meltons, cheviots and other fancy materials now most in fashion, colors include light grays, light tans, oxfords and checks and plaids; all beautifully tailored with highest grade workmanship throughout, made with inverted pleat back and tailor stitched at bottom. Originally intended to be sold at retail for $3, $3.50 and $4; our low price purchase enables us to offer you choice for only 1.50

Special offer No. 2.
Women's walking and dress skirts, about 300 in all, made from excellent quality cheviot in black and blue—meltons in light tan, light gray, oxford, brown and castor, also many different patterns in imported worsteds. These skirts are made in both walking and dress lengths, with inverted pleat and habit back; some plain tailored while others are made in kilted effects with many rows of tailor stitching at bottom. Regular $5, $6, $7 and $8 skirts, at this sale for 3.98

Special offer No. 3.
Women's skirts—100 in this lot, comprising odds and ends, selected from the various other assortments and marked at a quick selling price; styles too numerous to mention, all the best fabrics represented — your choice for 5.98

Special offer No. 4.
Women's etamine dress skirts—only 233 all told in this assortment—the maker established his reputation on this particular line of skirts. They are made in several styles, some trimmed with tailor stitched taffeta strappings, silk braids, ornaments, buttons, tucks, pleats, etc., lined and unlined, colors black and blue only; each skirt is tailored in best possible manner, not skimped in any one particular. As there is a limited number it will pay you to make early selection—choice for only 7.98

Special offer No. 5.
Women's broadcloth, etamine, venetian and cheviot skirts—such as you would expect to pay from $18 to $25 for, so you can quickly figure the amount to be saved during this sale. All the latest styles are well represented, the materials include broadcloth, etamines, venetians and cheviots, some of these skirts have silk drops, while others are unlined — your choice during this sale for 12.98

Special offer No. 6.
Women's dress skirts—made from peau de soie and taffeta silks, also lace all overs, which are made over the finest qualities of imported taffeta silk drop skirts, new and charming creations, made expressly for dress wear, $30, $35 and $40 values, choice for 21.50

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Brooklyn at Exposition Park.
Boston at Cincinnati.
Philadelphia at Chicago.
New York at St. Louis.

With one of those exciting ninth inning finishes, which brings joy to the heart of the baseball crank, the Pirates took the final game of the series and made it four straight from the Quakers. The score of the final game was 4 to 3, and 3,000 lovers of the game were sent home happy to supper.

When the champions marched out on the field in response to the clang of the bell announcing time for play the team somewhat resembled one of those crazy-patch quilts which the good housewife dotes on. It certainly was a patched-up team that Hans Wagner was forced to captain. The regulars on the hospital list were Manager Clarke, Catcher Phelps and First Baseman Brandfield, and this necessitated a general shift. Harry Smith answered a hurry-up call and got in from his home at Massillon in time to don a uniform and breast pad, and notwithstanding his long lay-off, he caught a splendid game.

Big Weaver, who had a finger split in Saturday afternoon's game, went to first base, and although a greenhand at the position, showed very creditable work. This allowed Hans Wagner to go back to his regular position at short, and little "Com Paul Kruger" essayed to fill Fred Clarke's position in left field. "Com Paul" made a sad mess of things in the ninth inning, when his wild throw enabled Quaker Barry to sneak in with the run that tied the game, but he evened up for this by slamming out the hit in the ninth that brought Ritchey home with the winning run in the Pirates' half of the ninth.

The contest was very much on the Philadelphia order, being both long-drawn-out and tiresome until the ninth inning, when there was a few minutes of excitement. There was a lack of spirit on both sides and the players went about their work in such a perfunctory manner that their actions were even tiresome for the spectators to follow. There was no sparkle or that dash and spirit which Manager Clarke's presence always infuses into his players.

The pitchers for the afternoon were Wilhelm for the Pirates and Mitchell for the Quakers. The visitors started off as though they were going to murder the young Pirate, but got over the first inning with but one run scored, and after that he had the visitors at his service. Mitchell, on the other hand, was not so lucky, and it was the bunching of hits that brought Pirate runs.

The visitors started off with one in the first, when Thomas led off with a single to left and was followed by Wolverton, who planted a pretty single in center. Titus foul-flyed to Leach and Thomas was caught at third. Keister's grounder, but Barry singled to left and Wolverton scored on the hit. The Pirates got good and even in their half of the first. Beaumont walked and Sebring singled to left. Wagner then smashed the ball to left for two bases, scoring Beau and Sebring, but Hans was out at third trying to stretch his hit to a three-bagger.

The Pirates sneaked the lead in the second, when Weaver reached first on a life, took second on a wild throw by Wolverton and scored on Mitchell's very wild pitch. The Quakers tied the score in the eighth on hits by Titus and Barry and errors by Leach and Kruger. With two out in the ninth, Ritchey doubled to left and brought in the winning run on Kruger's timely hit into the same field. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

For a badly crippled team the champions played like pennant winners.

Mitchell tried to block Harry Smith when he went after his short hit midway between the pitcher's stab and the home plate in the fifth. Smith managed to get under the fly, however.

Smith made a quick pickup and throw of Wolverton's bunt in the seventh, retiring his man at first. It looked like a hit for Wolverton and the crowd was not sparing with the applause.

The pennant flag in middle field had a sad look yesterday. The heavy rains made it limp and the wind put part of it in shreads, and the smoke from the passing trains and a factory nearby gave it a very black mien.

Oom Paul Kruger certainly has proven himself a valuable man to the locals. He can smite the ball harder and oftener than many substitute players, and at that better than some who are playing regular in the league.

Keister did not think Kruger had a fine throw or else he would not have attempted to go from first to third on Barry's single to left in the first inning. Kruger gathered in the ball nicely and lined it to Leach, who retired his man.

Keister quit the game at the end of the fourth inning. Washburn, the Brown university football player, took his place. Washburn is a southpaw pitcher and when he got in the game the outfield was then composed of left-handers, Titus and Thomas being port siders.

Weaver made a good impression on first. In the fourth he caught Keister's high fly nicely and took in Wagner's and Leach's throws, retiring the next two men in fine fashion. The crowd made him doff his cap when he came in to the bench after the side had been retired.

Mitchell caught Sebring napping in the fourth off first. Several feints sent the lanky outfielder back to the bag. Mitchell, however, caught Sebring and sent the ball to Barry when Sebring was too far off to get back in safety. Jimmy broke for second and went in head first, but was out by a nose.

At the close of the sixth inning Umpire Johnstone walked to the Pittsburgh bench to get a drink of water. As he was going to the tank a few occupants of the grand stand hooted and hissed him and repeated it when he was going to resume his work. The yells were uncalled for as Johnstone did good work yesterday.

Hans Wagner made Mitchell pitch to him in the first inning before hitting to left for a double which scored Beaumont and Sebring. The Carnegie boy had two strikes and three balls, then fouled off a few, Mitchell curved the ball and Wagner very promptly banged it over Wolverton's head. He, however, was too ambitious in running the bags and was caught at third, a close play.

"Red" Dooin made some pretty throws to the bases and on more than one occasion almost caught Pirates napping. In the third inning Smith got on and played off the bag a little. Dooin suddenly whipped the ball to Barry, who turned around to put it on Smith. The latter dove into the bag and upset the big first baseman. Barry claimed an out, which was denied him by Johnstone. The crowd, however, gave him the laugh.

Ritchey was called upon to make a fast throw to Weaver in the second inning to catch Mitchell. The Phillies' pitcher hit a hard one which was brought down by Wilhelm in the ball going to second. Ritchey raced after it and tried to get Dooin, who was going to second on the play. Dooin was too fast and then Ritchey let drive the ball to Weaver and just caught Mitchell. It was good playing on the part of Ritchey and caught the crowd.

Tommy Leach, much to his disgust, was called out on strikes in the opening round. The first one was too high, thought Tommy, and he stepped out of the box to look at the horizon and cast a sarcastic look in the direction of Umpire Johnstone. The next was a ball and then Mitchell put over another curve similar to the first strike. Another look from Leach and the third strike was a relative to the first two. Still the little third baseman did not argue with the umpire.

REDS BROKE EVEN.

As a Shortstop Morrissy Was a Great Failure.

CINCINNATI, July 6.—Cincinnati brike even in the double-header with Brooklyn today. Morrissey played short in the first game in an unsatisfactory way and in the second game he was relieved by Kelley. Brooklyn never had a chance in the second game, Hahn holding them down to five hits. The second game was called in the seventh inning to allow Brooklyn to catch a train. Ritter grew weak in the fifth innin gand was relieved by Hugg, a local amateur. The scores:

FRED CLARKE WILL SOON BE PLAYING LEFT FIELD AGAIN

Fred Clarke.

Fred Clarke will again be playing left field for his champion team within the next few days. The injury to his right shoulder is not as bad as was at first supposed and he has the assurance of his surgeon that he will be able to again get into harness and lead his players down the stretch in the race for the championship of the National league. Clarke yesterday visited the club house and imparted the glad tidings that instead of being torn the tendons in his right shoulder are bruised, which means that with careful nursing and patience on his part he will soon be in the game again.

As an evidence that the shoulder is not so bad and that it will mend rapidly, Clarke showed that he could move his arms by making a motion similar to the one when a player attempts to "chop" the ball and then by raising his arms. In the club house he showed the players who gathered around him that he has the use of his arm by going through the motion mentioned and by raising it above his head. The shoulder was in a plaster and does not pain him any more than could be expected from such an injury.

Had the ligaments been torn he would not have the use of his arm.

"While the arm pains me considerably there is, however, a feeling in my mind that it will not last long and that I will be chasing flies again in left. I want to be in the game," said he. He sat on the players' bench during the game yesterday.

MISS FITZMILLER WINS CUP AT EDGEWOOD CLUB

J. H. Hill Defeats W. H. Duff II. in Good Contest—Tie at Edgeworth.

Miss E. Kitzmiller yesterday won the club cup at the Edgewood Golf club course in the women's tournament. Miss Kitzmiller played from scratch. The tournament was postponed from Saturday. The scores returned were:

	Gross.	H'dcap.	Net.
Miss E. Kitzmiller	102	0	102
Miss R. Flenniken	108	4	104
Miss B. Jones	119	1	118
Miss K. M. McCook	123	1	122

J. H. Hill beat W. H. Duff II. in the finals of the first eight for the president's cup yesterday on the Edgewood links by 3 up and 2 to play. The match was well played throughout. Hill had a handicap of 2 in 18 holes. Play for the president's cup began Saturday. W. S. Dalzell and A. C. Whitecomb of the second eight who will meet in the finals are scheduled to play this Saturday.

J. E. Porter and J. H. Rohrbacher met in the finals yesterday at the Edgeworth club for the Judge Elliott Hodgson cup and played a tie. Porter won the cup in the 76. He had played through on Saturday, 9 holes of play each round. B. Rose, Jr., handicap 6; G. E. McCague, handicap 5, and F. A. McVay, handicap 6, for the nine holes. Mr. Porter also won the F. H. Lloyd cup on Saturday. J. S. George defaulting in the finals.

INDEPENDENT MANAGERS ACT IN CASE OF JUMPERS

'Scholastics Play at Washington This Afternoon—Totten May Join Field Club.

The National Association of Independent Baseball clubs has been called upon but once this season to render decisions on the cases of players charged with jumping contracts and other offenses. This association, comprised the leading independent teams in Central and Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, it has had very little trouble with the players thus far.

However, there were a few cases that the association had to deal with, and at the meeting held Sunday in Philadelphia it acted promptly. One of the cases that attracted much attention in the circuit was the controversy of the Harrisburg and Pottsville teams for the services of Pitcher Matthews. All season until the last few weeks Matthews played with Harrisburg, when Pottsville, Harrisburg and Pottsville protested. Matthews claimed that he played with the Pottsville team without signing a contract, and when Harrisburg offered him a larger salary he went with them. At Sunday's meeting Pottsville's representatives did not show up, and the case was held over until the next meeting.

The suspension of the following players was sanctioned by the association: Pitcher Taylor of the Phoenix club of Philadelphia for insubordination and "Lefty" Mullin of Reading for the rest of the season for jumping his contract. Honeyford, not a member of the association because there are no other clubs in this part of the state that belong. The membership of the association now includes 28 clubs, with two new applications to act upon.

The All-Interscholastic will play at Washington this evening, it being a twilight game, and tomorrow morning will leave for Johnstown to play tomorrow afternoon and Thursday. The following players are to be at Union depot at 1:15 this afternoon: Porter of Greensburg, Tom Wilson, Doyle, Duffy, Kenney, Price, Stuber, Cracken, Spindler, Youngson and Overend. Wilson will be on the rubber against the Wash.-Jeff. players.

Will Totten, manager and pitcher of the Dravosburg team, will probably join the Pittsburgh local club next week. Dravosburg is scheduled to play at Homestead this Saturday, and there is some talk of the team disbanding after the game. Third Baseman "Timmy" Potts will play with one of the local fast teams, probably Manor or Wilmerding. "Pat" Briney, the third baseman who was with Greenville, until recently, will also go with a local club. Kinsey, second baseman, is a former New York state leaguer, and would make a good man for some good local team.

The Meteror Was Beaten.

BERLIN, July 6.—In the yacht races in Lubeck bay yesterday under the auspices of the North German Regatta association and the Lubeck Yacht club, very light airs prevailed. The Hamburg boat beat Emperor William's American built yacht Meteor by several minutes and the Navahoe beat the Orion.

Two Hard Rounds.

HENLEY, ENGLAND, July 6.—A couple of preliminary heats in the race for the Diamond sculls were rowed today, though the regatta does not begin until tomorrow.

F. S. Kelly, the holder of the trophy, beat Carl Ernest of the Berlin Rowing club by six lengths, while H. T. Blackstaffe defeated a field by five lengths.

LIFE-SAVING IS SERIOUS PROBLEM

Receives Constant Consideration by the Atlantic City Authorities.

BATHERS ARE VERY RECKLESS

Over-Confidence and Ignorance of the Ocean's Treacherous Currents Responsible for the Loss of Many Lives. Preacher Becomes American Citizen.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 6.

The problem of protection to the hundreds of thousands of bathers of this resort every season is the most serious one that confronts the authorities and it is too much to hope that absolute protection will ever be found. Additional safeguards have been adopted with every recurring season, but fatal accidents continue. Were it possible to secure the co-operation of the bathers in guarding against accidents, the solution of the vexing problem would have been discovered. But this is hopeless. The chief obstacle to this end is the recklessness and over confidence inherent in humanity, together with the treachery of the sea.

To people who are ignorant of the pitfalls laid for unwary feet by Old Neptune, there is never a hint of danger in the soft curling breakers and the smooth caressing rush of the undertow. Dangers come with the swiftness of a leopard's spring and the bather is overwhelmed before he or she can utter a cry. Nothing but the eternal vigilance of the men who know the moods and tricks of the ocean prevents wholesale drownings.

Pastor Becomes American Citizen.

Impressive services were held yesterday in the Westminster Presbyterian church to celebrate the assumption of American citizenship by the pastor, the Rev. John McMillan, who selected the Fourth of July to forswear his allegiance to King Edward and become a full-fledged citizen of this republic. To carry out the wish of the minister to take the oath of allegiance on July 4, a special term of court was held by County Judge Endicott. The Rev. Mr. McMillan was born in Scotland 38 years ago. He came to the United States about 10 years ago and entered the ministry. After graduating at the Western Theological seminary in Allegheny he came to Atlantic City three years ago and organized a congregation in an old laundry building. In less than two years he had built a new church at a cost of $8,000.

Opticians to Hold Convention.

Eye experts from all parts of the country will attend the sixth annual convention of the American Association of Opticians, which opens tomorrow morning in the Casino of the Royal Palace hotel. The meeting will continue until Friday. Officers will be elected on Thursday and the annual banquet held the same evening.

Another Important Gathering.

The management of the Hotel Rudolf is preparing to receive one of the largest as well as one of the most important conventions, beginning the latter part of this week, that has been held in this city in many seasons. The convention is that of the National Saddlery association of America, and there will come to the shore, including the ladies of the officers and delegates, about 500 visitors. Headquarters for the convention will be at the Rudolf, the meetings to be held in the large convention hall of the hostelry. Proprietor Charles R. Myers is in receipt of an official vote of thanks from the Lincoln post, G. A. R., of Newark, N. J., which had its headquarters at his hotel a few weeks ago. At the first meeting of this post a most flattering resolution thanking Mr. Myers for the excellent manner in which he looked after the comfort and entertainment of the members of Lincoln post was adopted and a copy sent him.

PIRATES WON FAVOR AT DUQUESNE GARDEN

Opera Company Gave Most Acceptable Presentation of an Old Favorite.

Well do they deserve the name, "Pirates of Penzance," the tuneful company billed to entertain at Duquesne garden this week. From the time they hoisted the black flag last night until the last note of their merry song had died away they stole the favor of young and old alike, and so slyly was the theft conducted that even the most wary could hardly tell why he had been won over to the strangers. For they were strangers, several of them, but this title fits them no longer. If the appreciative applause that came from full boxes and long rows of crowded seats was not sufficient evidence that Gilbert and Sullivan's famous comic opera had succeeded, then the doubter would have been convinced if he had only listened to a few of the cordial words of praise that the critical audience uttered as they filed out into the moonlight. Old and new members of the company are sure to be greeted by full houses all the week, for their performance last night added much to the increasing popularity of the Duquesne garden as the place to spend a delightful summer evening.

The "Pirates of Penzance" deals with the troubles of an orphan of the royal family, Frederick by name, who is left to the care of a most disagreeable nurse. He is turned over to pirates by mistake, instead of being bound out to pilots. A long cruise in foreign waters brings him at last to Gen. Stanley and his 20 daughters, whom he finds much more lovable than his old nurse. She, in revenge, tells the pirates that Frederic, being born on a leap year, has not reached his majority and is still bound to them. With this information the pirate crew goes to England, captures the general and his daughters and are in turn captured by a corps of police. At last the discovery is made that the pirates themselves are of royal descent, and a series of weddings ends a most amusing string of incidents.

Aside from the very pretty scenic effects the entertainment was rich with fun and drollery. William Corliss, a comedian well known from his connection with the Frank Daniels opera company, introduced himself to Duquesne garden theater goers as the sergeant of the most awkward bunch of "coppers" seen there for many a month. Another comedian, John J. Martin, was a source of much amusement as the pirate king. A very dainty little songster with a captivating manner and a rich voice was Miss Margaret Robinson, who made her first appearance as the prima donna soubrette. The most bewitching of Gen. Stanley's 20 daughters. Her tantalizing snatches of song brought out round after round of applause; not more favor, however, than was bestowed upon Miss Josephine Bartlett, the new character woman, whose fine contralto voice delighted her hearers. The general himself was no end of fun and the distressing adventures of the pirate apprentice, Harry Davies, gained for him the sympathy of all who were charmed by his lady love, Mabel, whose role Ethel Balch, the new prima donna, makes a great success. The pirates are bound to steal more friends during their week's engagement and the least that can be said is that it is a pleasure to be robbed by them.

THREE BOYS DROWNED WHILE BATHING IN RIVER

Hot Weather Ripens the Usual Summer Crop of Swimming Fatalities.

Daniel Callahan, 10 years old, living at No. 2107 Carey alley, South Side, was drowned while bathing in the Monongahela river at the foot of South Twentieth street, last evening. The body was recovered at 10:20 last night and taken to his home, after the coroner had been notified.

Charles Lottes, 12 years old, of Glendale, was drowned while swimming in the Ohio river at Dixmont, late Sunday afternoon. The body has not been recovered.

Frank Allen, 10 years old, was drowned yesterday in the Monongahela river at the foot of Market street, McKeesport. The boy was swimming and got beyond his depth.

TRANSPORT ON A REEF.

Sumner Goes Aground With Troops on Island of Luzon.

MANILA, July 6.—The United States transport Sumner, having on board the Fourth infantry, struck an uncharted reef and her forward hold filled rapidly, necessitating the vessel being beached in seven feet of water, near Mauban, Island of Luzon. Several of her forward plates were broken.

Two inter-island transports were dispatched to continue the distribution of the Fourth infantry to various stations in Luzon and to bring the Twenty-sixth infantry to Manila, where the regiment will embark on the transport Logan and sail for San Francisco.

AMERICANS BUYING STEEL IN GERMANY

BERLIN, July 6.—The Cologne Volks Zeitung says that American orders for 50,000 tons of steel rails, ingots, billets, etc., have just been placed in Westphalian establishments. The orders have been in negotiation for several weeks and have often been mentioned in the press as not likely to lead to business.

charter members of Tyrone lodge, Dr. G. W. Burket, John Reinhart, John A. Crawford, F. A. Kneiss, Joseph Williams, S. C. Stewart and H. F. Copelin. A banquet was served at which Mr. Walton was toasted in addresses as follows: "As a Fellow Mason," H. F. Copelin; "As a Fellow Charter Member," Dr. G. W. Burket; "As a Fellow Trustee," A. J. Latham; "As a Fellow Banker," John A. Crawford; "As a Fellow Merchant," F. W. Acklin; "As a Fellow Citizen," J. W. Howe.

GILL HAS RESIGNED SEAT IN CONGRESS

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 6.—Joseph J. Gill, Republican, of this city, today sent his resignation to Gov. Nash as the member of congress from the Sixteenth Ohio district, to take effect on the qualification of his successor. The condition of his health is assigned as the reason. No names have been mentioned as Mr. Gill's successor, as his resignation came as a surprise. Congressman Gill is a wealthy manufacturer, who recently paid $300,000 for the Daily Dispatch at Columbus, O.

MONONGAHELA, PA.—During the drive to the cemetery, following the funeral of John Watson, a carriage occupied by Henry Houston, William Houston and Lemuel Watson, was struck by a Pittsburgh & Charleroi street car. The vehicle was smashed. The men saved their lives by jumping.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The $125,000 government building to be erected in this city is being delayed by the failure of the Washington authorities to look up the title to the property purchased, according to the statement of Charles J. Kirk, who has just returned from Washington, where he went to investigate the cause of the delay.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of 18-year-old Thomas Fender, son of John Fender of this city, has been cleared up. The family received a letter from the boy, who is at the home of an uncle in Swansea, Wales. He said that he was afraid of a man in the mill, with whom he had trouble, and decided to leave home.

FIRST LOCKJAW CASE DUE TO THE FOURTH

Patrick Loughrey, 9 years old, died at his home, No. 3720 Charlotte street, yesterday from lockjaw. His death was due to injuries received in holding a large firecracker in his hands while it exploded. The discharge lacerated his hand.

PERSONALS

John H. Wilson, a real estate broker of New York, read with sympathetic interest the accounts of the disaster at Jeannette. Speaking of the catastrophy he said: "I am forcibly impressed with the idea that a law should be passed prohibiting any person or persons damming up natural waterways. This is the second accident from the bursting of dams along the Pennsylvania railroad. While the Jeannette affair was not so serious as the Johnstown flood, yet it is deplorable and is equally distressing to those who suffered the loss of their relatives and friends. No dams should be built to old pleasure, and what are absolutely necessary should be so constructed that the water could be let out by degrees before it overflows the breastwork."

Several infantrymen who have been stationed at the Arsenal grounds have been transferred to Ft. Niagara. They left for that place last night over the Allegheny Valley.

Gen. Willis J. Hulings of Oil City arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday. He says the indications are this year's camp will eclipse all previous ones. The soldiers had a prosperous year and will be prepared to spend enough money to make camp life blissful.

Women's Clubs

OVER 2,000 children were enrolled at the opening of the summer playgrounds and the vacation schools in Pittsburgh yesterday morning.

Ten playgrounds and as many vacation schools were opened under the auspices of the joint committee of women's clubs of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and vicinity. An additional playground was opened in Recreation park, Carson street, South Side. In a number of the schools the limit of children who can be admitted was reached and a waiting list was formed. In a few the attendance was not as large as was expected and it will be increased by personal invitation given from house to house by the teachers and club women. A special effort will be made to reach the children in the neighborhood where the playgrounds and schools are established, who most need the advantages and opportunities of the playground, and the interesting manual training work.

Many of the little ones were escorted to the school grounds yesterday, sometimes the mothers, leaving their washtubs and with their sleeves still rolled up above the elbows, taking the children and babies to the teachers. Sometimes it was the father who entered the school yard, curious to see what the summer playground was like, and always interested in the work of the vacation school.

One new class was started yesterday morning at the O'Hara school. Miss Louise G. Taylor, general supervisor of all the playgrounds and vacation schools, started out through the neighborhood about Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets and gathered together a group of girls, in ages ranging from 12 to 14 years. She led them back to the school building and they began to take lessons in millinery. It was a very fascinating occupation to them and with surprising quickness they grasped the ideas of the teacher who showed them how to braid straw and fashion ribbon bows.

The cooking class at the Ralston school lost no time in beginning its work and the teacher, Miss McIntyre, who has studied both at the Chicago university and at Columbia, sent out for some materials as soon as the girls entered the class. Before the morning was over the teacher was surrounded by 15 little girls, all deep in some culinary mystery. This class promises to be one of the interesting ones in the Penn avenue district.

The attendance at the Grant school was not as large as the women expected, but special efforts will be made to reach the great mass of foreign children in that neighborhood. The boys at the Grant school yesterday were especially interested in the manual training work. At the Soho school manual training is given a prominent place, Mr. Thacker has charge of this work. He comes from the Ethical Culture school, in New York, and is especially qualified to take charge of this branch.

The games in the playgrounds during the play period of 40 minutes in every session of the vacation school will be emphasized. Mr. Herzel and Miss Egbert have charge of the games and each will spend half of a morning session at each school, once a week. In this way the games will be tried and new ones introduced under their personal direction, thus taking much of the work off the teachers in the individual schools.

Friday of this week will be general flower day at the different playgrounds and schools. The general flower committee, composed of club women, has Miss Eliza D. Armstrong for chairman, and flowers will be provided for all the schools where the local committees are not able to provide them in sufficient quantities.

The enrollment in the Pittsburgh playgrounds and vacation schools yesterday was as follows:

Forbes school, Forbes and Stevenson streets—120 in the vacation school; 200 in the playground.

Ralston school, Penn avenue and Fifteenth street—106 in the school; 125 in the playground.

O'Hara school, Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets—105 in the school; 210 in the playground. Waiting list established for the playground.

Monongahela school, Carson street, South Side—43 in the school; 49 in the playground. This is the smallest school, as it is right in the midst of the mill district and there are few children in the neighborhood.

Fortieth Street school, Lawrenceville—150 in the school; 150 in the playground. Waiting list established.

Soho school, Fifth avenue—116 in the school; 85 in the playground.

Sylvan avenue school—108 in the school; 83 in the playground.

Grant school, Grant street—70 in the school; 75 in the playground.

Riverside school—65 in the school; 45 in the playground.

Columbian Council school, Center avenue—56 in the school; 87 in the playground.

COTTON PRICES DROPPED IN NEW ORLEANS PANIC

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—In a small-sized panic in the cotton market this morning September options fell 70 points from $11.79 to $11.09. The selling in September was tremendous. New York had an immense quantity of selling orders in local brokers' hands and the first declines scared weak longs into unloading as quickly as possible. The consequence was that prices went down nine and 10 points at a time. The bull clique was also credited with unloading, and it was current gossip that local longs were unloading in Liverpool.

RAILROAD BILLS ARE SENT BACK

Select Council Holds Up Baltimore & Ohio Ordinances for Indefinite Period.

LITTLE REASON IS GIVEN

No Action on Terminal Measure Until Fall and Proposed Vacation of Streets for Glenwood Freight Yards Also Postponed.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances, one of which grants the company the use of the Monongahela wharf between Grant and Smithfield streets, for its new freight and passenger terminal, have been held up indefinitely by Pittsburgh select council. The other bill provides for the vacation of a number of streets in the Twenty-third ward so as to permit an extension of the company's freight yards. Both ordinances were reported affirmatively to select council yesterday afternoon by the corporations and surveys committees of that branch, and were immediately returned to the same committees.

A singular feature of the proceedings was the fact that John Upperman, chairman of the corporations committee, which reported the ordinances with affirmative recommendations, was largely instrumental in having the measures sent back, making a speech in favor of the motion.

Benz Made the Motion.

John Benz contended that the terminal bill had been hurriedly passed in common council and approved by the select council committee when there was barely a quorum. Mr. Upperman also claimed that the ordinance had not received proper consideration at the hands of his committee. R. H. Douglas spoke against the motion made by Mr. Benz to recommit the ordinance. The vote was as follows:

Ayes—Atkinson, Barry, Benz, Diehl, Geary, Kearns, Perry, Platt, Rothwelln, Ruhlandt, Schneider, Shenkel, Stewart, Upperman, Voskamp, Wainwright, Wilson, Zahniser—18.

Nays—Booth, Costello, Donahoe, Douglas, Fichtel, Fleming, Gallagher, Hermes, Morgan, Murphy, Sarby, Schlernitzauer, West, Wightman and President Lambert—15.

The motion to send the Twenty-third ward vacation bill back passed by a vote of 19 to 18. The Citizens members endeavored to block this move by adjourning and breaking up a quorum, but the motion was declared carried.

No meeting of the corporations committee or the surveys committee to reconsider the two ordinances was called after recess, and no indication when a meeting will be held by either committee. Yesterday's session of select council was a special one and another meeting of the body is not likely until September.

Ordinance Passed Finally.

The following bills were passed finally:

Ordinances granting the Connolly-McAfee Company the right to lay a railroad switch at Smallman and Twenty-third streets; granting a franchise to the Morningside Street Railway Company on certain streets in the East End; vacating portions of Wrigley's alley, an unnamed 13½-foot alley on the South Side and South Twenty-sixth and Sidney streets, at the request of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company; establishing grades of Braddock avenue, Ailton, Wayne, Emons and Indiano alleys and Mt. Vernon, Omega, Coboden and Lenora streets, re-establishing the grade of Duncan street and re-establishing the grade of Kearcher street.

The sale of the old No. 2 police station property on Center avenue to John H. Wise, at $5,555, was approved.

WILL SIGN BONDS FOR FILTRATION

Larkin Says He Will Transgress His Rule to Give People Pure Water.

VOTE WILL NOT BE REQUIRED

Controller Promises to Give Mayor and Councils Help If They Take Action. He Condemns Delay of the Administration.

"The people want pure water, want it bad and should have it. If those responsible for the delay were as much interested in filtering water as they are in filtering money they would get to work and give the people what they are demanding," said Controller John B. Larkin yesterday.

"If a bond issue is required to obtain filtration it should be made at once," continued Controller Larkin. "I believe the people should vote on all bond issue propositions, but in the case of filtration I would sign bonds without a vote of the people if councils authorize a bond issue; but I would not do so for any other purpose. There is urgent need for some action by councils and they ought to take steps at once to give the people a better water supply."

The controller denied that he had instigated proceedings in the United States court, over a year ago, preventing Director J. Guy McCandless from letting contracts for the construction of a filtration plant until all the estimates had been made and the money appropriated. The controller said, however, that the city had no right to let a contract for any part of the work until all the money needed for the purpose had been first obtained.

The controller's statement that he would sign bonds to build a complete plant if councils authorized the issuance of the bonds, gives the suggestion to councils how they may obtain the money needed for the purpose more quickly than by taking a vote of the people.

The controller also expressed his preference for sand filtration. He said: "I have no personal knowledge of the relative merits of the different systems, except that the commission appointed several years ago recommended the sand system after a thorough investigation. I am willing to accept their judgment, and I believe that the city should start action at once."

Director Harry Moore, head of the public safety department, said that he thought the best method of filtration was to take the supply from the Allegheny river and filter it through sand.

"The water from the Monongahela river could never be used for filtering purposes. It is too muddy and clogs even a private filter after it has been standing an hour. The South Side should get its supply from the Allegheny river as well as other portions of the city. The Monongahela river water is not fit to drink," said Director Moore.

The call for the meeting of the subcommittee on filtration for tomorrow afternoon has been sent out by the city clerk and a quorum is expected to respond to the call.

Pittsburgh & Western Plans to Elevate Its Property in Allegheny

The Pittsburgh & Western railroad has a gigantic scheme under consideration which, if carried out, will not only give it one of the greatest freight yards in the country, but will change the topography of the entire lower end of Allegheny. Plans being drawn provide for the elevation of all the territory owned by the company, from School street at Exposition park, to the road terminal at Woods Run. The purpose is to put the big freight yards above the high water mark and have them permanently out of danger of the loss that is incidental to periodic floods.

A concrete wall, starting at School street at a height of four feet, will run the entire length of South avenue, and at Grant avenue will reach an elevation of 10 feet. Grant avenue is to be cleared overhead and grade crossings abolished. Along the river front, on the company's property, a similar wall will be built and the work of filling in will be commenced. The river wall will extend down past the Union bridge into Woods Run, and with the inland wall will enclose all the company's freight yards in Allegheny. Track level at Federal street is to be reached from the 10-foot elevation at Grant avenue at an easy grade.

The scarcity of dumps on the North Side will assist the Pittsburgh & Western in carrying out its plans economically. At present owners of dumps get from 15 to 30 cents for each load, and most of the dumping grounds are in remote parts of the city. The revenue accruing from such a source is calculated to pay for the expense of the wall. Director E. J. McIlvain of the Allegheny department of public works and Supt. D. L. Fulton of the bureau of highways and sewers, have assured the company officials that the city will only too gladly take the opportunity of dumping the refuse from the public highways on the railroad property. This, the Allegheny officials say, will solve a problem that they have been wrestling with for some time.

General Agent Robert Finney, Jr., speaking of the plans yesterday, said:

"We have been considering the elevation of our freight yards for several months, and the plan seems feasible. To build a wall from School street down South avenue and also along the river front, although entailing a lot of work, can be done without the outay of an enormous sum of money. It will not be difficult to reach track level at Federal street, as the distance from there to Grant avenue, the highest point in the plans, is almost a mile. The gradient will not be a steep one and, indeed, will be scarcely perceptible. The only difficult part in the scheme will be the filling in of the yards from School street down to our Woods Run terminal. We would commence work very soon if we had any knowledge of what plans the Union Bridge Company has made toward the elevation of their bridge. The secretary of war has ordered that the bridge be raised by July 1, 1904. If the approach to the bridge from South avenue is steep, it will interfere somewhat with our plans. As soon as we are assured that the plans of the Union Bridge Company will not conflict with ours, we will commence work on our new yards."

CONTRACTS TO BE LET.

President Joseph Ramsey to Order Many Improvements in This Territory.

Arrangements are to be made this week for the completion of many local projects of the Wabash railroad. President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., is expected in the city in a few days to hold a conference with James W. Patterson of the Pittsburgh, Connellsville & Waynesburg, when the bids on the contracts which have been received will be tabulated, will be awarded to the successful contractors. It is estimated that the work yet to be done will cost something like $10,000,000. This is principally for the construction of the Greene county line, the Sawmill run branch and the connections for the Wabash with other lines in this territory.

After the conference with local men, President Ramsey will go to Baltimore, where extensive changes are to be made.

The work on the Pittsburgh extension is going on steadily. It is announced that nearly all the grading between this city and the Ohio river has been completed, while the work west of the river is progressing rapidly.

AID ASKED FOR MISSION AT NORTH BRADDOCK

Ministerial Associations Met Together Yesterday and Discussed Organic Union.

A special meeting of the Westmoreland presbytery of the United Presbyterian church, held in the United Presbyterian building yesterday, was poorly attended because of the floods in the outlying districts. The board of missions was asked to aid the North Braddock mission as much as possible in a financial way. The Rev. R. H. Rockwell, who has been pastor at Fairfield and Ligonier for the past four years, was given permission to accept a call from the Mars congregation. He will preach his farewell sermon the last Sunday of this month.

The ministerial associations of Pittsburgh and Allegheny held a union meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday. The subject discussed was "Organic Union," and it was heartily received. The Rev. Dr. Robert M. Russel presided. The Rev. John Weidley, D. D., pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, was the first speaker. He spoke on the recent session of the general synod in Baltimore, and gave statistics of the growth of the church. There are 209,942 members at present.

The Rev. J. M. Duff, D. D., of Carnegie, spoke of the Presbyterian general assembly in its recent sessions in Los Angeles, Cal. In his remarks he said: "When this country fully knows the arrogance and self-assertion of the Mormon church it will put a quick stop to her political aspirations." The Rev. Dr. G. W. Montgomery and the Rev. Dr. Alexander Gilchrist also addressed the meeting.

GOLD EXPORTS CHECKED ADVANCE

Eastern Stocks Closed Extremely Dull and Below the Best Prices—Call Money Remained Easy—Local Market Stagnant.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The resumption of business in the eastern stock market yesterday after the long holiday was on a small scale, which gradually became smaller until the trading came almost to a standstill. London prices were lower, and there were fractional declines in the railroad list, but as there was no selling pressure, prices gradually hardened during the afternoon, and were in a fair way to close strong, when the announcement was made of three engagements of gold for shipment today, aggregating $2,600,000. This was not wholly unexpected, as sterling advanced here and fell in Berlin and Paris, but it had a chilling effect upon the little bullish feeling displayed. Call money rates, however, remained easy, and after opening at 3½ per cent, declined to 1½ per cent, closing at the latter figure. As bearing upon the money question, some satisfaction was expressed over the violent decline in cotton, the August option selling down more than a cent. This decline was ascribed largely to the stringency in the money market in New Orleans, where one of the bull pools has its headquarters; but its general effect, if continued, should be to stimulate exports of the staple, and thereby reduce if it does not render entirely unnecessary gold exports in the immediate future. London's operations did not exceed 5,000 shares, and sales predominated, but it was reported by international houses that there was an increasing demand from abroad for bonds in this market, and that while individual orders were not large, the aggregate was considerable.

The news of the day, aside from the gold exports, related mainly to railroad earnings and crop reports. The weather in the west was reported ideal, and this was used as the basis for a little buying of the grainger stocks. The latter were also helped by the report of earnings of Missouri Pacific, which increased $320,000 for the fourth week in June and $186,000 for the month. This is a remarkable showing when the apprehensions are recalled as to the effect of the June floods in Missouri Pacific territory. The stock was moderately active, advancing to 103¼ and closed at 103. Norfolk & Western also made an excellent showing, reporting an increase in gross earnings for the fourth week in June of $258,204, and for the month of $505,074, being the best month and the best week in the company's history. For the fiscal year the gross earnings increased $5,869,000, and the net increased $741,000. The stock was one of the strongest railroads on the list, advancing to 67 and closing at 66⅞. Canadian Pacific reported an increase of $279,000 for the fourth week in June, and Chesapeake & Ohio an increase of $400,000, but neither of these stocks were active or much changed in price. The Erie issues were quite strong during the day, the common crossing 34 and the first preferred 68. The directors meet tomorrow to take action on the dividend, and there is some expectation that the first preferred will be put on a 4 per cent basis and the second preferred on 2 per cent. Reading issues were moderately active and firm. Pennsylvania ranged between 125½ and 126 during the greater part of the session, but sold off to and closed at 125⅛. Chicago & Northwestern declined to 185½, but later recovered to 190½. Baltimore & Ohio rallied to 86⅝, and closed near the best, and Rock Island, Hocking Valley and Wabash preferred closed at fractional gains. Union Pacific was heavy and closed at the lowest of the day.

The principal activity in the industrials was confined to Amalgamated Copper. The stock opened lower at 53⅜, and quickly sold off to 52⅞, on the decline in the metal abroad, and also on rumors of dissensions among insiders. It displayed little or no rallying power and closed at the lowest. American Smelting declined to 125⅝ on reports of new competition. United States Steel common opened lower at 38½, rallied to 39¼, and then declined to 39⅛, closing at the lowest. The preferred opened ¼ lower at 81¼, but rallied, to 81⅞, and closed at 81½. The directors are scheduled to meet today to take action on the dividend, and will also probably give out the report of earnings for the past quarter. Colorado Fuel & Iron opened strong and higher at 63⅞, advanced to 65¼ and closed at 64½. Sugar declined from 121 to 119¼, and recovered only a small portion of the loss. The market finally closed barely steady at the decline. During the first two hours the sales reached 103,400 shares, and for the remaining three hours only 80,500 shares changed hands, the total for the day amounting to only 183,800 shares, one of the smallest totals for a full day this year.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday business was relatively as dull as in New York. The sales amounted to only 1,901 shares, and in the industrial list the fluctuations in prices were covered by less than a point. There were no transactions in Crucible Steel common, which remained nominally quoted at 14½ bid, 14¾ asked, and only 85 shares of the preferred changed hands at 80⅜@81. The day also passed without a sale of United States Steel common, which was offered at 30¾, and only 150 shares of the preferred sold at 81½. Pittsburgh Coal common was likewise without sale, but was steady at 28⅛ bid, while the preferred remained unchanged at 86⅞, the stock having evidently discounted the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend. Only 10 shares Westinghouse Electric changed hands and the price was unchanged at 66, the stock closing without bid. These shares constitute the active issues on the local board, and the dull ness in them indicates the general character of the market. Manufacturers Light & Heat sold to the extent of 465 shares at 39@39¼, closing at 39 bid. Philadelphia Company common was firmer, 200 shares changing hands at 42⅜@42½, closing at 42 bid. Ohio Fuel Supply was quoted at 42½@43. Harbison-Walker common sold at 10 and the preferred at 65. There were no transactions in National Fire Proofing.

In the banking group American Trust sold at 490, a decline of 10 points from the last previous sale. There was nothing doing in Colonial Trust, and Farmers Deposit National Bank was offered at 1,650, closing without bid. Dollar Savings Fund & Trust sold at 340, an advance of 5 per cent. Iron City Trust was a fraction lower, declining to 153½ and recovering to 154. Industrial National Bank was unchanged at 145. The rest of the list was unchanged. Bonds were extremely neglected.

Sales on the stock exchange reached only 1,901 shares.

Manufacturers Light and Heat closed a fraction higher at 39¼.

Steel and coal stocks were extremely dull and unchanged in price.

American Trust was 10 points lower, selling at 490.

IN WALL STREET.

Aggregate transactions were but 1,745,000.

Amalgamated Copper closed at 53; 53,100 shares being traded in.

Colorado Fuel experienced a sharp advance, reaching 65¼; close was 64½.

Strikes caused Smelting to decline 43⅜.

Day's weakness in Sugar was due to unstable market for product; low was 119½.

The bond market was exceedingly dull and irregular. Total sales (par value) $1,310,000. United States 2s advanced ½ per cent and the 3s and old 4s ¼ per cent on the last call.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The local stock market is seldom more featureless than it was yesterday. Although the local money market has not been in position to accommodate stock traders for some weeks past this cannot be ascribed as the sole cause of the stagnation, for the reason that a similar condition of affairs exists in the west, as well as in London. There is little prospect of improvement before the first of the month, the coming season will turn away not only traders but brokers. This week Messrs. Crawford, Miller, McFarlane and Wainwright, all members of the Pittsburgh stock exchange, will leave for Europe, to be gone six or eight weeks.

Riverview Land Company stock was offered on the exchange at 70. It is reported that recent private sales have been at 75.

United States Steel 5s, series F, were offered on the local board at 114.

At the close of the market 194½ was bid for 500 shares American Sewer Pipe.

The gross earnings of Louisville & Nashville for the fourth week in June increased $142,850, and for the month increased $848,888. The gross earnings for the fiscal year increased $4,680,216.

On and after today the First National bank of Allegheny will clear for 10 additional banking institutions, including the Federal National and its affiliations.

The Goettman Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent and added 1½ per cent to the surplus fund.

The Birmingham Fire Insurance Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, payable on demand.

The Norfolk & Western statement of earnings for May show an increase in net of $26,893. Fixed charges increased $14,724, leaving the surplus applicable for dividends increase of $10,867. The company's statement from last July to June 1 of this year makes a very excellent showing. Gross earnings increased $3,014,649. Operating expenses increased $2,274,791, and the increased net earnings of $741,000. Fixed charges for the period, which covers 11 months of its fiscal year, increased but $138,037. Its surplus account shows an increase of $848,831 and now stands at $5,267,998.

The Mortgage Banking Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent.

The gross earnings of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for June increased $68,842.

The gross earnings of Wheeling & Lake Erie for June increased $70,216. Hocking Valley increased $91,744.

The best month in the history of the Rand gold mines was August, 1895, when 85 companies were operating 6,340 stamps, and produced 558,724 ounces, worth approximately $8,291,467. Since the war, owing to the difficulty of obtaining labor, these figures have not been approached, although rapid gains are being made. The returns for January of this year show that 3,665 stamps were running and produced 198,168 ounces, which is about half what the output was before the war. The amount of gold still in sight on the Rand is variously estimated at $3,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000. It is thought that eventually 10,000 stamps will be running, or 12 times the mate be cut down to the conservative figure of 12,000, or 6,000 additional stamps to the present equipment, it means an outlay of over $30,000,000 on stamps machinery alone, at $5 each at the rate of $5,000 per stamp for the stamps and auxiliary machinery.

The fact that Lake Shore has been obliged to pay for its money as high as 5 and 6 per cent as in the case of the guarantee of the notes to pay for Hocking Valley common stock, is being used as a reason why other companies with less credit than Lake Shore are likely to be obliged to sell their bonds on a lower basis than the present market affords.

The annual reports of Anaconda, Boston & Montana and other Butte mining companies for the purposes of taxation, were published in London yesterday and failed to make a good impression. The reports show that Montana mines have been no more prosperous on low-priced copper than those operating at Lake Superior. The principal selling of Amalgamated was by Boston speculators and is supposed to have been based upon these reports.

The consolidation of the traction and interurban companies of Louisville has practically been completed. The company will have a capital stock of $14,500,000, of which $2,500,000 is 5 per cent cumulative preferred, and $12,000,000 common.

The Enterprise National bank of Allegheny has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent.

The Potter Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh has declared an initial quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent.

George L. Walker of Boston writes as follows regarding a property in which Pittsburgh capital is largely interested: Calumet & Arizona is now smelting about 900 tons of ore daily, and is installing two more furnaces, each having a daily capacity of 450 tons, and expects to increase its daily treatment to 1,500 tons daily between now and the end of the year. As its ore yields about 6 per cent copper, the current production is a little in excess of 2,000,000 pounds of fine copper monthly, or at the rate of about 28,000,000 pounds annually. If the larger furnaces that are being installed do their work properly they will make possible an increase in the Calumet & Arizona production to from 60,000,000 to 65,000,000 pounds annually. A mining engineer, who for two years past has been doing expert work in Arizona, says: "The discovery of the big ore body that is now being worked by the Calumet & Arizona Company is of tremendous importance to others than the stockholders of that company, as it has perhaps made known a geological fact that will cause Arizona and Mexico becoming the greatest copper-producing districts in the world. At Bisbee the copper is found in lime rock near its contact with porphyry rock. There are two layers of this lime, the upper one being white and the lower, found several hundred feet below the surface, is blue. The Copper Queen developed its mine in the white lime and never went below that formation. Years ago it prospected all of the adjoining claims, including those now owned by the Calumet & Arizona, with a diamond drill, and failed to find copper in any of them in paying quantities. The Calumet & Arizona people sank a shaft down through the white lime into the blue lime and there found its tremendous body of copper ore. Taking the hint from this, the Copper Queen has since sunk two shafts down into the blue lime and has found just the same condition of things as the Calumet & Arizona—high-grade copper ore in apparently inexhaustible quantities. The Calumet & Arizona struck its ore body at a depth of 700 feet and has gone down to a depth of 1,100 feet without cutting through it. Drifts have also been run for hundreds of feet in many directions and in no case has the limits of the ore body been found. It would appear, therefore, that all of the new mining companies now operating on the lime deposit at Bisbee may find excellent values when they reach the lime layer, and if they do, there is no reason why the Bisbee may not be expected in all of the other Arizona and Mexico mining districts where conditions are similar, and there can be no question that within a few years, be the leading copper-producing state of the union. While the Butte mines are confined within an area less than a mile square, and the paying mines at Cobalt, Ontario, nearly 500 miles northeast to Champion, a distance of about 20 miles, copper is found in large quantities and of high enough grade to be worked profitably from northern Arizona south into Mexico for nearly 1,000 miles. If the Bisbee situation of rich copper ore in the underlying blue lime is repeated in all the other districts where surface conditions are similar, there can be no question that the supply of copper required for the future will be supplied. If this view is correct the Lake Superior people, who have been heavy investors in Bisbee mining properties, stand a good chance of making a profit on many of their valuable securities. I am told that the Bisbee craze has subsided at the lake, and that many of the stocks that were a few months ago quoted at ridiculously high prices, are now unsalable.

AT THE TRACTION PARKS.

Music, Comedy and Dancing Entertained Crowds Last Night.

Kennywood, Oakwood and Southern parks had immense crowds last evening. The concerts by Rocereto's band at Kennywood were enjoyed. Bryant & Saville's minstrels held forth at Oakwood park and gave a fine minstrel show. Among the features were Bryant and Saville, funmakers; McDavitt & Kelly, eccentric dancers; Robin, the juggler; and the novelty comedy four, composed of William S. Cetti, William Lawrence, Mark Thompson and Harry Bennett, singers of sentimental and comic songs.

The Oakwood park bill was headed by the Seeker-Wilkes troupe, introducing a number of songs with dances, and sprinkling a lot of good comedy in their sketch. Grace & Grant had a bright comedy musical act. Marion and Dean did well in a singing and dancing specialty. Andy McLeod, the Irish minstrel, kept the audience laughing. Marie LeRoy, a bright little soubrette, did some clever singing.

CRUSADERS NOW AFTER KENNYWOOD EMPLOYES

Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of 13 employes of the Steeplechase Amusement Company, which operates the amusement features at Kennywood park. The warrants were sworn out before Justice George W. Giles, of Homestead, and were issued at the instance of the Rev. W. C. Weaver and the Rev. John L. Lords. Vance of Homestead, and H. Dana Rolfe of First National bank of Homestead. The men will be given hearings after all the warrants are served. The charge against the employes is that they operated various places of amusement in the park last Sunday, that week the managers of the Steeplechase company were fined $25 each by Justice Giles.

EAST END PLOT SOLD FOR $54,000

D. E. Park Sells Large Property at Nos. 5906-5910 Penn Avenue.

NEW STRUCTURAL MATERIAL

Allegheny Building in June Broke All Records—Fine Block for Lawrenceville—Many Sales of Small Residence Properties Are Consummated.

The articles of agreement are signed in what is considered to be one of the best purchases of East End property made for months. The property is that of D. E. Park, at Nos. 5906-5910 Penn avenue and the consideration is $54,000. S. H. Lloyd is credited with being the broker in the deal, but the name of the purchaser could not be learned. Aside from being in one of the best locations in the East End, on the south side of Penn avenue, the second square west of South Highland avenue, the property is one of the largest plots on the market, having a frontage of 59 feet and extending through 200 feet to Mignonette street. The buildings are of comparatively little value. At the rate of sale, about $900 a front foot, the property is regarded as a bargain compared with those recently sold in that neighborhood, viz., the Seeley property and the entire square at the northwest corner of Penn and North Highland avenues, which was bought by E. M. Ferguson. The improvements contemplated for these sites will add considerable to the value of the property sold yesterday, and for either flats or a warehouse or a business block, the latter is a choice site.

Pittsburghers Plan an Innovation.

A new company, to be known as the Pittsburgh Concrete Construction Company, will likely apply for a charter in a short time. A number of prominent contractors and building supply men are interested in the new concern, which is being formed by Architect S. A. Hall. Its purpose is to manufacture concrete blocks of all shapes and sizes for use on buildings, both in foundation work and for cornices, mouldings, etc. In Philadelphia and New Jersey large factories are now rushed with orders, and it is claimed that the new material is very satisfactory. It is made of ground stone, cement and white sand with a heavy coating of waterproof material. The blocks are formed very much like brick, and are said to make a very handsome finish and to last longer than the stonework. The Pittsburgh company will have a capital of $25,000 at the start and will begin operations as soon as it gets its charter.

Allegheny Breaks Another Record.

June building in Allegheny again eclipsed all previous records for that month. The total valuation of the 65 operations authorized was $255,875. Of the permits granted 46 were for frame and 13 for brick buildings, five for brick veneered houses and one for an ironclad building. Forty-two permits for additions were granted and 23 for alterations. The Eleventh ward led with a total valuation of $54,100 and the First ward came in second with a total of $48,500.

Architect Harry S. Estep has awarded to H. L. Kreuzer the contract for building the threelstory block of the Globoff Company at Nos. 2813-2815 Penn avenue. The building will cover a lot 71x90 feet and in its exterior finish and interior arrangement, will be by for the most pretentious business structure in Lawrenceville. The cost is estimated at $60,000 for the superstructure alone.

Plans for another good business block in outer Penn avenue are being prepared by Architect S. A. Hall. It will belong to P. H. Butler and will cover 40x100 feet on the north side of the avenue, near Grove street. It will be four stories high and cost $25,000.

Architect T. H. Scott has closed bids on eight houses which the Walper Place Land Company will build in Marlboro street, Allegheny, at a cost of about $5,000 each.

A Mixture of Names.

By a typographical error The Gazette of Sunday was made to say that Murry A. Verner's holdings on the south side of Penn avenue near Barkers alley, had been sold to Harry Davis for $320,000. The report should have read the Marie A. Verner holdings, as the property has never been owned by Murry A. Verner. The sale was made by Charles J. Pedder & Co.

James E. Simons sold to Ella M. Logue a 10-room brick residence on lot 40x149 feet, on the north side of Darlington street, near Harriett street, Twentieth ward, for $18,000.

South Side: Daniel Braun sold to Edward Dolan an improved lot 20x60 feet, at the northeast corner of Sand and South Eighteenth streets, for $9,250.

Butler street: Dr. Charles D. Herron sold to Otto E. Oetting an improved lot 20x100 feet, on the west side of Butler street, Eighteenth ward, for $8,000.

Belmar place: John Finley sold to DeWitt C. Kissell an improved lot 30x83 feet, on the north side of Idlewild street, Twenty-first ward, for $7,000.

Small Residence Sales.

Forbes street: Cyrus G. Gray sold to W. H. Ward an improved lot 20x92 feet, on the south side of Forbes street, near Craig street, Fourteenth ward, for $7,000.

Forbes street: William A. Zahn sold to Patrick J. Young an improved lot 22x80 feet, on the south side of Main street, Sixteenth ward, for $7,350.

Allegheny: Tucker & Co. sold for W. F. Wehrsbaugh No. 1521 Garfield avenue, Allegheny, a brick house, lot 19x100 feet, for $4,600.

Building permits were issued to Richard Hartle for a two-story brick dwelling in Dunmoyle street, Twenty-second ward, to cost $25,000; to W. A. Thomas, two-story brick dwelling in Fairmont street, Twentieth ward, to cost $1,600; W. H. Whitfield, two two-story brick dwellings in Jancey avenue, to cost $16,000, and a two-story brick veneered dwelling in the same street, to cost $7,500; Amanda Schmidt, two-story brick dwelling in South Twelfth street, Twenty-seventh ward, to cost $2,000; to Frank George, two-story brick dwelling in Edmond street, Sixteenth ward, to cost $2,000.

OAKLAND WIRE TRAGEDY IS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Director Harry Moore Has Called Upon Police Officials for an Explanation.

Director Harry Moore of the department of public safety will make an investigation into the live wire accident in Forbes street on July 4 which resulted in the death of four persons. The hearing in the case has been set for Wednesday, and Inspectors Robert Gray and Milton Bailey of the third and fourth districts, with the linemen of the bureau of electricity, will be summoned to appear and testify about the accident.

Director Moore has made a personal investigation in the matter and is of the opinion the accident could have been prevented. He had a long conference with the linemen, and they informed him the pool of water could not have been sufficiently charged with the dangling wire to have produced death to those falling into it. The opinion prevails the victims came in contact with the live wire.

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe says his officers were not at fault in the matter and they performed their duty properly. Witnesses to the affair, however, differ with the police official and say the police at No. 4 station house could have prevented the accident. Coroner Jesse M. McGeary will hold the inquest in the case at the end of the month.

PAYING PENSIONERS OVER $1,500,000

The local United States pension agency began to make payments for the last quarter yesterday. Trouble is experienced because many justices of the peace do not heed the law specifying the kind of seal to be used on pension papers. It is necessary to return the papers and that causes long delays. About $1,500,000 will be distributed to pensioners in this district within the next 10 days.

LOWER QUOTATIONS FOR NEW POTATOES

No Change in Creamery Butter Prices—Cantaloupes Active and Advancing.

Old potatoes have seen their day and have retired gracefully from the market, giving place to the new potatoes, which is coming forward in greater abundance to meet the increased demand made upon it. Quotations are lower, prices going down yesterday to a range of $2 50 to $2 75, and the market steady. Cucumbers came in from the south in very liberal quantities, and quotations went down. Fresh tomatoes continue plentiful, and there is no further change in market values. Otherwise there is no change in vegetables from figures ruling at the close of the week.

Raspberries did not come forward as freely at the end of the week as was anticipated, and there was no change made in the list of prices. It is expected that heavy shipments will arrive today, and that this may be the last day of plenty for the season. Cantaloupes are firmer at higher prices. Watermelons are unchanged. Blackberries and huckleberries are just in sufficient quantities to keep prices from doing much fluctuating.

Hay continues to rule less strong than it did a week ago, and a further decline in quotations was made effective yesterday. Receipts were quite liberal and offerings decidedly greater, desire to sell apparent than has been the case a few days ago. Grains all remained unchanged, with the market fairly steady.

There was nothing of special note in the grocery market. Flour was held at unchanged figures, the speculative wheat market being firmer and higher. Coffee was steady, and sugar ruled locally at figures which have prevailed for some time. Beans are holding their own without trouble, but are no higher.

Canned goods and dried fruits are selling at same figures as at the close of the week, with the market unchanged as to conditions.

Chickens are no lower nominally than on Friday last, but the market is easy, and plenty of chickens are now arriving to take care of all demands. Ducks offered at lower figures.

Creamery butter prices were allowed to remain unchanged at 19c in yesterday, and Pittsburgh operators were not disposed to pay more last week. Cheese is steady at former prices, and selling prices of last week control the existing situation.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined: Pennsylvania lines, 40 cars hay, 2 cars straw, 2 cars hay and straw, 22 cars oats, 3 cars corn, 1 car corn and oats, 7 cars feed; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 2 cars hay, 1 car oats; Pittsburgh & Western railroad, 20 cars hay, 10 cars oats, 2 cars corn; total receipts, 131 cars.

VIEWERS HEAR LAUER.

Merchant Claims Damages to His Business by Virgin Alley Widening.

The board of viewers on the widening of Virgin alley devoted their time at the session yesterday afternoon to considering the claim of damages presented by J. G. Lauer, a toy dealer of No. 629 Liberty avenue, who filed his claim on last Friday. Mr. Lauer was cross-examined by the board. His store runs through to Virgin alley, and 24 feet of the rear portion will be taken off by the widening. He holds a lease which has eight more years to run, for which he pays annually $4,000.

He said that his business would be practically ruined by the improvement, but the attorneys for the city contended that his figures were merely speculative. Mr. Lauer said that if he had to move his store, that he would have to pay three times as much rent, and that it was his doubtful whether he could find another place in the same locality and have as good trade. Inquiries for three months without success.

G. W. Hammer, engaged in the insurance business, testified that the Lauer lease was worth $12,000 to $15,000 a year for an eight-year term.

A. N. Brown, a real estate dealer, said the lease was worth $9,200 a year for the first five years, and $11,500 a year for the other three years. C. A. Abert said the lease was worth $12,000 a year now, but would be worth less after the building was altered.

ARRANGING FOR BIG TEMPERANCE CONVENTION

Headquarters for the general committee of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of the Pittsburgh diocese were opened yesterday at No. 333 Fourth avenue. The headquarters will be maintained until after the close of the national convention of the organization, to be held in Pittsburgh on August 5, 6 and 7. The use of the rooms was given by the Industrial National bank and Murphy Bros. & Co. furnished the rooms without cost. The Rev. Father John G. Beane, president of the union, has a force of clerks at work arranging for the transportation, housing and entertainment of the delegates to the convention. Ten thousand delegates are expected.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The drygoods market has shown increased strength with an upward tendency noted in a number of lines of bleached goods, many of which have been at value for some time. The volume of purchases is not larger and the market has hardly recovered from the holiday lull. Sellers are sanguine of increased business in the near future.

Federal Positions Vacant.

Examinations will be held by the civil service commission in the Federal building tomorrow week for positions as postal clerks and carriers. The salaries start at $600.

LIGHT OFFERINGS MADE GRAIN PRICES HIGHER

Provisions, However, Were Easier and Closed Lower at Chicago.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 6.—Light offerings caused strength in grains today and September wheat closed 1½c higher, with corn 1½c higher, and oats up 1½@1¾c. Provisions were easier, the September products closing from 10 to 15c lower.

A reaction occurred in wheat and although trading was quiet prices were strong throughout the entire session. The opening was higher at 74¾@75c, an advance of 1¾c from Friday's closing, and on the latter discouraging foreign advices, the reports from Russian being quite bullish. September was up to 75¾@75¾c at the outset, with little or no change in values during the forenoon, when little of the market became stronger. September advanced to 75¾@75¾c. Later the offerings became freer and much of the early gain was lost, September selling 75@75¼c, but rallying the last hour the bulge was recovered and the market again advanced. A decrease in the visible supply was hardly responsible for the better demand late in the day. After selling at 76¾c September closed at 76¾@77c. Primary receipts were 982,000 bushels, against 1,333,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 251 cars, which, with local receipts of 31 cars, eight of contract grade, makes a total of 282 cars for the three points, against 247 cars last week, and 1,066 a year ago.

A bullish sentiment prevailed the corn pit and prices were generally advanced on the greater part of the day. Although the weather conditions were favorable for the growing crop, many traders seem inclined to the belief that the crop is still very backward and considerable buying brought freely under this influence offerings were scattered and prices readily responded to the urged demand. After selling between 51¾ and 52¾c September closed 1½c higher at 51¾c. Local receipts were 1,060 cars, with 56 of contract grade.

Oats were also influenced by the unfavorable crop reports from the country and active covering, by local shorts, caused a firmer tone, in sympathy with corn. On account, caused a strong ...set. The strength to other grains was all additional bull factor. Offerings were light the entire day. September closed with a gain of 1¼@1¾c, at prices ranging between 34¾ and 35¾c. Local receipts were 497 cars.

Trading in provisions was dull and prices ruled weaker under selling by outsiders. There was little support in the market, although shorts covered freely in the forenoon. September pork closed 10c lower at $15 80, September lard was off 10@12½c at $8 00, while ribs were down 15c at $8 75.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow—Wheat, 30 cars; corn, 675 cars; oats, 540 cars; hogs, 15,000 head.

CHAUTAUQUA NOW STUDIES NATURE

Summer Schools at the Assembly Grounds Have Opened Their Doors.

VINCENT WARNS STUDENTS

Should Not Undertake to Accomplish Too Much and Should Not Neglect Many Social Opportunities—Mrs. McCloskey Begins Course of Talks.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 6.—The summer schools opened their session today. The registration of students in the different departments has been going on for several days so that earnest work began promptly. The registration is very large, especially in the New York State Institute department.

At the formal opening of the schools Dr. George Vincent took occasion to warn the energetic and enthusiastic student body against undertaking too much. The tendency is in the air and is very hard to resist. He said further: "Chautauqua is a school, but it is also a community. In coming here for study you belong to the community and live the common life and you will make a great blunder if you simply go to classes and assume a detached, isolated, onlooking attitude. We urge you while you pursue your studies diligently in the class room to remember that in social contact, the music which you may hear, and in some of the general lectures you have opportunities which you cannot find anywhere else in the world."

This is nature study week and the principal courses of instruction are related to that subject. One of the best known workers in this line, Mrs. Alice G. McCloskey, who is head of the bureau of nature study established by the state of New York in connection with Cornell university, began a course today with a talk on "Outdoor Work for Little Folks." Mrs. McCloskey would put Mother Goose on nursery rhymes, but says they ought to tend toward love of nature and recommends as a substitute for rhymes of the Mother Goose variety the nursery rhymes and child poetry of Riley and Stevenson.

Prof. W. D. MacClintock of Chicago began a course of lectures on attitude toward literature with discussion of "Popular Taste in Poetry," and Professor S. R. Clark gave the first of five readings from "Silas Marner." The regular Monday evening concert assumed a patriotic hue and the day's program closed in a blaze of glory.

Leading Lady at the Grand Has Almost Decided to Sign to Star for Frank McKee.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 6.—That "leading ladies" are not made every day is proved by the trials of J. C. Huffman, stage director of the Grand opera house, Pittsburgh, who has been here for several weeks arranging for the opening of the stock company at the new Fifth avenue theater. Miss Eva Taylor will not return to Pittsburgh and although almost persuaded by a tempting increase in salary, she has practically signed with Frank McKee to star in "The Stubbornness of Geraldine," playing the title role.

Ingersoll is also not without offers. He prefers, however, playing leads with the stock company in Pittsburgh, and is now spending the summer on his country place near Gettysburg. No contracts have yet been made, on account of the uncertainty of the opening of the theater.

Mr. Huffman is here to begin the creation of a fourth leading woman who can take the place vacated by Miss Taylor and held for two and one-half years by Miss Truax and for five years by Miss Crosman.

"People get tired of the same faces," said Mr. Huffman at the Imperial, "and I am going to have entirely new women. I haven't engaged anybody yet, but I will have Ingersoll, Abbey, Greenleaf and McKay. I know nothing yet of the women, except that I might say that the sixth woman I have in mind is what is commonly known as a 'leading lady,' and yet she will come with time to play only 'bits.' I really do not believe the people of Pittsburgh appreciate what they have in the way of a good company."

Messrs. Schubert of New York have offered to buy "Red Riding Hood," which Mr. Huffman put on last Christmas. They recently bought the "Chicken Rooster," which was brought from England by Mr. Huffman for "Red Riding Hood" and has installed it in "The Runaways," now playing at the Casino, New York.

TO TEST THE USE OF BLOODHOUNDS

Allegheny County Workhouse Is Defendant in a $10,000 Damage Suit.

LITTLE GIRL WAS INJURED

John Crosby on Trial, Charged With Manslaughter for Death of Alex Wallace—Attorney George Elphinstone's Will Filed for Probate.

A. T. Hickey of Harmarville, in behalf of his minor child, Jennie Hickey, yesterday entered suit against the Allegheny County Workhouse and Inebriate asylum for $10,000 damages. The suit arises out of the method employed by agents of the defendant by which bloodhounds have been employed to pursue and capture escaped prisoners.

It is alleged that on August 2, 1902, the girl was visiting the home of a friend, about a mile from her own home, and while on the township road leading from the Fairview road toward Harmarville, the bloodhounds, with great leaps and loud baying, came along the highway. The girl, it is alleged, upon seeing the hounds rush toward her, endeavored to seek a place of safety, and ran hastily to the side of the road, where she fell and sustained injuries, it is alleged, that will make her an invalid the balance of her life. It is alleged the workhouse authorities were negligent in allowing the hounds upon the highway under the conditions that existed.

John Crosby, a well-known middle-aged man of the East End, was placed on trial in criminal court yesterday upon a charge of involuntary manslaughter, it being alleged that he was responsible for the death of Alexander Wallace, the 7-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Wallace, of No. 5811 Miemonette street. Crosby had been indicted on a charge of murder, but previous to taking up the case the grand jury made another return for a lesser grade of crime. District Attorney Haymaker represented the commonwealth and McElroy & Mevey the defendant.

Crosby was a frequent visitor at the home of Mrs. Wallace, and it is charged that on May 16, last, he was seen to run from the place, after which it was seen that the house was afire. The boy was burned so seriously that he died the next morning. The defense is that Crosby was not near the Wallace house on the night of the fire, but was in a nearby saloon.

Mrs. Wallace, the mother of the dead boy, was called. She was not at home when the fire broke out, but said that Crosby had been at her house twice the day of the fire. Other witnesses had seen Crosby in the vicinity of the Wallace house, but none saw him coming out of it. George Prenter, C. Augloch and John McGillick, firemen, who were called for the defense, testified that the fire was confined to the room on the second floor where the boy was sleeping. The case will go to the jury today.

Before Judge James R. Macfarlane Policeman Harry J. Gordan entered a plea of guilty of unlawful wounding and will be sentenced on Wednesday of next week. He shot Lawrence Murry, a 10-year-old boy, in the heel at the corner of Evaline street and Penn avenue on May 29. Gordon said he had been drinking.

A number of wills were recorded in the register's office yesterday. One was that of the late George Elphinstone, a well-known member of the bar. Certain personal effects were left to the decedent's brothers, and his laws books are bequeathed to James H. Johnston, Esq. The sixth clause of the will leaves the residue of the estate to his three sisters, but the seventh clause reads as follows:

"My marriage is to work a revocation of the sixth bequest and the part of my estate therein mentioned is to be distributed according to intestate laws."

By the will of Joseph Wasweiler, the decedent's widow is given "as much as the commonwealth allows." To the Little Sisters of the Poor of Allegheny is left $100 and the residue of a $1,000 estate goes to the decedent's daughters.

The will of Caroline A. E. McIntyre gives to the Protestant Home for Incurables $600 and the residue of the $1,500 estate is left to Caroline A. E. and Mary A. Morris.

Grand Jury Returns.

The true bills returned by the grand jury were: Burglary, Sherman Roberts; robbery, Joseph Kendle et al.; Joseph Butler; felony, Aaron Goldsmith, Frank Hannan; misdemeanor, Fred. Arnold, Agnes Beitler, James MacDonald, Allen Shepard, Charles Selmar; larceny, William Arnold, Benjamin Brewer, James Fanning et al., William LeClair et al., Walter White et al.; felonious assault and battery, Walter Alexander, Joseph Blinkoski, Daniel Gestila, John Webber (2); embezzlement, Oscar W. Brown; entering a building, etc., John Fullerton; selling liquor illegally, Kate Holleran (2); false pretenses, J. H. Jahn; aggravated assault and battery, Erwin Martin; assault and battery, Frank Quinn, Abraham Reuben, Dallas F. Reaves; larceny from the person, Leo Bellley.

The ignored charges were: Assault and battery, Mary Clayton, Martin Pater; carrying concealed weapons, George Smolomsky; larceny, Joseph Graczik.

The cases of P. J. Donahue and John Koch of the Fourth ward were not acted upon and will go over to the September term.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Attorneys Thomson & Thomson filed the will of Michael Spain, Sr. Letters were taken out by Annie Spain Coll.

Maria Whitely took out letters of administration on the estate of Alfred Whitely. Attorney Frank Smith represents the administratrix.

The will of James W. Neely was filed and letters taken out by Matilda and James C. Neely. Attorneys O'Brien & Ashley have charge of the estate.

The will of J. G. Rolshouse was filed. The estate, valued at $75,000, was left to his children, share and share alike. Attorney John W. Thomas represents the executors, John L. Rolshouse and Samuel A. Rolshouse.

An answer was filed by John Schemm to the petition of his wife, Mary Schemm, to be declared a femme sole trader. The husband denies that he is given to drunkenness or that he ill-treated his wife. He claims he is his wife's third husband and that she is under the influence and control of her relatives; also that the petition is to sell a farm in Bethel township without his consent.

RECEIVER HARD AT WORK.

Task of Untangling Affairs of Shipbuilding Company Is Progressing.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(Special.)—Receiver James Smith, Jr., of the United States Shipbuilding Company, who is now in control, is rapidly getting matters into shape and is nearly ready to consider the claims of the rival reorganization committees. It is his present intention to have the two committees submit their claims this week if possible, so that he may have them for comparison in making up his statement for submitting to the court.

The protective committee, composed of first mortgage bondholders, in their reorganization plan, ask for such a scaling down of all the bonds and stocks as will admit of all classes sharing in the reorganization and with their relative standing as to preference and rights unchanged. Whether Receiver Smith will be able to strike the medium line and bring forward a plan which will save the company and prevent the withdrawal of subsidiary companies, is an open proposition.

At the request of Receiver Smith, Lewis Nixon has consented to remain as president of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

LARKIN IGNORES CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Fiscal Officer Advises Councils How to Act in Investigating the Health Bureau.

WANTS EXPERTS TO TESTIFY

Raises Doubts as to Efficiency of Vaccination and Quarantine in Treatment of Smallpox—Again Fails to Make Specific Charges.

Instead of requesting Mayor Hays to make an investigation, Controller Larkin ignores the chief executive. Yesterday he sent a communication to a council committee asking it to call medical experts before it to give testimony concerning the bureau of health and its treatment of smallpox.

The controller alleges that smallpox, as treated by the bureau of health, has been "repulsive, deadly and expensive," although he again fails to make any specific charges, or to mention specifically wherein the bureau has been at fault.

The special committee appointed by councils, at the request of the controller, to make this investigation held its first meeting yesterday afternoon, in the city clerk's office and organized. Those present were Common Councilmen W. H. Stevenson and Thomas M. Brown, and Select Councilman John A. Murphy. The absent members were Select Councilman John Upperman and Common Councilman W. C. Reitz. Mr. Stevenson was elected chairman and City Clerk E. W. Hassler was chosen secretary.

Larkin's New Statement.

Mr. Larkin appeared and handed each member of the committee a copy of his statement which was typewritten. The members read the statement and then adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

The first part of the controller's communication is a repetition of the statement he made to councils some weeks ago. He stated that numerous and conflicting reports relating to the management and system of the bureau of health had been so industriously circulated as to impair its usefulness, therefore, to institute some form of inquiry to satisfy the public mind, and to set at rest the truth or falsity of alleged irregularities charged against employes of that bureau, and to determine, also, whether the system and methods employed in the treatment of the present scourge, and the management of the municipal hospital has been such as to commend and continue it. The controller continues as follows:

The situation is a very serious one, and having noticed for a full year the loss of life and the undiminished vigor and increased virulence of the disease, I assumed the duty of asking councils to investigate, that they might for themselves determine whether those charged with the treatment and care of loathsome and widely-spread infliction lacked in skill, labored without full understanding of its requirements, or have not had proper support or facilities extended them in the discharge of their duty.

Broad Investigation Wanted.

Those responsible for the work of the bureau joined me in requesting a thorough investigation of the whole subject, along the broadest lines possible, and invited such discussion as would justify the course pursued, or show its fallacy and suggest such remedy as would cover the emergency. Should abuses develop that thrive best when danger is greatest, you can correctly measure and so dispose of them as to promote the public welfare, or set at rest insinuating reports about a service in which the work is so undesirable as the field is uninviting.

If permitted to advise, I would suggest that you invite to your hearings a number of professional gentlemen of long and varied experience with contagious and infectious diseases, so as to secure from them the best information obtainable relating to the treatment and care of those afflicted with smallpox; the fumigation of premises and the virtue of vaccine and quarantine as preventive agencies.

Life is too precious to leave anything undone to save it, and the anxiety of populous neighborhoods where disease exists should be relieved if it is possible to do so. If the ways and means employed in the past year's experience, entailing a cost to this community of almost $850,000 have failed or been inadequate they should be courageously rejected and a start made along new lines with such new light as this investigation may develop; and a resolution to be as heroic in the future as the infliction has been in the past repulsive, deadly and expensive.

SWEETHEARTS WEDDED AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Dr. W. H. Miller of No. 1818 Carson street and Miss Mary A. Barnes of Titusville were married in Wilkinsburg yesterday morning by the Rev. J. I. Miller. The wedding is interesting owing to the fact that the contracting parties were engaged 25 years ago, when they lived in Titusville, and that they met recently after a separation of a quarter of a century. The happy couple will renew their youth in a wedding trip through the eastern cities.

COUNTY BUREAU RECOMMENDED

Grand Jury Takes Cognizance of Crimes Committed in Suburban Districts.

NO LAW FOR CONSTABULARY

District Attorney Haymaker Says Act of Assembly Is Needed for Mounted Force, But Will Ask for Eight Assistants.

Crimes in the suburban districts of Allegheny county have been so numerous of late, that even the grand jury has taken cognizance of the state of affairs and yesterday, during a one day's session held to pass upon jail cases, took occasion to call the court's attention to the fact that a county constabulary, or at least a county detective bureau, is badly needed and should be established at once. Judge Macfarlane, who received the presentment of the body, expressed his approval of it in the highest terms. In addressing the court, the grand jury made this statement:

In considering 500 cases heard by this jury, and analyzing the same, we find that a large proportion of the crimes are committed in the suburban districts where there is a large percentage of foreign population. These people, in many cases, have no conception of the law, nor have they the proper consideration of the rights of persons or property. We believe that the 500 cases are only a percentage of the crimes committed.

We learn that the detective force at the command of the district attorney for the county is limited. It is absolutely inadequate to cope with the question, and is the same as when the county had but half its present population.

Strong Recommendations Made.

We respectfully recommend that the district attorney be allotted a sufficient number of detectives to more efficiently prosecute his office and preserve peace and good order.

Further, we recommend that some form of county constabulary be inaugurated and maintained in the county outside the municipalities of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and McKeesport, for the better protection of the people, as we believe the present system and the officers at its command inadequate. We believe, if it were possible, that if the constabulary were appointed by the court and such appointments were made at large, that a better and more efficient force and service would be maintained and better protection afforded and better order result.

This return is signed by Francis J. Torrance, the foreman of the body.

District Attorney John C. Haymaker was pleased with the recommendation of the grand jury, as he said it would gratify what may possibly take place in a few days—the establishment of a bureau to assist the county detective in his work. Continuing, he said:

This talk of a county constabulary, however, is an impossibility under the present circumstances, as it will require an act of assembly before any power is conferred upon the county commissioners to act in such a matter. Then a county constabulary is not necessary. If I understand what is meant by a county constabulary. There are many portions of Allegheny county that are and always have been as peaceable as the grave. You can't have a force large enough to watch every man's house, and if we had a mounted constable for every street and every lane, crimes would take place anyhow. It is only in the bad spots of the county that additional peace officers or detectives are needed to prevent crime, and I reiterate the that which occurred at West Liberty, or where large bodies of foreigners are employed by contractors.

Haymaker Will Lose No Time.

I propose to meet the county commissioners after the Crosby case is finished, and make some recommendations which will be the result of careful study and care. I expect to ask for six or eight additional detectives to assist the county detective, which office is created by an act of assembly. These men will be detailed to find slots, or will be used to ferret in certain localities in which are at large. When we hear of a dangerous place in the county, we will send the entire force there to preserve order, especially on pay days when there is no speed limit to men's money and create trouble. Camps will be carefully watched and county detectives will always be stationed where large forces of men are employed on railroads, in tunnels, etc.

I don't care about going into the details of the proposed bureau until I consult the commissioners and see what they are willing to give me. I do not think an act of assembly is necessary to reinforce the county detectives, and will so recommend to the county commissioners. These assistants will be paid from $100 to $150 a month, or whatever the commissioners are willing to charge up to the district attorney's office. Four fifths of the townships in this county need no additional officers. All have constables elected by the people and they are well able to keep the peace, except in the rare instances I have mentioned. Similar crimes escaped since the world began and criminals will escape until it is ended. We can't hope to apprehend all who commit crime, but we will do our part. With seven or eight men as can be done with a hundred, the force that that kind would be idle most of the time and could not possibly justify the expense.

The grand jury approved the report of the viewers of the bridge crossing the Allegheny river from Natrona to Braeburn, Burrell township, Westmoreland county, and unless exceptions are filed, no obstructions remain to prevent the building of the joint bridge.
